Chapter 280

FACE THE MUSIC

Mice

A newspaper article on "mice" in Lynchburg's News & Advance, July 27, 1997, C3, caught my attention.

It was a story about the results of an experiment by a 16-year- old Suffolk, Virginia high school student, David Merrill, that proved that hard rock music is bad for the brain.

Young David bought 72 male lab mice, a stop watch, a 5 x 3-foot maze, and obtained some CD's. His experiment won top honors in the state fair.

The 16-year-old tested the mice and found that on average it took 10 minutes for them to find their way through the maze. He then divided the mice into three groups of 24 mice each; a control group, a hard-rock group, and a classical group. The mice were conditioned by identical feedings and 12 hours of light each day. Then, the group chosen to listen to hard-rock and classical music were exposed to their selected music for 10 hours a day. After three weeks of hard rock music, the hard-rock mice took 30 minutes to go through the maze. David says that it shows that hard rock has a negative effect.

The control group that had not been subjected to music was sent through the maze without music three times a week for three weeks. With this practice, they were able to cut 5 minutes from their original measured time. Mice that listened to Mozart knocked 8 1/2 minutes off their time. The hard rock mice took 20 minutes longer. David said that the project had to be cut short because the hard rock mice killed each other.

Some time later I called young David to discuss his experiment. The youngster talked like a seasoned scientist when discussing his findings. He was enthusiastic that I had read the article and he expressed disappointment that no one else had called. It was his opinion that the behavior of his mice explained a great deal of what is happening to our society today. I had to agree with him. Media-promoted-rock is scrambling the brains of our youngsters. I did not say this to him, but it is my considered opinion that media-sponsored hard-rock music is no accident.

The Mozart Effect

A few months later the Executive Director of the Richmond Symphony, Michele T. Walter, sent a letter to the paper extolling the benefits of classical music.¹

According to Ms. Walter, recent studies show that listening to classical music and/or getting music training makes children smarter. Students with musical training outperform others on the Scholastic Assessment Test and according to the College Entrance Examination Board, test results have shown that students who studied music at least four years scored 59 points higher than others on the verbal and 44 points higher on math.

The research done by Frances Rauscher and Gordon Shaw on "The Mozart Effect", shows that exposure to classical music even for short periods has a beneficial effect on intelligence. A 1993 study demonstrated that students who listened to 10 minutes of Mozart's piano Sonata K 448 scored higher on IQ tests than students who heard silence or listened to relaxation tapes.

The American Demographics magazine states that about 2/3rds of the graduate students in America like classical music. Fifty-seven percent of those who've attained only a high school diploma say country music is their favorite.

The disputed issue with researchers is whether smart people produce classical music or classical music produces smart people. No one knows why, but it appears that classical music produces smart people.

The American Demographics magazine predicts that rock will become America's dominant music form. They state that the reason is that MTV and other forms of mass marketing are exposing more younger people to rock than ever before.

Migraines? Try Mozart

An article in USA Weekend, Sept. 5-7, 1997, p25, states that a half-hour of classics equals 10mg of Valium. The article relates that continuing studies on critical care patients at Baltimore's St. Agnes Hospital show that Bach, Debussy, Haydn or Mozart can substitute for sedatives.

Studies at the University of California show that Mozart's Sonata for Two Pianos in D Major buoyed student's abilities to distinguish shapes and objects - a higher-brain activity. Experiments last year revealed that students with musical experience exceeded national average SAT scores by 51 points on verbal and 39 on math. Studies by psychologist Georgi Lozanov show that the easy pace of Mozart or Vivaldi helps people to memorize poetry and spelling words. Mozart inspires predictability and safety which fuels productivity. Campbell says that Mozart is like pure mathematics. "It is art for art's sake."

Face The Music

Napoleon was a military genius. He marched his men at 120 steps a minute when the rest of the Europe's armies marched at 80. This gave him an enormous advantage in mobility. He also used the draft. The Germans or the Austrians might have 100,000 well-trained soldiers present on the battlefield - but, Napoleon often had double or triple that number. Something else, after losing half of his army because of cold, sickness, wounds and battlefield deaths, Napoleon would disappear for two or three weeks and reappear in a different place with more full-strength regiments than he had before. How did he do that?

His secret was that he constantly trained reserve cadré to lead new regiments of recruits. He would take battle-hardened officers and non-coms from his old regiments, give them wagon trains loaded with uniforms and weapons, and send them into a fresh recruiting area. Knocking on farm house doors, these recruiters would draft every able bodied man they could find into the ranks. New regiments seemed to spring from the ground.

The new recruits marched to the next battle field, receiving on- the-job-training as they went. Marching along the road in their new regiments they were taught to march in step and load their muskets while marching. Halting to rest they were first required to deploy into battle line on either side of the road - or stacking arms they rested in squares that could repel imaginary hostile cavalry. Their maneuver finished, they lay down in formation to rest. The quicker the maneuver was finished the sooner the rest. In a few days, complicated military evolutions became second nature to raw recruits. Rising at the sound of the bugle, they quickly learned to reform column-of-march and off they would go.

The crash of musketry was constantly heard along the route. The recruits practiced loading and firing at targets selected by veteran sergeants. These sergeants stood at the end of the battleline and used their practiced eye to order "#6 - lower", "#14 - higher." Satisfied, he ordered - "FIRE!"

By the time these farm boys reached the enemy they had received as much training as most of their enemies who had spent years learning their trade, and their officers and non-commissioned officers were better trained.

Napoleon had one further secret weapon - the glue that kept raw recruits in ranks and kept them from running away - MUSIC! Napoleon's troops marched to music. Military bands accompanied French regiments everywhere they went. Band members were considered as essential as the renowned French grenadiers themselves. Diaries of Napoleon's foes are replete with the terror produced by the ferocious assault of Napoleons troops and the incredible bravery of his young soldier boys, all marching in step and the band music, the kettle drums, the base drum, the trumpets and horns, louder, and louder - and then the order to HALT! PRESENT! FIRE! Veteran Englishmen, Scots, and Germans for the rest of their lives spoke about the gut-wrenching experience of "facing the music".

Light Horse Overture

We always sang around the piano. Mother would play and we would sing. She would play WWI songs that meant so much to her and Dad. Then she would play the songs from the Southern War For Independence. She played the songs our fathers brought over from Scotland, the English sea chanteys from Tidewater, and the German songs from the great Shenandoah. Each song told a story put to music. We learned a lot of history that way and didn't even know that it was history.

After military school, the first regiment I joined was Company H, 116th, 29th Division. It was Lynchburg's old 11th Virginia militia regiment with a new name. It had fought in the Indian wars, the wars with Britain, the "War Between The States," and WWI. I carried ammo for machine guns. Today, everyone recognizes the 116th regiment of the 29th Division. It is the regiment that took such heavy casualties at Normandy. When I joined it was manned by the same WWII veterans who had fought in the same companies and squads during the war. The old militia regiment voted to join the National Guard because the government furnished "free" weapons and uniforms. It used to be that everyone had to buy their own equipment - which was expensive.²

I was at Camp Indiantown Gap sitting with my comrades around a great fire. The Division band played Light Horse Overture. I had never heard such music before in my life. It sounded like horses. Horses at a trot, at a gallop, at a charge! I had never heard such. I didn't know that music could do that. Horses is how I made money while going to school. Breaking horses for people and riding academies. I would have joined a cavalry regiment if I could, but the United States didn't have cavalry regiments anymore. To this day, I think of that moment around the camp fire - and the music of horses hooves pulsing through my whole being. The carefully controlled trot, the controlled gallop, and the wild abandon of the charge. To me Light Cavalry Overture was "Brandy Station", the biggest cavalry battle of the War, it was the final charge at "Appomattox" when our own 2nd Virginia Cavalry out of Lynchburg charged right through the entire Yankee army and came home to Miller Park, called roll, and disbanded. They never did surrender.

Manassas

We were returning from Camp Indiantown Gap, Pennsylvania, in trucks. It was raining. We left at 500 hours and it rained the whole way. All day long the convoy crawled its way from Pennsylvania to Virginia. The spray from passing cars soaked us. We were wet, windchilled, and miserable

² The government told us that the regiment was still a militia, but they lied. The National Guard was actually under control of the president who had the power to nationalize the unit and use it against their own people if he so desired. We didn't know this until they did it at Little Rock.

when we reached our bivouac area on the gloomy old Manassas Battlefield. It was night. I had heard stories of bony hands and feet showing above ground of bodies buried in shallow graves.

In the dark and in the steady rain we pitched our tents on the soggy ground and were issued cold C-rations. Sleep in the mud was impossible. Soaked to the skin we stood all night long in little groups and shivered.

Along about 0330 hours we heard a rattling way down the sloping hill near the creek. Then we heard, "Ten'hup!" "Forward'arch!" Then, to the tapping of a single drum an unknown body of men marched up the gravel road. The regiment crowded both sides of the road to see what was happening; Then, the regimental band broke into DIXIE! The whole regiment broke into cheers and rebel yells - from the descendants of men who had fought in the same old regiment on that same old battlefield. It was glorious! The blood returned to our chilled limbs and we were alive, once again!

Cross Country

A few years later war broke out in Korea. I volunteered into the Air Force. It was 1951. I was flying my first 3-leg night cross- country from Spence Field, Moultrie, Georgia, to Albany to Tifton and back. There must have been more than fifty of us - a long line of red exhausts in the darkness one after another trailing out into the distance.

Looking at the horizon in the dark, it was hard to tell the sky from the ground. I constantly had to keep my eye on the altimeter to keep proper altitude, my ball and stick to keep from skidding, and my artificial horizon to keep my wings level, all the while trying to spot town lights along the way for landmarks.

To keep from riding up on the plane in front I had to watch airspeed, and to see how far I had come at 130 mph I had to keep track of the time, and I had to watch for the lights of towns to see when I was supposed to turn onto the next leg of my flight.

Then, there was the "accident going somewhere to happen" behind me who had to climb above me to avoid a collision, and the one in front who twice turned on to what he had thought was the "Tifton- leg" of the flight, and, discovering his mistake, turned back again - and almost flew his plane into mine.

The exhaust on the right side of my cockpit looked like a blast furnace. For a second panic surged through me. I thought my plane might be on fire. Then there was the danger of being run into by jets flying out of Albany. We had been warned about them. Over my right shoulder in the direction of Albany, I could distinctly see a green light and a red light. The distance between them was gradually getting wider and wider - it was a jet coming my way, and he didn't see me. The green and red lights suddenly got wider - he was on top of me; frantically I pushed the nose of my plane down, my heart was in my mouth. My plane was in a dive, the ground was rushing up - I pulled back on the stick with all my might and the nose rose just in time to clear a Georgia forest.

The two lights, red and green were now wide apart - my phantom jet was in fact two separate planes. Hands shaking and mind in turmoil I quietly found a place in the long line of planes snaking single-file across the night skies of Georgia.

I cut on the radio and the strains of "Colonel Bogey" filled the earphones. During the Korean War radio stations often played military band music to honor their servicemen. The music did its work. Immediately, I settled down. My mind cleared and focused on the job at hand. I was master of the plane and this night cross- country became something that "anyone" could do.

Tannhauser

Bill Bryant and I grew up together. He introduced me to Wagner's "Ride Of The Valkyries". From this I soon discovered "Tannhouser." This was the music that told of knights, dragons and dreams. Many has been the time I have been on top of a lonely mountain in Virginia looking into the distance. The only thing that I found that could adequately express the greatness of God and his creation was "Tannhouser." A very disapproving church organist at my insistence played the more stirring parts from it at my wedding.

People always talk about the bride - about how beautiful she is and all. They don't think about the groom and what he is going through.

I can tell you about the groom. He's out in a side-room waiting for what to him is the kick-off at a football game. Playing football isn't a spectator sport, especially when you are a lineman. I was a lineman. Linemen aren't supposed to run the ball, but there I am up front and I know that the kicker is going to kick the ball to me, like he used to do, time after time. Again I am obligated to pick up the ball and try to run when that's not my job. Getting married, like a lineman receiving a kickoff, is serious!

Then the sounds of "Tannhouser" came. My soul quieted and then soared. I had made a decision and it is the right decision. The game of life is in play - for the rest of your life.

Conclusion

Man is made in the image of the WORD. His God-given music is food and drink to feed the desires and aspirations of his soul; it directs his thoughts and ambitions into fast flowing streams that feed both the great sea and the tall mountain of his existence.

Man's enemies know this and feed him discordant music, harsh sounds that confound the workings of his mind, and sex-songs to misdirect his path. Every day he is bombarded with cananite³ sex-music to drug his natural self-restraint and mis-direct his path.⁴

We must keep alive our music to direct and instruct our children. For, it is certain that in time our children will give us a leader to save us from our captivity.

Our Saxon ancestors had war-songs they sang before battle; Napoleon his Marseilles; the Scots - Scotland the Brave; the Reformation - A Mighty Fortress; the Southland - Dixie; Germany - Raise The Banner. The war song for us and our age has yet to be written. But, when it is - we shall all sing

³ "The meaning of Cain is 'hater'. I Adam & Eve 74:7

⁴ "After Cain ... and his children had multiplied ... there was one of them ... Genun ... Satan came to him in his childhood, and he made sundry instruments and horns, and string instruments, cymbals, and psalters, and lyres and harps, and flutes; and he played on them at all times and at every hour. And when he played on them Satan came into them, so that from among them were heard beautiful and sweet sounds, that ravished the heart ... and when they played, it pleased the children of Cain, ... while Satan inflamed their hearts, one with another, and increased lust among them. Satan also taught Genun to bring strong drink out of corn; and this Genun used to bring together companies upon companies in drink-houses; ... Then when they were drunk, hatred and murder increased ... Then sin increased greatly; until a man married his own sister, or daughter, or mother, ... or the daughter of his father's sister." I Adam & Eve 20:1-10 ... make them understand they ought not to hearken to Satan, lest he destroy them ... sever thy children and thy children's children from Cain's children; do not let them ever mix with those, nor come near them either in their words or in their deeds." II Adam & Eve 8:14-15 it with one voice - and the song of our enemies will depart from our land.

Saxon News From Africa by K.J

We greet you from a deeply troubled country with all its woe. However, some of the things that have happened are not that bad. For instance the acknowledgment by Dres Bruwer and Piet Gous that it was Ferdi Hartzenberg (Conservative Party leader) who gave them the order to talk to the ANC. In exchange for a promise for no white revolt the ANC agreed to respect their land ownership. Ferdi Hartzenberg had widely proclaimed himself as the white leader to follow saying "leave the ANC to me, I know how to work with blacks." But, foolishly, he took the promise of black terrorists seriously. Then there is the confession of Janusz Walus⁵ before the "Truth Commission" that he was ordered by the Conservative Party to kill Hani. According to the radio, his attorney told him to do so.

The appearance of Winnie Mandela is completely different. In spite of many witnesses linking her to 20 human rights abuses, including 8 murders, assaults and kidnappings, it will not surprise us if she comes out of the hearings smelling like a rose. With the support of our so-called justice minister Dullah Omar, things might turn in her favour.

I do not need to say much about the "priests." They oppress our people as you so rightly state in the November Hoskins Report. I only have to listen to Afrikaans church members talking. One preacher, talking about racial separation in the ⁵ Alleged assassin of Chris Hani, #2 man in the ANC.

Bible, agreed that separation is a Biblical teaching, but today we have to accommodate all religions.

Some from the Dutch Reformed Church would even include black demons and ancestor worship in churches to make the blacks feel at home - just like the Roman Catholic Church does with pagan worship.

Another preacher said that we must resign ourselves to the inevitable. How conveniently they forget that they all belong to the "Broederbond" and according to a document dated back in 1986 its leadership proclaimed that a black government was unavoidable. Since then the preachers have worked for a black "takeover" and they held talks with the ANC to bring it about.

Church members say that no matter how many of these ministers serve a congregation, they never seem to find the time to visit their flocks, except for the deacon who comes once a month for the tithe money. One of these ministers said that Christ was not white, but rather olive or brown, like all Hebrews, and that whites have some nerve to insist that it is they who should rule.

From that same church the Rev Hector Jooste refused to apologize for his slanderous statements about the HNP (right-wing political party) and its leader. This sad state of affairs prevails in all the churches in SA, save for a few exceptions. No wonder that we experience no blessings when the morals of the country lie in tatters and whites live in fear of being killed around the next corner. I do not know what it will take to change matters. It is as if many Afrikaners are stupefied.

In this dilemma the HNP is slowly making headway by being honest and steadfast, and in spite of a media blackout they hold meetings everywhere. It has been a long fight for nearly 30 years, and with the latest disclosures, no other party remains to help the volk regain its self-respect.

Our white work force is very demoralized, be it in the civil service or with private companies. In the civil service you find the inverted pyramid with blacks or Indians on the top. In one case 65 replaced the 9 who did the work previously. Since blacks lack knowledge and ability they need advisers, handsomely paid like themselves. Next, some token whites, who earn more than average and do little, but are amicable towards their masters. And, lastly the few white workers who carry the whole workload. Their pay is the least possible.

Truly it is the destroyers who are in ruling positions. Those who thought it possible for blacks to govern are proven wrong. With best wishes, K. J.

LETTERS

MO'HO': "Dear Admired and Greatly Appreciated Maximum Achiever In His Service: I noted what you said about the uncomely wench who passed - and my Thelma, as well as your dear wife, did flinch at your language - Perhaps you should have called the whore a strumpet'!!!" Byron de la Beckwith, VI, Hinds County Det. Center, 407 E. Pascogoula St., Jackson, MS 39201

RKH: Beckwith was tried 3 times for shooting the racial agitator Medgar Evers. Convicted in the third trial by a jury loaded with strangers, he appealed stating that the Constitution guaranteed him the right of a quick trial and that 30 years between trials violated this guarantee. The Supreme Court of Alabama turned down his appeal.

FEUDAL IRELAND: "Richard: As a transplanted Irishman I look back at my Emerald Isle and see the Catholic feudal system fighting the Anglican feudal system for supremacy. Blood is being spilled by the bucket, but the Irish people themselves will be the prize of the victor - whichever side wins.

"The same thing applies to Scotland. The Scots are moving towards independence. As soon as they get their 'independence' their old Catholic-Anglican-Presbyterian priest-hoods and their merchant- landowners will combine with their newly media-elected government to properly keep the people in their place. Their feudal system will remain after independence. Let's hope they have the wisdom to take the next step to take back their freedom. Otherwise the slave has just changed the name of his chain." G.M. - Maryland

UNFILTERED NEWS

GAY: "The Omega Journal of Death and Dying reveals that the median age at death of homosexuals who die of AIDS is 39. The figure that is not publicized is that homosexual men who die of causes other than AIDS die at a median age of 42. This is compared to a median death age of 75 among heterosexual married men. Not only is homosexuality an ungodly lifestyle, it is an unhealthy one as well. Blythe Banner

HATE CRIMES: Headlines scream: "Clinton Targets Hate!" Clinton forgets that God hates and has told us to hate. Those who "hate" God violate his commandments. Those who hate God are worthy of hate in return:

"I will render vengeance to my enemies, and will reward them that hate me." Deut 32:41.

"Do not I hate them, O Lord, that hate thee? And am not I grieved with those that rise up against thee? I hate them with perfect hatred: I count them mine enemies." Ps 139:21- 22

"The meaning of Cain is 'hater,' because he hated his sister in their mothers womb ... Therefore did Adam name him Cain." I Adam & Eve 74:7

"He that hateth me hateth my Father also." John 15:23

"Shouldest thou help the ungodly, and love them that hate the Lord? therefore is wrath upon thee from before the Lord." II Chron 19:2

"All haters will have no hope in the land of the living." Jubilees 22:22

We also have those who instruct their readers to hate the apple of God's eye:⁶

"Every Jew, somewhere in his being, should set apart a zone of hate - healthy virile hate - for what the German personifies and for what persists in the German. To do otherwise would be a betrayal of the dead ..." Elie Wiesel, Legends of Our Time

Hatred of Christians is a human tradition since the great separation at the time of Christ, and, in ages before that when Herod the Edomite killed the Israelite children.

⁶ "He that toucheth Israel toucheth the apple of His eye." Zech 2:8

Clinton reverses the definition of "hate" and accuses the Saxon of hate when the Saxon is many times more likely to be a victim of interracial crime than other races are. But then again, one should expect this. Clinton's mother says that Clinton is a mixed-breed.⁷ Clinton is God's curse on America. He is what America deserves.

WACO POSTSCRIPT: "... On April 19th, about 6AM, two specially equipped M-60 tanks began to punch holes into the Mt. Carmel structure and insert CS gas. ... What neither the media nor the nation could see, while the front of the structure was under attack for 6 hours, more tanks were busy behind the building; busy in the same deadly way. There the tanks were accompanied by two men firing machine guns at every possible exit. These hidden activities were recorded from helicopters using infrared film - now reproduced in black and white in this remarkable documentary. ... Only nine Davidians managed to escape. The TV observers began to say, 'They're committing suicide!' ... The suicide theory, heavily spread by the media, became the rationale of the BATF and the FBI, and the government in general. It proved very useful, moving officialdom as far as seemed possible from the charge of mass murder." (OTTO SCOTT'S COM-PASS, 828 S. 299th Place, Federal Way, WA 98003, $50/yr.)

⁷ The New York Times, on August 13, 1992, p. C1, carried an article by Todd S. Purdum, stating that our president Bill Clinton is a descendant of Irish farmers and Cherokee Indians on his mother's side. Speaking of Clinton's mother the article said: "At the age of 69, this descendant of Irish farmers and Cherokee Indians has survived a mastectomy and controversies over the death of two patients in her care, and has seen her younger son, Roger, go to prison for a year and half on drug charges" The scripture says: "Thou shalt in any wise set him king over thee, whom the Lord thy God shall choose: one from among thy brethren shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayest not set a stranger (Heb: nokriy - foreign, adulterous.) over thee, which is not thy brother." De 17:15

RKH: A jury in San Antonio found 11 Branch Davidians innocent of all but minor charges, and recommended leniency. A hanging Federal Judge Walter Smith sentenced five of the Davidians to 40 years in prison and fined them from $2 to $10 thousand and ordered them to pay restitution of $1.1 million dollars. The rest were sentenced to 5-15 year terms and had fines levied against them also. The documentary film can be ordered from American Freedom Network, 1-800-205-6245.

TURKS IN VIRGINIA: WISE, VIRGINIA: "Turkish television crews have been visiting families in the mountains along the Kentucky- Virginia border in search of Melungeons. ..." News & Advance Nov. 13, 1995 A-5

RKH: In isolated mountain settlements in SW Virginia we have a dark skinned, dark eyed group of people called "Melungeons." Tests have proven these people to be descended from Turkic peoples from North Africa who settled here long before the White man came. Often mistaken for Indians, they are a different breed.

The interesting thing is that TV crews from Turkey have discovered these people. One thing we must never forget - the great ideal of Attila the Hun and later Genghis Khan was to unite the Turkic peoples of the world into one great federation. Turk people can tell the difference between a Saxon and one of their own. Liberals must learn basic common sense in the days ahead. If they continue to insist that all people are basically the same, they are in for a rude awakening. The Catalonian Fields is a prime example. See HR, #215, Aug 3, 1993.

CENSORSHIP: Interior ministers of the 15 countries that make up the European Union agreed to clamp down on the printing and distribution of "racist" books and pamphlets. Michael Howard, Britain's Home Secretary, said, I think it's important that we cooperate to stop racism." (ANA - Internet)

Mexican Dual Citizenship

MEXICO CITY: The Mexican government is campaigning hard for an amendment to the Mexican Constitution that will allow Mexicans living in the U.S. to retain Mexican nationality rights even when they adopt American citizenship. In effect, this will allow Mexico to place its own voting agents in the US with ties to their own homeland - an invasion force if you will.

FOOD

Food From Northern Virginia

Mother's father, Dick Kelly, lived in Culpeper Court House in northern Virginia on the plains of Culpeper. He and Grandmother lived in a great big barn of a house just on the other side of Mountain Run on the Sperryville Turnpike.

For Sunday dinner the leaves would be put in the dining room table. Granddaddy sat at one end and grandmother at the other. Children, spouses and grandchildren took their places at the table. Granddaddy blessed the food, and everyone began to eat.

To Grandmother's right were Aunt Harriet and Uncle Howard, Aunt Maude and Uncle Gordon and Cousin Harriet Payne, Uncle Alex and Frances. To Granddaddy's right sat Uncle Roy Hume, Uncle Thompson, Mother, Dad, me, my sisters Emily and Elizabeth Garnett and Aunt Lucy. Then, there would be Aunt Lucy's boyfriend and Glassel Stringfellow, the town character and everyone's friend, and one or two others.

It was during the '30s depression. Everyone seemed to be out of work or going back to school to learn to do something different to make a living. Dad had gone back to medical school to specialize in Eye, Ear, Nose & Throat - nobody seemed to need a doctor who was just a plain old general practitioner. Granddaddy took care of all his seven children who had come back home bringing their spouses and their children. It was that or starve. That's the way it was with families all over the country.

The table was loaded with food. There was ham, wild turkey, squirrel and rabbit, venison and bear meat. There were all kinds of vegetables from the garden out back, and cornbread, rolls, and sliced bread, sweet milk, butter milk, and coffee and all kinds of desserts.

There were three or four interesting conversations going on all at the same time. Uncle Alex and Daddy were talking about Mr. Yeowell's bay being entered in the county July 4th fairground races. Everyone who had seen him run figured him to be a ringer who would make his backers a lot of money before the visiting crowds from Washington and Baltimore found him out. Uncle Thompson and Russell King were talking about the big bass that Angus Green had caught at Snake Castle; Glassell Stringfellow was telling the ladies about "running the drummer" (I must tell that story some day), and Uncle Roy Bridger was telling about pulling a tooth whose root had a hook on it. He had to break the jaw to get to it. It was so fascinatingly gruesome that I only half heard the other stories; I missed so much of each story trying to listen to all of them at the same time that I had to spend the rest of the afternoon hunting everyone down and asking them questions to find out how their stories ended, and it was no easy job tracking everyone down.

Grandmother was out showing off her 500 new chicks that had just arrived or her flower gardens; Granddaddy was in the barn seeing to the new calf, the smoke house inspecting the larder; or inspecting the newly arrived shoats; or the feed that had just been delivered. Uncle Thompson had a .22 rifle and was competing with Uncle Howard shooting mulberries off the mulberry tree, and my aunts were doing the dishes, looking at Grandma's flowers, or sitting on the front porch sewing and talking, and the kids were everywhere.

For a little kid, Sunday dinner was so exciting that I can't even tell you how exciting it was.

Food From Daddy's Country

Food was different in Tidewater where Daddy came from. Daddy was born at Hoskins Hill at Dunnsville. That was five miles from Hoskins Creek at Tappahannock where the first Hoskins lived. Creeks in Tidewater are different from creeks further inland. In Lynchburg, you can step over most creeks. Great three masted sailing vessels used to come up Hoskins Creek. Try stepping over that creek!

In Tidewater the water is salty and the tides rise and fall - even a hundred miles or more from the Chesapeake Bay. The Rappahannock is a mile wide at Tappahannock, which is far inland, and seven miles wide near its mouth.

From as early as I can remember Daddy taught me to take a live blue-claw crab, hold it so it wouldn't bite me with its pincers, then, pull its shell off, and pull off a leg to bait hooks.

Blue fish and croakers loved to eat blue-claw crabs. When they had lost their hard shell and became soft shell - they were a delicacy to eat. Of course, hard-shell crabs were still good steamed.

Then, there were oysters. I never could do it, but Daddy could tell you whether an oyster came from the Rappahannock, York, or James by its taste. The people who could do this were either good tricksters or they really could. They said the difference was caused by the water. I never could tell.

Daddy had his own oyster knife. It was a rounded dullish two edged blade stuck in a wooden bulb handle. Daddy could shuck an oyster so fast that you scarcely could see him do it. He got paid for doing it as a boy. I worked on one for 5 minutes without shucking it. It took Daddy less then 3 seconds.

At the Urbanna Oyster Festival the colored boys stood behind shucking tables serving oysters on the half-shell. As the day wore on the piles of oyster shells grew taller and taller and at the last the oyster tables were standing on oyster piles three feet high and the boys were were still shucking oysters as fast as they could. They had to lean way over to hand the opened oysters down to the customer.

The crowds in the thousands surged back and fourth in that sleepy little fishing town sampling oysters, soft-shell crab, shrimp, clams, all sorts of fish, and even eels for the those who preferred the exotic. There was even a band which played Dixieland while wearing fireman's helmets and seated on a big old firetruck. I'd never seen such goings on before.

Courting Kathleen

Back in Lynchburg Daddy would sometimes take his family to the Virginian Hotel for Sunday dinner after church.

He would always order a half-dozen raw oysters as an appetizer. His three children did the same. Mother ordered something else. It was the custom. That custom cost me a girl friend.

I was courting Kathleen Button, Senator Button's daughter. She was a pretty thing. She was undecided between me and a West Point cadet she had met while I was in service. I took the bull by the horns, put the big pot in the little one, and took $20 from my fast dwindling discharge pay to take her to dinner at the Virginian Hotel. She asked me to order for her as girls will often do. For an appetizer I ordered raw oysters on the half shell like we Hoskins always do. I dug right in, but I noticed that she didn't participate. In fact, she was involuntarily mimicking me. When I opened my mouth wide for an oyster, she half-way opened hers. When I chewed with relish I could see her jaw muscles working even though she didn't have anything in her mouth.

Nothing went right between us after that. Kathleen married her West Point cadet. Later on she confided to a friend that anyone who would eat a raw oyster would eat anything and she didn't want anything to do with someone like that. It was the oysters that did it. Anyway, four years later I met someone twice as nice, someone who didn't mind my eating oysters.

Ducks

Ducks were another staple. Ben Lomond was built a mile back from the river on the bluffs overlooking the Rappahannock flood plains. The ducks would fly from the river heading south and they would clear the bluff by only six or seven feet. Servants would hide behind the rose bushes and when the ducks would fly over the servants would stand up and swing long poles to break the duck's wings. In this way they would gather a half dozen ducks for supper.

Another way to get ducks was to use "boarding-guns". These boarding-guns had been handed down from generation to generation in Tidewater families. In the old days there were pirates on the river and bay. Every sailing vessel had a boarding gun or two mounted on the poop deck. It was only about two and a half feet long and was mounted on a swivel. If pirates tried to board, a defender would carry the boarding-gun to the rail that presented a clear field of fire. The gun would be aimed, powder placed in and on top of the fusehole, and a match touched it off. The gun would roar - scattering two hands full of musket balls, nails, scrap iron or gravel into the boarders.¹

The pirates had long gone but the guns remained. Mounted on the bows of skiffs and fired into the endless flocks of ducks - 20 or 30 could be downed in a single blast.² Ducks were a food staple in Tidewater in the old days, as were crabs and oysters. The crabs and oysters are almost all gone now and the flocks of ducks are much diminished.

Infections

One of my earliest memories is of Daddy with a surgical knife standing ready to lance my ear. My inner ear would fill with fluid and the pain would be so bad that I can't describe it. Daddy was a doctor. He didn't know of any way to relieve the pain caused by the pressure except to lance my eardrum. The knife scared me to death. I would fight like a wild animal and it would take a couple of grown-ups to hold me still while Dad performed the procedure. I was frightened to death and hated that knife.

² Old timers told me stories about flocks of Passenger Pigeons so numerous that they would take weeks to pass. The sun would be blotted out by their sheer number - the trees groaned under their weight as they rested. One could almost fire blindfolded overhead and secure a supper. It was almost the same with ducks.

One day I was swimming in the Mountain Run next to the upper swinging footbridge and cut my toe on a piece of glass. It got infected. Daddy was at school, so Cousin Wright (Dr. Wright Kelly) came over time after time to lance it. I spent most of the summer on the bed.

When I was seven it was my appendix. The incision wouldn't heal. My side swelled up and one day it burst and drenched my pajamas. It was good that it burst when it did, because that was the day I was scheduled to go to the University Hospital in Charlottesville to have my side opened.

When I was 15 I was a cadet at military school. I fired on the rifle team. A ricochet caught me in the left elbow. The bullet was removed and a bandage applied. It was a clean wound. Still, I got bloodstream infection. In just two days my arm swelled larger than my leg and I couldn't bear anyone to touch it. They sent me to the infirmary and called Dad. Dad secured some bootleg penicillin and saw to it that I got shots every four hours day and night, awake or sleeping I received a shot. It saved my arm. Dad said it saved my life. This was during WWII, and I was the first non-military person to receive penicillin in the state of Virginia.

Later, it was boils, infected sinuses, flu, constant colds, and ulcers. With these ailments I still did the things a growing boy and young man was expected to do - everything from chores to playing football and boxing. Use your imagination and you may catch a glimmer of what it felt like to have your boils hit by an opponent in a scrimmage.

The Cure

I was married, had two children, my life was a mess, and my health a disaster. On April 28, 1965, 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon sitting in my green rocking chair on the front porch of my house I agreed to obey God and do whatever He told me to do. In return I expected Him to look after me.

I had put the decision off because I had already served two hitches in the military and was cautious about "enlisting". I knew all about "enlistment talk" and I also knew what happened once you put your name on the dotted line - the talk was often different from the walk. Also, I remembered other Lynchburg boys who rushed to join the Marines after being promised fun and games and a few weeks later found themselves in Korea getting themselves killed. Some of them hardly knew how to load a rifle. Frankly, I was afraid that my new Boss might do the same to me.

But really, in my condition I didn't have anything to lose. The Lord sure wasn't getting much when he got me. If all He wanted was to jerk me around - go for it! Things couldn't get worse in my life and the promises said that they would get better. I took a chance and joined.

OK, I was in. Now, what do I do? I started reading the instruction manual. One of the first things my eyes fell on was this command:

"Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding." Prov 3:5

This goes against logic, but you've got to trust your commanding officer. So, if the Bible said do it - I did it.

The Result

One of the things the Bible ordered God's followers was to eat certain foods and not eat other foods. I did what I was told. The result is that since that April 28, 1965 I have hardly had a sick day - and except for accidents - neither have any of my children. My family is healthy. No infections; no on-going never-ending sicknesses. No boils.

Everyday I see people who are sick, just as I was once sick. I doubt if most of them will change their ways - they have all the answers - just as I once had all the answers.³ But, there is perhaps a chance that some will change - I did. To them I offer this observation gained from my studies;

There will be plagues. They are promised.⁴ The old, the sick, the weak and the Lawless will be taken first. Those who are strong in body and obedience will stand the best chance to survive.

Pandemics

A pandemic is a sickness that takes an above average number of victims on several continents at the same time. There have been many through the centuries. The Black Death of the 14th century, Smallpox of the 16th; Bubonic and non-venereal Syphilis of the 15th. These claimed up to two thirds of a nation's population.

I have often related the story my father told to me of his experience with the flu-epidemic of 1918.⁵

He was in the army and stationed at an eastern seaport. He was sent to town to inspect the health facilities. He found the hospitals full of sick, warehouses full, office buildings full, and people dying so fast that they were laid out on the sidewalk for the daily "dead-wagons" to pick up. The bodies were then taken and buried in mass graves.

The "Spanish flu" in October of 1918 killed 196,000 people in the United States. That was just one month. That is almost twice as many as have died from AIDS during its entire existence. Before the winter was over two billion had come down with the sickness and perhaps 40 million were dead - more than died from WWI itself. The outbreak was blamed on American soldiers who had contracted the disease from pigs they had eaten in America. There was no defense against this new form of killer flu.

Scavengers - Disease Reservoirs

God made scavengers to clean up the environment so that man would not get sick. Scavengers are walking disease banks - disease factories. A pig is a scavenger. He is made differently from clean animals. He can eat things many things that would be deadly to others without being affected - even deadly poisons like strychnine. The same is true for crabs, mussels, oysters, clams, and lobster. They eat carrion - the more rotten the better. When people eat a scavenger they eat what the scavenger has eaten.⁶

5 LAW - FRATICIDAL WAR: "Ye shall not ... fight against your brethren the children of Israel." 1 Kings 12:24 "Thou shalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge against the children of thy people." Lev 19:18. "Blessed is the man who does not direct his heart with malice against any man." Enoch 44:3. WWI was a fratricidal war - a clear violation of God's Law. God punishes such Law violations.

Ducks, catfish, ells, swine, turkey buzzards - they are all scavengers, and they are all disease factories.

Scarce Scavengers

The medical establishment of America and Europe have an on-going fight to save the lives of the lawless and the stupid who insist on eating forbidden foods that poison them. The lust for scavengers has reached the stage where the bays and oceans have lost most of the scavengers that formerly kept them clean. We have nearly eaten them out of existence! The world's waterways are verging becoming vast disease manufacturing cess-pools because the scavengers are no longer there to clean the filth from the water.

On my last trip to Tidewater I walked the shores and inlets where I crabbed and fished as a boy. Where hundreds of crabs and their young formerly swam - there was no movement - nothing. Not even a minnow. I did not see a single crab - small or big. They tell me that it is just as bad on the formerly thriving oyster banks. There are now so few oysters that it is hardly worth the while for oystermen to tong the survivors.

Hong Kong Flu

China is the source of many strains of flu virus. These viruses proliferate because China raises so many ducks.

⁶ My daughter is an emergency room nurse in Norfolk. She says that most emergencies are the result of those who have eaten scavengers. The poisons in the scavengers cause them to stop breathing. If they do not quickly receive a shot to counter-act the effects of the poison - they die.

Ducks are the main reservoir for human influenza virus - they can carry viruses without becoming sick.

When Ducks are near other scavengers which are also flu reservoirs the different viruses have a chance to combine. New hybrid viruses then emerge - viruses which the world has never heard of before.

To feed the ducks, Chinese farmers raise catfish in duck ponds. The ducks eat the baby catfish. The catfish are fed pig feces and also eat duck feces. Viruses are thus freely passed from pig to catfish to duck. Dead ducks and dead catfish are fed to the pigs. The result is the combining of viruses into new ones that cause periodic epidemics that carry off a few million Chinese before dying down - and then they spring up again somewhere else.

China is a land seething with diseases. Wild ducks who visit their more domestic brothers pick up newly hatched viruses which are then carried to distant lands to find new homes in the intestines of hunters who kill them for food. The ducks from the Rappahannock River; the crabs and oysters, the pig, catfish, squirrel, rabbit that I ate in Culpeper - they were the things that gave me the infections, the sicknesses that tormented me as a youngster.

A BRIEF SUMMARY OF PROHIBITED FOODS

FOOD	WHY PROHIBITED	REFERENCE
Blood	traditional disease carrier	Lev. 3:17
Fat	clogs arteries & veins	Lev. 3:17
Kidney & Liver	filter & bile producer	Lev 3:4
Pig	scavenger, parasitic	Lev 11:7
Rabbit	disease carrier	Lev. 11:5-6
Duck, Goose, Swan, Sea-birds & Web-footed birds	scavengers. Prohibition includes their eggs.	Lev 11:13-20; Deut. 14:12-18
Eels & Shell Fish	scavengers	Lev 11:10-20
Fruit of 1st 3 years	Lacking nourishment of mature fruit.	Lev 19:23-25

The forbidden animals listed in the chart are the disease factories that produced the 1918 "flu epidemic", the "Asian flu" of 1967; the "Hong Kong" flu of 1969 - and now 1000 other flu strains, one of which has now spread to chickens.

Today's chicken-flu is killing people in Hong Kong. Chickens raised with ducks are quickly infected and carry their infection to the lands to which they are exported. This chicken flu is the same one that broke out in Pennsylvania in 1983 and spread so rapidly that all the chickens in the state had to be killed. It erupted in Mexico in 1994 and 1995, and now this chicken flu virus has mutated to the point where it can infect and kill humans.

The Next Pandemic

The stage is now set for the next pandemic. Lawless man has allowed the seas to be converted into disease producing cesspools in which the scavengers that remain are overloaded disease factories. Disease bearing scavengers are actually raised as a food source. Lawless man not only tolerates strangers eating disease-bearing scavengers, but with heretical relish they do so themselves - and thereby gain the cure that accompanies the act.

One day on main street USA someone will cough and five people will be infected with a mutated virus that no one will have ever heard of. Then those five people will cough. Before three weeks will have passed most of the country will be infected and before an antidote can be manufactured - 3/4 of the population will be dead. If it does not happen this next time, it will happen one of these days.

Conclusion

God promised that he would destroy his people if they rejected him. It is not enough to go to church every Sunday and agree that you "believe in God." The Scriptures say:

"Thou believest there is one God; thou doest well; the devils also believe, and tremble." Jas 2:19

The Scriptures go on to say:

"If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15

God's Commandments were given to his people made in his image to save them from the consequences that come from disobedience.

God's food Laws are one of the Commandments. Obey them and live.⁷

Chapter 282

THE MERCHANT

To understand the role of the merchant in the International Trade Cartel, one must understand the role of the merchant in the Self-sufficient Farm System.

Self-sufficient Farm System

Man is made in the image of the WORD. The WORD ordered the land divided and never sold. The WORD appointed man a king and a priest to rule this kingdom; the WORD condemned man to work by the sweat of his brow. God made man a priest, king and worker. He also gave him time to develop a cottage industry, which allows him to exchange for things he did not make himself, making him a merchant also. Priest-king-merchant-worker; this is the ruler of the self-sufficient farm-kingdom created by God.

This kingdom is kept in proper order by God's Law which has been handed down from father to son from the distant past. God's Law will not tolerate any other God, or his law, ruling His people. God's WORD, is hostile to other gods. It frowns on episcopal kings and priests. It forbids taxes, monopoly, usury, and demands that strangers be banished.

To man, God's Commandments are the ultimate authority.
To the lawless they are the ultimate tyranny.

Man, made in the image of the WORD is a priest, a king & soldier, a merchant, and a worker. In his natural element he exercises all four functions in harmony one with another. The thing that makes the system work is God's LAW. The violation of God's LAW brings evil to the land.

The Merchant

God's Law says:

"The love of money is the root of all evil." 1 Ti 6:10

The Law also says:

"A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong; and a huckster (salesman) shall not be freed from sin." Ecclesiasticus 26:29

The reason for this is that there are many opportunities for both merchants and salesmen to tip the scales in their favor. It is obvious to everyone that the flashy car, the big house and the executive jet belong to the merchant and the salesman. This lifestyle is coveted by many, which is the reason for further warning:

"A rich man shall hardly enter into the kingdom of heaven. ... It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." Matt 23-24;

"How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God." Mk 10:23;

"What shall it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" Mk 8:36

Any job description encompassed with so many warnings is worth approaching cautiously.

In our society we have not only the merchant and salesman of the scriptural self-sufficient farm system (SSFS), but we have the merchant of the international trade cartel (ITC) which is replacing the SSFS. The purpose of the SSFS's country store was to simply provide a place where the surplus goods of one self-sufficient farm can be exchanged for the produce of the cottage industry of another SSF.

The purpose of the ITC is different. It is to make as much money as possible in the shortest time possible.

The international merchant was initially stymied in his attempt to trade in the American South and South Africa. He had little to offer that the people wanted - the people produced most of their needs themselves. To create demand, his surrogates destroyed the SSFS and then, the people who formerly wanted nothing wanted everything.

Money

In the SSFS, goods were paid for in barter. This made it difficult for the ITC merchant to do business. If he was able to trade at all he was forced to store bags of wheat and corn and transport them. It was really inconvenient.

This changed with the destruction of the SSFS. Man moved to town to keep from starving. There the ITC paid him wages to work in factories that replaced the former cottage industry. Other refugees opened small stores dispensing food, hardware, clothing and a host of other things - country stores in the city. The ITC merchants then opened their K-Marts and Wal-Marts and drove man's country stores out of business - hundreds at a time.

Today, man is a wage slave to the ITC. Prices rise - a man's wife is forced to work. Where once there was pride of work, he must now compete with strangers who are imported to force his wage scale lower and lower. He must now accept any job available to make ends meet. At age 55 or 60 he can expect to be laid off to save his employer retirement costs.

Once the ITC merchant has installed his usury banking system, all things are possible for him. We are taught that to obtain money one must present to the banker the deed to his property. In return, he is given either credit or cash - all backed by the value of his deed.

But, for the ITC there is a twist to this - see the example below.

The Merchant's Bank

To illustrate how the ITC merchant uses his own usury money system to get whatever he wants, let us suppose that the merchant is the only villain in the entire world. Everyone else is a born- again saint. Regardless, if this one fellow is allowed in the land - he can corrupt the whole barrel of apples in short order - because he designed a banking system that can issue him credit for a trillion dollars, and he doesn't need a dime to get it.

With a trillion dollars he can hire people who will not only "learn his ways", they will stand in line and beg to have his ways shoved down their throats. This is how he does it:

Descending on his chosen market area with a trillion, ten trillion or however many dollars he might need, he hires Saxon agents to buy the newspapers, radio and TV stations, book companies - all of them - even the little county papers that lose money and no one wants. Price is no object. These purchases are then used as collateral to his banks for his trillion dollar loan.

He then fires all old fogey conservative types and hires hungry new types whose love of money is greater than their love of the WORD. Then, to the sound of his own favorable press, he hires a king to protect his goods, gives the king a private army (FBI) to harass any enemies the king might have, and replaces the militia with a standing army to protect against enemies foreign and domestic. He then hires televangelists to bless both him and his operation and allows them to use his media as long as they remember who butters their bread. The pay is good and the number of Levites who will sell their souls for a country club membership and a couple of million dollars is apparently endless.

In a relatively short time the merchant has monopoly ownership of the market area - bought and paid for - the good will of the people in it, free elections in which the people are allowed to choose one of the candidates he has selected for his media to publicize, and an endless river of revenue for both him and his supporters to live any life style they choose.

The cost for all this? Zilch! Nothing! The merchant's banks lent money to the merchant and the merchant used his purchases of businesses to back the mortgages. It's all legal. It's the way the system works worldwide.

The merchant can literally do anything he wants to do. If he is really crazy and believes that the moon is a god and that he must bark at the moon, his media control over people is so strong that he can order a campaign to convince his market-area to join in the ritual of barking at the moon. Soon, when the moon rises, the land will be filled with howls. If you think that is silly, just remember that "Martin Luther King Day" is a national holiday and that it is now a bad thing to be a "Christian Patriot". Exactly how silly can people get?

Merchants need for customers to believe Dharma if they are to do a land-office business - Dharma is the belief that everyone should love everyone else without regard to race, creed, or national origin. If potential customers can be made to believe that, they will trade with anyone without restrictions. Most religions have few qualms over adding Dharma to their existing religious traditions.

This, of course, excludes traditional Christianity. A new Christianity must replace the old Christianity. Dharma must be added so that Christianity can no longer disrupt world commerce with its prohibitions of kings, priests, monopolies, strangers and usury. The practice of genuine Christianity is a perpetual danger to the operations of both the merchant and his agents.

While the above is theoretical, it is how the system works. In the real world there are also a few other bells and whistles that the busy Saxon must learn about.

The Strangers' Caste System

In this world there are nations of peoples who have different ways and different gods. They are an integral part of the ITC. They are born to their place in life - their job, their caste. While man in his self-sufficient farm system is naturally a priest, king & soldier, merchant and worker - strangers have these natural talents and turned them into monstrous specialized castes - each performing just one of these jobs and all ruled from the top down.

The jobs of the strangers' castes are set in concrete: 1-priest, 2-king & soldier, 3-merchant and 4-worker. They have a job caste because they are born into the caste. These castes are virtual unions. Sometimes castes fight other castes when their jobs overlap - serious fights in which hundreds and even thousands are killed. One caste lords it over another caste while groveling before still another. It is a world entirely alien to man deal with it.

The stranger appears to man to have a nature like a beast brought in from the wild. Like a wolf pack, he has an alpha leader at the top and all others stair step down in degrees of honor and authority. All perform set tasks handed down from father to son. It is how they live. It is what they do. It is life in the ITC.

As the ITC conquers a new trade area and begins to absorb it, the cities increasingly look like Calcutta. The morals and outlook of the conquered peoples begin to correspond:

1- PRIESTS - Priests of the stranger traffic in souls. They speak for their god. Their words are more profound than those of mere mortals. They are venerated by all others since they possess secrets needed to enter paradise. This is power indeed. Cartel priests shamelessly use their position and authority to enrich themselves. It's what they do in the ITC. It's what they have taught many of our priests in the conquered market area to do.

In 34 years of working as a stockbroker I was cheated 13 times. Most times I was cheated it was by "born-again Christians" who had learned the way of the stranger. Most of those born-again- Christians were "preachers".

The ones who cheated me are a different kind of preacher from the Saxon preacher of the past. History teaches us that it was the poor preachers who spread the WORD gleaned from Wycliffe's Bible. It was the poor Presbyterian preachers who spread the word of the Covenant and almost brought in God's kingdom to earth in Britain. Banished to America, and there harassed, fined and imprisoned, it was these same poor preachers who ignited the American Revolution.

"By their acts ye shall know them." There are "poor-preachers" who preach God's Laws, statutes and judgments, and there are those who have learned the Hindu way to become rich and powerful by taking advantage of the positions as "God's spokesmen". If a person wishes to deceive - what better cover can be had than to call oneself a "Christian", and even better, a "Christian priest"? Such people may then be Lawless and call it "God's will". With that sort of cover, the lawless ones are free to devour simple believers.

The priests who are unscrupulous, and don't have the skills to become televangelist entrepreneurs, can affiliate with one of the episcopal sects. Then, like their yellow robed counterparts in the East, they can make a good living by merely blessing whatever kings do, and never EVER mentioning the merchant who hired the king in the first place. They receive double reward for cursing the king's enemies. Kings pay for this service with tax-exemption which allow the priest's denomination to pile up riches through tax free businesses, usury banks and religious foundations.

2-KINGS & ARMIES - "Power corrupts. Absolute power corrupts absolutely". We have all witnessed the schoolyard bully. The bully loves lording it over his fellows. This schoolyard bully, when grown, is perfect material to become a king. When given his very own private army to keep him in power - he will make himself king and his private army (FBI) will scour the countryside looking for rebels and right-wing Christian patriot racists to harrass.

Without an army there is no king. The King System of "rule by coercion" is kept alive by the soldier. There was a time when Western armies were militia armies, mustered for emergencies only. They selected their own leaders. Today's armies are standing armies in which there are many who are third and fourth generation to serve - often in the same regiments. There is little difference between this kind of army and the soldier caste of India. A soldier caste is being born in the Christian West before our eyes.

3-The Super Merchant

Trading the overflow production from the self-sufficient farm for items not produced on an individual farm is normal and natural.

The cartel super merchant is different. He has great resources and he uses them to gain still more wealth. He then works with lesser merchants to bring these goods to the market cheaply and in abundance. For example:

ATTILA - A merchant's wealth allows him to hire kings to protect his interests and keep order in the land. The very same merchants can hire kings to create disorder.

Before making Roman trade alliances, Attila was leader of just one more thieving nomad band. Roman merchants disposed of Attila's loot - as much as he could provide. He was their "source". His followers collected loot and slaves which were sold in Roman markets. Roman merchants objected mightily for public consumption, but privately they had nothing bad to say about the quality of the loot they received, or its price.

When he approached Rome proper, the Pope met him alone without attendant or guard. After they talked he left peacefully. No one kept a record of what was said. Naturally.

THE WAR	INTERESTED PARTIES & THEIR REASON
England's Peasants' Revolt	Priest/King/Merchant: Suppressing worker revolt.
German Peasants' Revolt	Merchant/King/Priest: Suppressing worker revolt
French Revolution	Merchant/Priests: Destroying king's monopoly.
Napoleonic Wars	Merchant/Priest: Suppression of rebel king, and English king's looting of French & Dutch colonies.
War Between The States	Merchant surrogates looting SSFS
Boer War	Merchant surrogates looting SSFS
WWI	Merchant/King/Priest: Merchant surrogates looting German- Austrian-Turkish - Russian empire monopolies.
WWII - Germany	Merchant suppression of rebel king. Priests reclaiming lands and peoples lost in earlier wars.
WWII - Japan	Merchant looting of King's empire monopoly.

Mohammed

To firmly fix the power of the merchant's money in the center of one's consciousness, the story of Mohammed is without peer.

Mohammed was just one of a hundred Arab mystics living in the harsh arid region called the Arabian Peninsula. He said that he had visions from God, and was God's spokesman. Listeners laughed but some believed. Mohammed attracted a following.

Running afoul of the local authorities who thought Mohammed was taking himself too seriously, Mohammed took his followers and fled to a small settlement far out in the desert. This settlement had a life-saving oasis for the desert traveler. The oasis was the reason for the settlement's importance. It watered the camel caravans that plied the Spice Route from the Orient to the Near East. Caravans had to water there to finish the final lap of their journey. This was the age when the burden of a single camel would make an ordinary Arab rich for life. Caravans might contain from ten to 20,000 such animals and were tempting targets for desperate men. Kings were paid to see to it that the caravans moved safely and rapidly to their destinations.

In defiance of the King, Mohammed refused water to the caravans. All caravans on that route stopped until the matter was resolved. Mecca's ruler sent an army to punish Mohammed and his followers. The expedition marched across the hot desert and reached Medina. They made an attack which was repulsed, and then they ran out of water and were forced to return with their mission unfulfilled. Other expeditions sent from Mecca met with no better success. This stalemate continued for a year. During the entire time no caravans passed through Medena.

Then, a messenger arrived from the far east. The message he brought said that the job of protecting the spice route was henceforth to be turned over to Mohammed. Mohammed was to be paid spice route "protection moneys".

Mohammed, the one who became the great spiritual and political leader of Islam, was made the great spiritual and political leader because of a quiet message sent by an unknown merchant in the East.

Who was this shadowy figure who had the power to hire and fire kings? Who had the power to allow the creation of one of the world's most powerful religions? This unknown merchant was more powerful than Mohammed the conqueror of Arabia, North Africa, the Mideast, Turkey, Syria and Spain - upon whom all eyes of the world were fixed. Mohammed, the scourge of Christendom was made who he was because of an unknown merchant.

The proof of his power is that until this very day, no one asks his name.

4-Worker Caste - In the trade area claimed by the ITC, the initial entry is made with the help of local Saxon agents. As time goes on and the market area is secured, the Saxon agents are discarded and replaced by family and caste members of the merchant. At the last, entire nations will be brought in to exploit the land and its wealth. The original inhabitants are reduced to the job of being workers for the Priest-King-Merchant classes and aliens will be brought in to populate the ruling castes.

The Saxon Scourge

The primary reason the stranger is replacing the Saxon with his own kinsmen is that the Saxon has always been a danger to the stranger. The Saxon's God frowns on kings, priests, usury, monopoly, trading with strangers and even having strangers in the land. The stranger knows that man is made in the image of the WORD - this WORD that excludes the stranger. To leave the Saxon in position of responsibility is to endanger his conquest. Regardless how loyal a Saxon employee might have been to the ITC, his record shows that there is always a danger that he will repent and return to the LAW of his God.

This is one of the prime reasons that wars between Saxons are instigated, abortion promoted which has killed 30,000,000 Saxon children, and why 9,000,000 Germans were killed after WWII ended, and why the Balak Plan to promote interracial marriage is introduced. It is part of the plan to replace the Saxon with a people more docile.

The Merchant's Religion

The Scriptures say "A merchant shall hardly keep himself from doing wrong", his love of money is too strong - it is "the root of all evil". The consequence is that few homegrown Saxon merchants have a commitment to God's Law that is stronger than their desire for gold. It is an occupational hazard. Their religion often becomes something they put on or take off to "make the sale".

If it helps to adopt the customers religion - they will. One day they are Catholic. The next Baptist or Methodist. They are the biggest donors to churches and political parties. The returns from putting on a religious front are enormous. It is money well spent. The halo of "do no evil" hangs about the generous merchant.

The local merchant often finds it convenient to convert his religious beliefs to a hyphenated religion. While not willing to confess himself anything but "Christian", it often helps trade if he and the people of his trade area "love everyone" "without regard to race, creed, or national origin". This is Hindu Dharma. Adopting Dharma converts his Christian beliefs to "Hindu- Christian". It hurts business to limit the number of customers that one will deal with. It's not an accident that, next to strangers, merchants are well represented in the effort to integrate trade. Our Saxon merchant has been converted to the Hindu religion - although he would be highly indignant to be called a Hindu. Still, Hindu-Baptists are a dime a dozen.

Our own homegrown Saxon merchants are rank amateurs compared with ITC merchants. ITC merchants are not only trained to the job, they are bred to the job. It has been the job of their caste for a thousand years. They will do literally ANYTHING to make a successful trade. It is they with whom our own Saxon merchants trade.

ITC merchants can pose as followers of any religion. Some few are thoroughly indoctrinated in the religion in which they were raised. These will require that the Saxons they hire convert to their own religion - or at least show a marked tolerance of it. This explains why televangelistic Judeo-Christian preachers preach and promote "Noahide laws".⁷ If they don't, their jobs will be quickly filled by another.

⁷ See HR #257, False Identity.

Manning The Castes

The Catholic and Anglican Churches used the Jew to operate their usury system against their own people in early days because the Christian religion forbade Christians dealing in usury.

Today the ITC uses others also. We are accustomed to the Jew who specializes in banking and trade, but the ITC also uses an Indian caste that specializes in running hotels. That's their speciality in India, and they don't like anyone else moving into what they consider "their territory". Other Indian castes provide engineers. Still others provide corporate managers. Indians, who are Wall Street "chief executive officers" are interviewed on business TV almost every day. And, there are still other castes coming to our attention of whom we were previously unaware.

Sindhis

The Tribune-Review of Dec 21, 1997 carried an interesting article on a group of people called "Sindhis", another nation of Indian merchants.

The Sindhis lived in a state in what is now Pakistan. In 1947, following WWII, India's two largest religions separated into Pakistan (Islam) and Hindustan (India). Minority Hindus living in Pakistan fled for their lives. Sindhis, followers of Islam, continued to live where they were. The Hindu Sindhis moved back to India. The rest scattered over the world. A stateless people, they consider themselves a nation, a nation which works together closely.

The Sindhi network girdles the globe from Japan, Singapore and Hong Kong through the Middle East to Africa and Gibraltar. It crosses Britain and Europe on to the U.S. and Latin America. Their organization and business techniques cause almost everything they touch to turn to gold.

Today, Srichand Hinduja is Britain's 11th richest man worth $1.7 billion. Shakun Narain Kimatrai grew up in Spain. She said that Sindhis like her family had diversified their business enterprises overseas even before the partition. The partition forced the families to follow their businesses overseas. Some made fortunes in Iran. B.K. Murjani and Dr. Hari Harilela established themselves in Hong Kong, Manubhai Madhvani became an economic power in Uganda, Tan Sri Kishu Tirathrai in Malaysia, and Chief Harkishin B. Chanrai in Nigeria. The Kimatrai family established overseas operations in Rangoon, Burma in 1896 and from there its 96 branches have spread all over the world. To provide trusted agents to operate the businesses, the Sindhis send their relatives. Thus, they form Sindhis colonies wherever a business has been established.

The world wide Sindhis have an organization called the IndusInd Group. It forms a common economic platform of the NRI Sindhi community. They speak for the merchant mentality by saying "Humanity is our family, and the World our state."

The article closes in saying "Through their years of wandering, the Sindhis have clutched tightly to family, cultural and social ties. "I believe Sindhis will never lose their identity because they firmly believe in their culture and religious identity," Hinduja said.

This sounds like one more sub-caste of the International Trade Cartel's feudal system. The ITC hired themselves a king to rule us and open the sheepfold gate. Then they hire priests to bless what was done. Now, the wolves pour in to feed.

The Merchants Of Babylon

The merchants of the International Trade Cartel build cities that look the same all over the world at no cost to themselves. If they like they can abandon these cities and rebuild them elsewhere. They can do these things because they have unlimited amounts of money drawn on nothing from their usury banks, and they will continue doing what they do as long as they can convince people to deal with them.

If the stranger departed today, he would return tomorrow because our people would not know how to prevent him from doing so; they would not know that they are not supposed to trade with them. The preachers are paid not to tell them, and the king is paid to protect the merchant. While others despair, we have hope because we have read the Instruction Manual and we know how the story will end.

The Scriptures say:

*"Babylon .. thy merchants were the great men of the earth."
Rev8:21,23*

"Woe to the bloody city! it is all full of lies and robbery ... there is a multitude of slain, and a great number of carcasses; and there is none end of their corpses; they stumble upon their corpses ... Thou has multiplied thy merchants above the stars of heaven." Nahum 3:1-2,16

"Babylon ... the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies." Rev 18:2-3

But, the day will come:

"The kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived deliciously with her, shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning." Rev 18:9

"And the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her; for no man buyeth their merchandise any more." Rev 18:11

Conclusion

God appointed each of us kings and priests. As priests, we must teach our fellow Saxons who they are. We must also teach them the contracts made by God with our fathers and Himself. As kings we must show the way to our kingdoms "on earth." Lastly, we must teach one more truth - and when it is learned the doors will slam so that God's people will be within and the stranger without - forever:

"God's Commandments are the ultimate authority."

NATIONAL SOCIALIST: "Brother Hoskins: You said in an earlier newsletter that Germany's National Socialism was an 'episcopacy' - that Hitler took the international trade profit and spent it on the people. You ended by saying that National Socialism was better than what went before!" A.L. - Texas

RKH: No question; Germany's National Socialism was better than what went before. National Socialism never had a chance to develop into a finished product. It was an ever changing reform movement. Reports I've read say that it was honest - more honest than its enemies. The tax money it collected was spent for the people's benefit and the expenditures were publicly accounted for. Germany was engaged in a revolt against the ITC. All its resources were pressed into waging the revolt. The country did not have the time or the land area to implement a self-sufficient farm system. The people were taxed and the government, even though freely chosen, was episcopal - from the top down. That made it feudal. We sympathize with Germans because they are our own flesh and blood and because the ITC did them a great wrong. But, let's don't romanticize about another episcopacy. I'm for the revolt - I'm not for a revival of a National Socialist Worker's Party with a "leader" of the type so prevalent today who expects to crack the whip. It's time to put all forms of feudalism to rest - permanently.

DEATH & DYING

Junior

My brother, John Hundley Hoskins, Jr., died when he was four. Everyone agreed that he was a beautiful child. He had leukemia - a cancer of the blood where the white blood cells eat up the red ones. Daddy was a doctor - a very good one, but he didn't know what to do to save his son. No one else did either. They still don't. In desperation, Daddy even put Mercurochrome in his veins in hopes that that would help. It didn't. It just made his temperature go way up and he began to sweat the red Mercurochrome. Each time Daddy tried something new it hurt Junior so much that mother asked Junior if he wanted Daddy to keep on trying to make him well, or did he just want to go to be with Jesus. Junior said that he wanted to go to be with Jesus, so Daddy stopped, and Junior died soon after.

Pneumonia

When I was three or four I had pneumonia. The doctors agreed that I was going to die in the morning. Daddy was there, Dr. Plunkett, Dr. Hopkins - my baby doctor, and Dr. Preston Hundley - my uncle. They had done all they could and were just standing around in the room waiting for the inevitable. Dr. Hopkins and Uncle Pres were standing next to the closet door, Daddy and Dr. Plunkett were standing just inside the door to the room. I know because I saw them standing there.

Mother was in the garden in back of the house. She was talking to God.

She said;

"Lord, you've taken one of my sons. If you want this one, that's all right. But, if you spare him, I'll give him to you. He's yours to do anything you want him to do."

At that very instant I began to get well.

That's a good story, but that's not the reason I'm telling it. The reason is that I saw everyone in the room. No one believed me when I told them later. They said that I was too weak to lift my head, much less stand to look out the the windows at the top of the oxygen tent. But, I did. I saw the doctors and the green oxygen bottles standing to the right of the bed, the bright streaming sunlight - . They said I was too weak, that I couldn't move. But, I did see everyone. I stood up, at least I thought I stood up, and looked out the windows at all that was going on. It was great fun.

Mother and Dad almost made me believe that I dreamed it all, but I didn't. Other members of the family have had what is now called "out of body experiences." I guess that was one of them.

Out Of The Body

This whole thing - this out of the body stuff - gives rise to a whole flock of questions. When the spirit leaves the body, where does it go? In my case, my spirit went back where it came from - my body. With other members of the family it was the same. But, what about the little Jones boy in Culpeper? Russell King, who helped Uncle Alex in the furniture store, saw the hearse bring the boy's body to the funeral home. The funeral home was right behind his house. He saw them take the body in the back door. He told me that about ten minutes later he saw a beam of light go from the room where the boy's body was lying straight up into the heavens. Russell King told me that it was the boy's soul going home. From that time he had no doubts about heaven.

Dying

Dying doesn't seem to be a big deal. At least it wasn't in the Air Force. I was assigned to the flying school at Waco. When my group got off the bus we saw smoke boiling up from the runway and the sounds of meat wagon and firetruck sirens. Two planes had collided. Two instructors and two students were dead. They marched us to our barracks. A flight of Aviation Cadets were marching from the flight line singing.

"There's blood on the cockpit blood on the ground,
A great big puddle of blood all around.
Pity that keydet lying there dead,
A T-28 done chopped off his head."

Bravado. A way of compensating for what can't be avoided and might happen to one of your buddies - but never to you. The young believe that they are indestructible.

People die in plane crashes. It's quick - an abstract thing. In the morning you march with your comrades to the flight line and wave to them with a quick joke and laugh, and you never see them again. A cautious fear is always with the prudent, but dying is the last thing on his mind.

Four of us flew with Mr. Wylie, a civilian contract WWII fighter pilot. I alone survive. None of the others had a thought that he was going to die. If anyone thought of dying or of heaven or hell they thought of the GUMP check first. The "GUMP check" was more important: "G" - gas selector switch on full tank; "U" - undercarriage down & locked; "M" - gas mixture rich; "P" - prop, full forward for maximum power. The GUMP check got you down on the ground safely. You could always talk about heaven and hell after going to the cadet club for a beer with the boys - if there was anyone who wanted to talk about them.

Stock Broker - Most of you already know that I was a stock broker for 40 years and a money manager for almost 32. That's what old Francis I. DuPont trained me to do. I've handled the same money for three generations for some families. During this time I've had maybe as many as 50 of my clients stop by to tell me "good-bye" just before they died. I could tell that they were going to die - they had that look about them. I appreciated the courtesy. I suppose that handling a person's money creates a bond. One might even say that for some it could be considered almost a religious experience.

Mother

Mother was getting along in years. She was 87, a fine Christian woman, but bedridden and unable to speak. I was just about the only one she recognized.

One night I got a call from the nurse who said that Mother had had a heart attack. I rushed over. The nurse told me that she had to call a doctor, but couldn't leave my mother's side because if she did she might "pass away". The nurse instructed me to watch mother and if it looked like she was going to "pass away" for me to say,

"Hang on, Mrs. Hoskins!"

And she would. In the meantime the nurse went and called the doctor.

I sat beside mother and talked to her. In a few minutes her breathing became labored and then stopped. I said,

"Hang on, Mother",

And she started breathing again. I was startled. I never knew that words had such power.¹

Then I started thinking. Mother couldn't speak. She couldn't play the piano. She didn't recognize any of her friends or most of her family. As the Scripture says; "There is a time for everything under the sun". It was Mother's time.

I said the 23rd Psalm out loud, and then the Lord's Prayer. Then I told mother;

"Go on, Mamma, it's all right."

And she stopped breathing.

¹ I later became convinced that it is better to beat someone with a stick rather than wound them with words. Words pierce a person's very soul and can cause life or death, health or sickness; they can canker for a lifetime. Whippings only sting the body and are soon forgotten.

Grandmother Hoskins

The generation who lived through the "Second War Of Independence" were scarred by that war. The long lists of war deaths that took away almost a whole generation, the burnings, the homeless refugees wandering to and fro, the tortures by Union soldiers trying to seize treasure from civilians who had no banks, starvation, martial law, and blacks having rule over us. My great grandmother Janet Carter Roy Hoskins (1833-1895) lived through it all. Death hung like a pall over Essex County. Death frightened her. She dreaded dying.

But, her time came to die. She lay in her bed with her children standing around her. Her mind was clear and she spoke in a strong voice as she greeted and spoke to each of them. Then she smiled and spoke to people in the room whom she saw but her children did not see - friends and relatives who had died years before. Then, she spoke to people who had died and the news had not yet reached Essex County.

At the last a radiance passed over her face and she turned to her family and said,

"It's glorious! I'm not afraid to die anymore."

Grandmother Hume

My great grandmother, Mary Emma Thompson Hume (1832-1902) married my great-grandfather Dr. Charles Hume (1824-1906). Dr. Hume took care of the wounded and dying during the war - often times right in his home. His wife Mary Emma became overwhelmed with the cruelty of war and the devastation of the aftermath. She had seen so much that she was terrified of dying.

Her time came and she lay in her bed with her children standing around her. AND, the exact same thing happened to her that happened to Grandmother Hoskins. She first spoke to her children, then to friends who had died long before, and then to those who had died and the news had not yet reached Culpeper County. Then, she too smiled, and informed her family that she was no longer afraid of dying, and peacefully passed on. This is almost the identical story from a different source.

Grandfather Keith

Back in Scotland, before our "First War For Independence", my ancestor the Rev. James Keith (1697-1758) was lying on a hillside with a childhood chum discussing heaven and wondering if there really was such a place. In that day there were only two options open for younger sons of the gentry - the ministry or the army. My grandfather chose the ministry and his chum chose the army. They agreed that the first to die would return to tell the other whether or not there was a heaven.

My ancestor became a minister and was posted to a parish in Fauquier County, Virginia. His chum joined the army and was posted to India.

One day Rev. Keith was studying on his front porch and a little slave girl, who had been milking the cows, ran up and said that there was a soldier down in the barn looking for him. A big man in a red coat. The reverend went down to the barn, but didn't see anyone. He questioned the servant and she described his childhood chum.

Reverend Keith then instructed his little servant girl that should she see the soldier again to ask him if there was a heaven.

She said she would.

The next day she came running up the path and breathlessly told Reverend Keith that she had done as he instructed, and asked him if there was a heaven, and he had nodded - "Yes!"

Willard and Ella Garnett Dying

My grandfather, Willard Dunbar Hoskins, was sick. He went to visit his brother, who was a doctor, down the river in Newport News, and died there from uremic poisoning.

My grandmother, Ella Garnett Hundley, had been visiting her sister in Beckley, in what is now West Virginia, and was on her way home. She reached Baltimore, where she became sick from typhoid fever, and died. She died on a different day from my grandfather but they died only an hour apart.

Her coffin was put on a boat which took it down the Chesapeake Bay to Newport News where it picked up my grandfather's coffin and then proceeded up the Rappahannock to Ware's Wharf where both coffins were offloaded. A boy rode up to Hoskins Hill to tell the family that two coffins were on the wharf and to come down and get them.

Daddy harnessed the horses and went down and picked up his parent's bodies and brought them back to Dunnsville.² Daddy was sixteen and was next to the oldest. Aunt Gladys was seventeen and taught school. The family buried their parents in the back yard at Hoskins Hill.

² Dunnsville contained a post office, two country stores, and half a dozen houses including Hoskins Hill and Hundley Hall.

Willard Hoskins Visits - Daddy was in school. Aunt Gladys was the oldest and tried to hold the eight children in the family together. She was worried sick. One night she was in bed with Ella Garnett, who was 10. They had been discussing the family's problems and both had been crying when they looked up and standing at the foot of their bed was their father, Willard Dunbar. He smiled at them and then turned and left. They took his smile to mean that everything would work out all right. Everything did.

It's interesting to note that both Aunt Gladys and Aunt Ella Garnett saw their father at the same time. I questioned both about this and both were adamant about what they saw.

Where Does The Soul Go?

Where does the soul go when one dies? That's the perennial question. The next question - if it is heaven - how does one get there? These big dark questions give birth to the trillion dollar organized religion business. Since everyone is going to die - business is always good because anyone with any sense has an interest in the answer.

The answer is - the place that will ultimately be reached by man's soul will depend on the actions of the man himself:

"Not everyone shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt 7:21

It is also understood that the number of those reaching the mark is restricted to those doing God's will:

"The Most High hath made this world for many, but the world to come for few." II Esdras 8:1

The Unforgivable Sin

Countless people are distraught because they think that they may have committed the unforgivable sin that will keep them out of heaven and they don't know if they have committed it or not. The reason is that they don't know who God is and what he requires of them.

One thing we CAN easily comprehend; God is the WORD.³ We comprehend God through his commandments.

God's commandments are the ultimate authority.

Today's question, "What is the unforgivable sin?" was asked and answered 2,000 years ago in the book Philochristus 13: paragraph 15.

"I asked Nathanael what Jesus meant by the words 'blasphemy against the Holy Spirit.' and why that sin was above all other sins so that it could not be forgiven. 'For,' said I 'Jesus was blasphemed as a gluttonous man and as a wine-biber, not many days past in this very place, and I noted well that it was with a calmness, yea, even to mirth, Jesus endured the charge."

So, malicious things said about the Son of Man resulted in a silent laugh. But, if the Son of Man is not upset over bad things said about him - what is this unforgivable sin? The answer follows in paragraph 20:

"Now if thou closeth thy mouth and thy nostrils against the winds of heaven and sayest, 'The air is as poison to me, I will not breathe it,' behold, thou perishest."

"Even so it is with the Holy Spirit. Every man that cometh into the world, hath within him some portion of the Holy Spirit. For the spirit which is in him breatheth of the Holy Spirit, and dependeth and liveth thereon. But if he shall say knowingly in his heart, 'I will not breathe thereof; I will call good evil, and the Holy Spirit I will call unholy'; then lo, his spirit dieth within him, and he can no more enter into the life of God."

³ "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14

What, then, is the Holy Spirit? It is the WORD! God's Commandments are the ultimate authority. It is more than just murder and adultery and things like that. King David committed both and he was forgiven. But, suppose King David, knowing the WORD, spurned it time after time - then the Holy Spirit within him dies - and that is the "unforgivable sin." Knowing God's Law and violating it time after time brings the curse:

"For if we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth (God's Commandments), there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." Heb 10:26

Most of this had no place in the life of Roman soldiers, but they had one thing in common with those whom they fought. DEATH! Death results when the soldier practices his trade. The Romans had an interesting way of looking at death.⁴

Religion Of The Roman Soldier

Titus was the general who led the Roman army preparing to assault the walls of Jerusalem. Knowing that there would be grievous casualties among the assault troops he gathered his men and spoke to them:

⁴ This is so similar to Viking beliefs that one is forced to consider that much of the basic religion of the Roman soldier and the Viking warrior came from the same root source.

"What man of virtue is there who does not know that those souls which are severed from their fleshly bodies in battles by the sword are received by the ether, that purest of elements, and joined to that company which are placed among the stars; that they become good demons, and propitious heroes, and shew themselves as such to their posterity afterwards? while upon those souls that wear away in and with their distempered bodies comes a subterranean night to dissolve them to nothing, and a deep oblivion to take away all the remembrance of them, and this notwithstanding that he be clean from all spots and defilement of this world; so that, ... since fate has determined that death is to come of necessity upon all men, a sword is a better instrument for that purpose than any disease whatsoever. Why, it is not then a very mean thing for us not to yield up that to the public benefit which we must yield up to fate? And this discourse have I made, upon the supposition that those who at first attempt to go upon this wall must needs be killed in the attempt... As for that person who first mounts the wall, I should blush for shame if I did not make him to be envied of others, by those rewards I would bestow upon him. If such a one escape with his life, he shall have the command of others that are now but his equals; although it be true also, that the greatest rewards will accrue to such as die in the attempt." (Titus, in a speech to his soldiers before the assault on the walls of Jerusalem.)⁵

Religion Of The Other Side

The belief of the Judeans, their enemies, the ones defending the walls of Jerusalem was different. It was a layered belief which one first encountered by running into "one liners". Each "one liner" related a part of a basic belief understood by just about every Israelite in the Roman province of Judea. One belief was that every Israelite was predestined to be what he was to be from the instant he was conceived:

"Before I formed you in the womb, I knew you; and before you came forth from the womb, I sanctified you, and I ordained you." Jer 1:5;

"There has been no man in his mother's womb, but that already before, even to each one there is a place prepared for the repose of that soul, and a measure fixed how much it is intended that a man be tried in this world. ... Deceive not yourselves, for there has been previously prepared a place for every soul of man." Secrets of Enoch 49:4-5

Paul spoke of other beliefs when he wrote; "I knew a man in Christ ... such a one caught up to the 3rd heaven." 2 Cor 12:2. What was he talking about - of having gone to a 3rd heaven?

Third Heaven

Paul doesn't tell much about the 3rd heaven because his listeners already knew. In that age, in addition to the writings of Moses, the elect had read the writings of the prophet Enoch:⁶ This is what Enoch had to say:

"And those men took me ... up onto the 3rd heaven ... And I saw all the sweet-flowering trees ... in that place whereon the Lord rests, when he goes up into paradise; and this tree is of ineffable goodness ... Its root is in the garden at the earth's end. And paradise is between corruptibility and incorruptibility. ... And there are 400 angels who keep the garden ..." Chapter 8: 3rd:

"This place, O Enoch, is prepared for the righteous, who endure ... offense from those that exasperate their souls, who avert their eyes from iniquity, and make righteous judgment, and give bread to the hungry, and cover the naked with clothing, and raise up the fallen, and help injured orphans, and who walk without fault before the face of the Lord, and serve him alone, and for them is prepared this place for eternal inheritance." v.9

"And those 2 men led me up on the Northern Side, and showed me there a very terrible place, and there were all manner of tortures in that place: cruel darkness and un-illuminated gloom, ... murky fire .. and there is a fiery river ... and in that whole place is everywhere fire ... and everywhere there is frost and ice, thirst and shivering ... and the angels fearful and merciless ...

"This place, O Enoch is prepared for those who dishonor God, who on earth practice sin against nature, which is child-corruption after the sodomic fashion, magic-making, enchantments and devilish witchcrafts, and who boast of their wicked deeds, stealing, lies, calumnies, envy, rancor, fornication, murder, and who, accursed, steal the souls of men, who seeing the poor take away their goods and themselves wax rich, injuring them for other men's goods; who being able to satisfy the empty, made the hungry to die; being able to clothe, stripped the naked; and who knew not their creator ... for all these is prepared this place amongst these, for eternal inheritance. v.10

According to Enoch, every Israelite goes to heaven - both the good and the bad. Once there they are separated. The good go to the south side where they enjoy paradise, while the bad go to the north side where torments await them. It was a thing understood by everyone in that age.

"God Wills It!"

Another belief explains the fanatical resistance of the defenders of Jerusalem.

The Scriptures teach that those who die for God, or for the WORD, will never see death. The reward for making the supreme sacrifice for God is that one will never die. This is a powerful belief. It motivated the defenders of Jerusalem to fanatical and almost impossible feats of bravery, and later, did the same for the Crusaders. Read the following words and commit them to memory, for you shall certainly hear them on men's lips in the days ahead;

"If a man keep my sayings, he shall never see death." Jno 8:51

"If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it: and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it." Matt 16:24-25

"Whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, shall save it." Mk 8:35

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." John 15:13

"I lay down my life for the sheep. ... Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again. No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself. I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again." John 10:15-18

"Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." Revelation 2:10

This is God's teaching that terrifies the pharisees among today's Levites. When Jesus tells us that the time has come to demand that "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven," - what will become of them? Will the sheep obey the WORD and turn and rend "those of the temple" as the Scriptures prophesy? Who will feed them and provide them with the first fruits? Won't obedience to God's WORD bring Rome's wrath down on them along with the rebellious sheep as happened to the disobedient city of Jerusalem?⁷

Some say that Jesus didn't mean that one was to resist with force because he said "For the word of God is quick, and sharper than any 2-edged sword." Heb 4:12. This was certainly the case in his day because his followers were few and the Roman enemy with his Herodian allies were many. But, that was "strategy". Jesus wasn't against force, Philochristus says that Jesus was against force "at that time" because the time wasn't right.⁸ We must not forget that the prophets gave the following instructions:

* "Let the saints be joyful ... and a two-edged sword in their hand, to execute ... the judgment written: this honor have all his saints." Ps 149:5- 9;

* "Teach thy sons the bow and all weapons of war." Jasher 56:9;

* "Also he bade them teach the children of Judah the use of the bow." 2 Sam 1:18;

* "Cause them ... to draw near, even every man with his destroying weapon ... and the Lord said ... Go ye ... and smite: Slay utterly old and young, ... and begin at my sanctuary. Then they began at the ancient men (important, elders) which were before the house." Ezeq (9:1-6);

* "Awake, O sword, against my shepherd, and against the man that is my fellow, saith the Lord of hosts: smite the shepherd ... And ... I will say, It is my people: and they shall say, The Lord is my God." Zech 13:7-9.

7 Josephus says that Jerusalem contained a large population of strangers who spent more time fighting Jerusalem's Israelites inside the walls than they did fighting Romans outside. These strangers were there because Jerusalem violated God's Law, "They shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." 1 Ki 4:21-24, and they paid the price.

8 Jesus also said, "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I come not to send peace, but a sword." Matt 10:34; "He said unto them ... he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one." Luke 22:36- 38.

What I Believe About Death

All my experiences tell me that heaven is neat; that our friends and family are waiting for us; that we will be able to do and know things so wonderful that our limited minds can't even dream of how wonderful it will be.

I think of our present existence as being like that of a kernel of corn. The single grain, when planted, puts down deep roots and grows a stalk, leaves, ears, tassels - all of which are thousands of times greater than the single little kernel that was planted. That is how much I believe that our future existence in heaven is above our existence here on earth.

I believe that the following is true:

"In my Father's house are many mansions ... And if I go and prepare a place for you I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." John 14:2-3⁹

"We are ... willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." II Cor 5:7

And I believe that this transfer process, when it happens, is instant. One instant you are here, the next you are there. Jesus, spoke to the thief crucified with him on a cross, and said:

"Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise." Luke 23:40-43

One minute the thief was in this world - the next he was in paradise.

⁹ "Where two or more are gathered in my name, there I am in the midst of them."
Heaven is already prepared and waiting, and Jesus - "the WORD made flesh", - is both HERE in our midst, and there, right NOW!

Hanging on the cross he had no time to do good works. If allowed more time he would have doubtless proved his salvation with works, but his change of heart from self-indulgence to The WAY opened the door to paradise.

Thus the paradox - in death one finds life.

The WORD in the heart of the Saxon changes him into the sword of the Lord, the terror of the anti-Christ, and in death gives him everlasting life.

LETTER FROM S. AFRICA

Former president F.W. deKlerk had an ongoing affair with the wife of a Greek multimillionaire, Tony Georgiadis, for years and right through the time when he became president. Little wonder that he did not care about SA and its people. It was the reason for his resignation last year, but it was only during the last few weeks that the truth came out. FW intends to divorce his wife after receiving advice from his brother Wimpie. One can only hope he disappears permanently from the SA scene. He and his brother caused our people so much hardship, not to forget all those who have lost their lives.

EATING WITH STRANGERS

"Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them ... for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17

Judith

In the twelfth year of the reign of Nabuchodonosor of the Assyrians,¹ Nabuchodonosor the king went to war with a mighty king named Arphaxad. He summoned fighting men from all parts of his dominion and they came by the tens of thousands and destroyed Arphaxad. But there were certain provinces in the west who did not send soldiers. They refused and showed no respect for his authority, even refusing to pay tribute (taxes).

Enraged, Nabuchodonosor summoned his best general, Holofernes, and told him to take 120,000 of his best troops and 12,000 cavalry and bring all the rebellious people into proper subjection.

Holofernes led this great army westward into the hill country and destroyed Phud and Lud, and spoiled the children of Rasses and Ismael. Then he passed over the Euphrates River and passed through Mesopotamia destroying all the high cities on his way to the Mediterranean Sea. From there he stormed Cilicia, killing all who opposed him, and came to the borders of Japheth and compassed the people of Madan and burned up their temples, warehouses, and places of merchandise.

Retracing, he went down the great plain of Damascus at harvest time and burnt up all the wheat fields and destroyed the flocks, and looted the cities and killed all the young men.

The remaining peoples, countries and cities, saw the ruin and death that fell to those who resisted Holofernes and they feared him. They sent emissaries to beg for their lives. They opened their gates and received the Assyrians with garlands, dances and timbrels. Still, he destroyed their temples because he had vowed to destroy the gods of the rebels. He thought that all nations should worship Nabuchodonosor only, that all the conquered people of Babylon should look on Nabuchodonosor as god.²

² When there are many gods in a land, the one who judges their disputes becomes greater than the individual gods he judges. He becomes chief of the gods. The nine US Supreme Court judges have judged the Law of the God of Israel dealing with separate eating facilities and have ruled that God's Law is unlawful. The makers of the new law make themselves greater than the God they declared "unlawful".

The children of Israel living in Judea were afraid of Holofernes, for they had recently returned from captivity in Babylon and were still few in number. Still, they prepared for war. They fortified the mountain tops and the villages, and they laid up provisions for a siege. They cried to the God of Israel that he would not give their children for a prey and their wives for a spoil and the cities of their inheritance to destruction and their sanctuary to be profaned, and, God heard their prayers.

When Holofernes heard that the Israelites had shut up their cities and fortified their mountain tops, he was angry. He led his army, together with the conscripted soldiers of nearby conquered provinces, and marched against the Israelites. A very great host, indeed.

Reaching the mountain defenses of the Israelites, Holofernes was perplexed as to how to subdue them without incurring heavy casualties. At that moment the chief of the children of Essau came and presented a plan to cut off the water to the city of Jerusalem so that the Israelites would be forced to surrender in only a few days. With Jerusalem, the supply depot for the rest of the country, gone, the mountain defenses would starve.

Holofernes approved the plan and the stream bringing water to Jerusalem was diverted. The city of Jerusalem had only five days water supply left which meant that both it and the people in it were doomed to destruction and death. The elders of the city of Jerusalem contemplated their approaching deaths, but the high priest told them to be of good cheer that they still had five days for God to work a miracle.

Judith Appears

Judith was a widow, a devout woman and very beautiful. She lived near Jerusalem. She heard of the crisis and went to God in prayer:

"O Lord God of my father Simeon, to whom thou gavest a sword to take vengeance of the strangers, who loosened the girdle of a maid to defile her ... and polluted her virginity ... for thou saidst, It shall not be so; and yet they did so; Wherefore thou gavest their rulers to be slain ... And hast given (them) for a prey ... and abhorred the pollution of their blood ... O my God,... Throw down their strength with thy power, and bring down their force in thy wrath ..."

Having completed her prayer she took her maid and bathed herself, and put on perfume and braided her hair and put a tire upon it, and put on her garments of gladness that she wore during the life of her husband. And she put on bracelets, chains rings and earrings to captivate the eyes of all men that should see her.

Then she gave her maid a bottle of wine, a cruse of oil, and filled a bag with parched corn, clumps of figs, and fine bread. Thus attired they went forth from the city.

Judith Meets Holofernes

Thus they went straight forth in the valley and the first watch of the Assyrians met her. They asked her who she was and she told them that she was an Israelite who was fleeing the destruction that was soon to come upon the rest of her people. She also said that she was bringing a plan to Holofernes of how he might bypass the mountain strongholds without losing a man.

With that, the Assyrians gave this beautiful lady an honor guard of 100 men and they took her through the encamped armies directly to their general. The word quickly spread that the Israelites had sent a lovely emissary and thousands of soldiers lined the way to get a glimpse of her. They wondered at her beauty and admired the children of Israel because of her.

Holofernes was resting upon his bed under a canopy woven with purple and gold, having emeralds and precious stones woven in. When Judith was presented, Holofernes told her not to be afraid, and took her into his tent to talk to her.

There she told him that she had seen evil done by the Israelites against their own God, a thing that was sure to bring on their destruction at the hand of Holofernes. Her exact words were:

"Our nation shall not be punished, neither can the sword prevail against them, except they sin against their God." Judith II 11:10

The sin that she spoke of that would provoke the God of Israel was that the Israelites were about to eat things that were forbidden to them because they were in dire straits from lack of food. This was sure to bring their destruction.

Judith offered to go into the desert at night and talk to her God, and when he told her that the sin had been committed, she would return and tell Holofernes and he would then be able to walk right in and destroy the Israelites since their God would no longer protect them.

Holofernes thought this a fine idea and ordered a feast to be set in honor of Judith. But Judith said "I will not eat thereof, lest there be an offense: but provision shall be made for me of the things that I have brought." Holofernes had heard of this custom of the Israelites of not eating with those whom they considered strangers, and he respected it. Judith then asked permission to go into the desert to eat and pray. A request which was instantly granted.

From the moment that Holofernes had seen Judith he planned to deceive Judith and seduce her. After waiting a time he ordered wine and drank more of it than on any day since he was born. When evening came his servants were dismissed leaving Judith and Holofernes alone, and Holofernes was on his bed being in an advanced state of intoxication.

Judith then approached his bed and said in her heart

"Oh Lord God of all power, look at this present upon the works of mine hands ... For now is the time to help thine inheritance, and to execute ... enemies which are risen against us."

Then she took down his sword and went to his bed and took hold of his hair and smote twice upon his neck with all her might and took away his head. Calling her maid she instructed her to put the head in her bag of provisions. Then, taking a small piece of the jewel studded tent with them, the two went together into the countryside to prayer, as was their custom.

Instead, they went straight-way to the city of the Israelites where she took the head out of the bag and showed it saying:

*"Behold the head of Holofernes the chief captain of the army of Assyria, and behold the canopy wherein he did lie in his drunkenness, and the Lord hath smitten him by the hand of a woman."
Judith 13:15*

The Result

This brave act of Judith had several results:

- * Her nice attire brought honor and respect to the entire nation of Israel.
- * Giving honor to those whom honor is due allowed her to approach the enemy leader.
- * Knowing that strangers are organized in an episcopal manner - from the top down, rather than in a presbyterian manner - from the bottom up, permitted her to choose a successful course of action.
- * Her obedience to the law requiring that food blessed by God cannot be given to strangers, with no exceptions - including dining with the commanding general of the Assyrians, gave her the excuse she needed to go from the Assyrian camp to the wilderness and back again.

The result of all this was that when the captains of the Assyrian army learned of the death of Holofernes there was a great commotion among them. There was no leader until another was appointed by King Nabuchodonosor.³ This is the way it is among strangers. Their former united effort stopped and their army began to dissolve as the soldiers waited and discussed the curse that had fallen upon them.

Judith never married again after her husband had died. Her kinsmen covered her with honors and she lived to the age of 105, and there was none that made the children of Israel afraid in the days of Judith, nor for a long time after her death.

³ If Nabuchodonosor had been killed, there would have been no one to choose the next leader at all, and, doubtless a civil war would have resulted from the effort in choosing his successor.

SACRED FOOD

Until recent years the West has followed the eating rituals of their Israelite ancestors which dictated with whom, when, and under what conditions one eats. Today, to insist on observance of these eating rituals is to incur the wrath, and punishment, of the king who has outlawed such rituals on the order of the international merchant.

However, from an historical standpoint, it is educational to study what our ancestors considered important because what was will be again. It is also interesting to note the actions of the professional Christian organizations and people WHO HAVE NO EXCUSE FOR THEIR REFUSAL TO DO THAT WHICH GOD REQUIRES:

"The things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to devils, and not to God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with devils. Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils." I Cor 11:20- 21

"Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them, and do not according to their actions, and be not their companion, for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17

"There shall no stranger eat of the holy thing." Lev. 22:10

Their REFUSAL speaks louder than their words. It reveals their probable lack of commitment to the rest of the WORD which is God.

"Living Room, Dining Room, Bedroom"

An old saying in Virginia is, "From the living room, to the dining room, to the bedroom."

If you want to stop someone from becoming a member of your family, that person must not be invited into your living room. Once in the living room, politeness often forces people to offer food served in the dining room. Life itself is supported by food. The act of "eating" with someone implies that that person has your stamp of approval and is suitable to enter your family's bedroom - he is a suitable marriage prospect. "From the living room, to the dining room, to the bedroom."

The Rules Of Eating

Eating is a religious ritual. Christians bearing the proofs of Israel,⁴ before eating, thank God for the food they are about to eat. They then offer the food to God to bless. Most do it using these or similar ritual words:

1. "Lord, Thank you for this food.
2. "Bless it to our good,
3. "and use us in thy service:
4. "Amen," (seal of agreement - the verbal hand-shake)

1. Gratitude is shown for food; 2. The food is offered to God to bless. This is done by God's appointed priest - yourself. The food blessed by God is now "holy." It may not be given to strangers.⁵ The word "stranger" here is the He-

4 (3 PROOFS OF ISRAEL) (1) In his IMAGE - "They shall put my name upon the children of Israel." Num 6:27 (2) Isaac's name, SONS OF ISAAC - ISAACSONS - SAXONS, "In Isaac shall thy name be called." Romans 9:7, and (3) Adamic descent. "Man" in Strong's Concordance is the Hebrew "Adam." "Adam" means to "blush red." "Show blood in the face.

5 "Thou shall no stranger eat of the holy thing: a sojourner of the priest, or a hired servant, shall not eat of the holy thing." Lev 22:10. "Sojourner" - means a temporary resident.

brew "zûwr stranger" - meaning a racial alien vs. the "gêr stranger" - a racial kinsman living in a different political subdivision. Even if the zûwr stranger is only visiting and is a "sojourner," he still may not eat of the holy food, regardless of the accusation of "bad manners." Not even a servant, who is also assumed to be a zûwr stranger, may eat the food that has been "blessed" and is "holy."

In both the American North and South prior to the 1940s-1950s, there was a problem feeding the strangers in our midst without violating the WORD that forbade eating with strangers.

"They shall not profane the holy things of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord... when they eat their holy things: for I the Lord do sanctify them." Le 22:15-16

The stop-gap solution was to have separate dining facilities serving "unblessed" food to the strangers. This "stop-gap" practice was used in place of geographic "separation" - the kind promoted by Thomas Jefferson.⁶ "Segregation" of the races was expensive. It required separate hospitals, schools, public facilities, and military units, but it had to be done if God's Law was not to be violated. No one found fault with the solution except for the usual types, and no one paid them any attention.⁷

6 Jefferson, zealous supporter of the African Colonization Movement, worked to end slave importation. The movement bought tens of thousands of slaves, freed, and re-settled them back in Africa. This was far more expensive than "radical abolition" which stole slaves without compensating their owners, and freed them to shift for themselves - and compete with local labor.

7 Areas in Pennsylvania, Ohio and elsewhere having almost no minorities objected to the cost of an entirely separate set of facilities for the use of only three or four. Their discussions were ended by the Supreme Court's decision declaring God's Law "unlawful".

Scripture Dealing With Eating

Scriptures dealing with "blessed-food" go into detail. The following is Scripture plus the margin notes made by the Reformation's John Knox and John Calvin contained in their 1599 Geneva Bible:⁸

"If the priest's daughter be married unto a stranger ("Margin Note: 'Who is not of the priests kindred') she may not eat of the holy offerings," (MN: 'that which Israelites offer to God for his blessing before they eat.') "Notwithstanding if the Priest's daughter be divorced, and have no child, but is returned unto her father's house, she shall eat of her father's bread, as she did in her youth: but there shall no stranger (zûwr - racial alien) eat thereof. ... So shall they not defile the holy things of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord." Lev 22:10-15

The Illustrated Davis Dictionary of the Bible, Royal Publishers, PO Box 47, Nashville, TN 37202, p. 348, "Idolatry," amplifies the above:

"The council of Jerusalem enjoined that they should abstain from the flesh of animals that had been sacrificed to idols (Acts 15:29). Paul gave the same injunction, but explained that in the case of those who had no faith in idols, abstinence was designed to avoid casting a stumbling block in the path of the weaker brethren (1 Cor. 8:4-13). If receiving hospitality at any house, and meat which might possibly have been offered to an idol was set on the table, the Christian guest was not required to ask any questions for conscience' sake; but if he was expressly told that the food had been offered to an idol

⁸ They assume that the reader knows that Jesus Christ appointed the reader a king and a priest (Rev 1:5-6).

(ed: an alien religious belief), then he was to abstain. The same rule was to be carried out with regard to food purchased for the household in the ordinary market (1 Cor 10: 18-33)."

The Catholic Church, long ago addressed the question of eating food offered to such idols:

"In 1205, Innocent ... wrote ... to the Count of Nevers, whom he threatened with excommunication ..."

"It is scandalous that Christians should have their cattle slaughtered and their grapes pressed by Jews, who are thus enabled to take their portion and to impose the leavings, prepared according to Jewish religious precepts, upon Christians. It is a still greater sin that this wine, prepared by Jews, should be used in the church for the sacrament of the Lord's Supper." (Epistole X, 120, od. Bulu2, II., p. 198 (J/E p687) Inquisition.)

Priests' Chicanery

Christian priests who ask God to "bless food" and "make it holy," food that is to be fed to a "mixed" company of Christians and zûwr-strangers, commit an "unforgivable sin." They know the curse attached to such "blessings," - but bless that which God has cursed, anyway. Often, attempting to evade the punishment attached to the "sin," they sidestep asking God to "Bless this food" (thereby making it holy), they simply "thank God," and ask God to bless the "fellowship" and the "purpose of the dinner meeting" with strangers - all of which still violates the law. !9

⁹ "For thou didst separate them from all the people of the world to be thine inheritance." 1 Ki 8:51, "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... lest they make thee sin against me." 1 Ki 4:21-24

The priests neglecting to "bless this food" still violates the spirit of the Law and the many scriptures that forbid such things.¹⁰

Priests who obey Scripture and refuse to bless that which God has cursed are blacked-out by the alien-controlled media. They are relegated to the backwaters of nowhere by the simple expediency of being denied media exposure of any kind. This in turn denies them a whack at incredible riches that attend being allowed to use the media. The word is out: priests who fail to bless food which is given to strangers drive beatup VWs and are forgotten figures. Disobedient priests who ignore the Christian eating ritual win establishment favor, drive Mercedes, and can even be media-promoted into becoming household names.

Food Blessed by Alien Gods

Food blessed by alien gods is considered by many Christians to be the same as food blessed by "devils." Many Christians consider themselves cursed if they eat it. Before 1940 - a Kosher food advertisement was often all that was needed to ensure that Christians would NOT buy or eat the advertised product. Ethnic restaurants serving food blessed by alien gods usually fared poorly. Black restaurants were seldom frequented by White Christians although the quality of the food served was often good. Chinese and Vietnamese restaurants were curiosities similar to "fortune tellers."¹¹ Few patronized them.

¹⁰ "Withdraw from among the Gentiles and do not eat with them, and do not according to their actions, and be not their companion, for their actions are unclean and all their ways are defiled." Jubilees 22:17

¹¹ "There shall not be found among you anyone ... who casts a spell." Deut 18:10-11

Having Lunch

"Free trade" with strangers is prohibited by God's Law. "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (Heb: zûer), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth. Pr. 6:1

In Christendom, strangers have developed an effective method of bypassing this prohibition. It's called - "having lunch." The "business lunch" is an important ritual whether or not business agreements are actually consummated. Why? Even among kinsmen there are those a Christian is allowed to eat with and people he is not allowed to eat with. "If any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such a one, no, not to eat." 1 Cor 5:11

To eat with a person tells the Christian world that the person you are eating with is innocent of any of the above faults - that YOU have investigated and have given him your "stamp of approval"; otherwise you would not eat with him.

In this context, the "free lunch" that someone buys for you may not be "free." You may look on it as a "bite to eat," but the stranger may advertise it as YOUR "stamp of approval." Long after you have forgotten the incident, he will still be using your name and your "stamp of approval" by talking about the time you "had lunch" with him. That isolated event can become a lever used to pry open other doors.¹²

Eat With Wolves

Wolves who can't eat with sheep cannot receive the Sheep's blessing. Virginia and most other states had ancient laws and customs prohibiting White Christians from eating with strangers. These laws were taken to the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court was appointed by a leader who had himself been elected by the wolf-media. This court ruled that God's Law was unlawful and that strangers should eat with White-Christians and receive their blessing. They forced the Commonwealth of Virginia to integrate its eating establishments, and since Virginia's governor, senate and house were also elected by the same wolf- media, no resistance was made to protect Virginians.

The owners of restaurants were confronted with the choice of disobeying an alien god, OR, disobeying their Shepherd. Hundreds and thousands of restaurants closed down. It was an economic disaster. People ruined themselves rather than violate what they considered the WORD of God. America became a land of martyrs.

I remember one restaurant in particular. It was in Charlottesville, across the road from the UVA tennis courts on old Route #29. It was a fine restaurant in a prime location and must have done more than a million dollar business - and that was back then. Its owner closed it down rather than serve Christian food to strangers. I pass by several times a year and see that a different business occupies the premises each time. The blessing is gone.

Summary

The gods of Islamic, Hindu, and Edomite-Jewish peoples do not, and can not obey the Law of the God of Israel. They are not the same any more than the god of the Samaritans, the people who used the same scriptures that the Israelites used, was the same God that the Israelites worshiped.¹³

Rabbis bless food in the Jewish manner to make the food "Kosher" thereby fulfilling their god's requirements.¹⁴ Therefore, food prepared according to the Rabbi's direction is approved by their god. This god is a god that Christendom has traditionally considered an idol. Thus, food blessed by this alien god is regarded as cursed by many Christians and they refuse to eat it.

The Stamp Of Approval

I speak at meetings, churches, and church conferences. Most of these groups have forgotten, or don't care, about the Christian rules dealing with "eating with strangers." It appears that any Turk, Samaritan, mulatto, child of the east, or zûwr stranger having the price of admission, is welcome. Once there, his "attendance" gives the interloper that group's "stamp of approval." Attendees have told me, "If they are there - they must be OK." I have had obvious strangers tell me that they are there to find a wife. Even mixed-race couples are present, and the "Christian" leadership "sees no evil." Their uncontested presence gives them that group's "stamp of approval."

13 "The king of Assyria brought men from Babylon ... and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel ... Then the King of Assyria commanded carry thither one of the priests whom ye brought from thence ... and let him teach them the manner of the god of the land ... howbeit ... they fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... which the Lord commanded the children of ... Israel ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day." II Ki 17:24- 41

14 Kosher: The Compact Edition Of The Oxford English Dictionary, ".... food prepared according to Jewish law."

The End Result

"It is not good to take the children's bread and cast it to dogs." Matt 15:24

The individual is not permitted to eat with strangers. Neither is the nation itself permitted to eat with strangers. The nation who asks the God of Israel to bless its food and then, while its own people hunger, gives the "holy food" to zûwr-nations who hate the God of Israel, will reap the consequence.

To live in a land ruled by the anti-Christ one must obey or die.¹⁵ Still, God's punishment will come with the disobedience regardless of whose fault it is.

"It is not meet (good) to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs." Matt 15:24. "Let the children first be filled: for it is not meet to take the children's bread, and cast it unto the dogs." Mark 7:27

Today, the Saxon eats with those who hate him. He feeds those who hate him. He feeds them with holy God-blessed food. Strangers are filled before the children.

Once the Saxon emerges from Egypt and has what is needed to survive, only then is he to comply with the rest of the command:

"It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs ... yet the dogs eat of the crumbs." Matt 15:26-27

Until then: those who eat with strangers, eat food that has been offered to God to be blessed, bring God's curse on the land.

¹⁵ "In case anyone of their own blood should attempt to confound or dissolve their constitution (laws), they should take vengeance on them, both all in general, and each person in particular ... if they were not able to take such vengeance, they should still demonstrate that what was done was contrary to their wills." Antiquities 4:8:45

LETTER FROM S. AFRICA

Dear Mr. Hoskins; There are 26 organizations to the left of the Conservative Party who want to take part in the 1999 election and hold talks with Mbeki the new black president who replaced Mandela. They forget that before the 1994 election, Mbeki told an American publication that he will talk to the right as long as he can further his aims by doing so.

We feel it is part of the master plan to denude SA of all able whites. It is much easier to bribe another black dictator as is done in the rest of Africa.

The constant media talk about Afrikaner cruelties related before the Tutu commission has done its work causing racial tension and hatred in schools. We look on as royalty and heads of government troop in laden with gifts to pay homage to a savage and wonder who encouraged them to be so stupid?

The Dutch Reform Church members decisively rejected the Belhar confession. A full 80% of the white members voted against it. The church leaders were all for it. Someone asked the question how it is possible for the DRC to have two Jewish church moderators in one generation, namely Dr. William Nicol and Johan Heynes. Johan Heynes was shot by an unknown assassin while eating supper last week.

Piet Pretorius, the author of Betrayed, lost his appeal in the case brought to court by the Conservative Party. But still found a way to distribute his book.

With our best wishes. K.J.

RKH: The book Betrayed, written by an insider, disclosed that practically ALL members of the white government that turned S. Africa over to the blacks were involved in the treason in some way or other.

10'S & 100'S: Richard: "The Christian people have a definite format for their government. The format is very simple: 1, 10, 50, 100, 1000, 10,000, etc.

"The base of our government is a man. The man is the ruler of the basic unit, the family. The man is to provide all the physical, emotional, and spiritual needs of the family. The man administers justice within the family unit according to the laws, statutes, and judgments as defined in the scriptures. The man is responsible to his wife (or wives), children, servants, elders, and anyone else who submits to the unit.

"The 10 men unite to form a tenship. These men select a spokesman for the group. This man administers to, for, or with the group. This man is chosen for his scriptural knowledge and wisdom from life experiences to keep the tenship in order. All the men must agree on the selection of the spokesman; because he administers the judgments for the tenship.

"As the government builds, 5 spokesmen from 5 tenships meet and select 1 spokesman for the 50; then 2 spokesmen from 2 of these groups of 50 meet and select 1 spokesman for the 100; 10 spokesmen from 10 groups of 100 meet and select 1 spokesman for the 1000; 10 spokesmen from the groups of 1000 meet and select 1 spokesman for the 10,000.

"The descendants of Adam rule from the bottom up, never from the top down. The government, military, and judicial system are all administered in this manner." J.J. - Kansas RKH: Tens and hundreds is also the system used by the angels in heaven.

Chapter 285

A STATE RELIGION

Tyrants attempt to pre-empt God's WORD by using their own state religion and priests to bless their acts. Servants of the WORD who continue to oppose them are simply exterminated. Kings employ these two techniques with distressing regularity.

Hyrcanus (134-104 B.C.)

Following the Maccabean Wars, Judea was ruled by the WORD. The ruling party was that of the Pharisees who were strict in their beliefs. Under their rule Judea prospered. All this was un-done by Hyrcanus.

Hyrcanus' great-grandfather was Mattathias who started the revolt against the Greek-Syrians in protest against their blasphemy to the WORD. Against impossible odds, the children of Israel won. Hyrcanus, as grandson of the legendary Mattathias, was looked upon as the nation's leader. Then, almost by default, he became its king.¹ He was also high priest - meaning that he spoke for God.² This made him the most powerful man in all Judea.

Like all kings, Hyrcanus was desperate for money. The land of the cursed Idumeans lay to the south of Judea. The spice route traversed this land. To get the job of protecting the route, and a handsome cut of the profits that went with protecting the route, Hyrcanus invaded and annexed Idumea. The income would allow him to build up his army for future conquests which he had in mind.

But there was a major problem that had to be overcome - the Idumeans. Hyrcanus was an Israelite Pharisee, the fundamentalists of the day. They believed that if the WORD said it - do it. And on the subject of Idumeans the WORD was clear:

"(Strangers) shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21,24

The problem with driving the Idumeans out is that they knew how the silk route worked. In essence, if there were no longer Idumeans, there would be no silk route. And if there were no silk route there would be no money from it. The big

1 "This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots.... And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants. And he will take the tenth of your seed, and of your vineyards, and give to his officers, and to his servants. ... He shall take the tenth of your sheep: and ye shall be his servants. And ye shall cry out in the day because of your king which ye shall have chosen you; and the Lord will not hear you in that day." I Sam 8:11-18

2 "Moses commanded the Levites ... saying, Take this ... law and put it in the side of the ark ... that it may be there for a witness against thee. For I know thy rebellion ... behold, while I am yet alive ... ye have been rebellious against the Lord; and how much more after my death? ... For I know that after my death ye will ... turn aside from the way which I have commanded you." Deut 31: 24-29 problem was that the dyed-in-the-wool pharisees would never allow Idumeans to live in their land. This was Hyrcanus' solution to the problem:

"Hyrcanus ... subdued all the Idumeans; and permitted them to stay in that country, if they would circumcise their genitals, and make use of the laws of the Jews; and ... they submitted to the use of circumcision and the rest of the Jewish ways of living; at which time ... they were hereafter no other than Jews." Antiquities 13:9:1³

Hyrcanus was able to incorporate the cursed Idumeans into the Israelite nation of Judea because he was high priest and spoke for God. Also, he had an army to back his decrees (kings must have armies to enforce their statutes). Hyrcanus then left the Pharisee party that was causing him trouble and joined the religious-economic party of the Sadducees. He then made them a state religion with himself as its head. In this way his own appointed Sadducee priests could bless that which God cursed. Sadduceeism was an episcopal religion - from the top down - just like the ones we have today. The Pharisees fumed, but were helpless since there was no one to remove the tyrant.

Hyrcanus then proceeded to conquer surrounding countries, greatly increasing the prestige and wealth of Judea. He also brought in alien peoples and their gods into the Israelite nation of Judea. This disobedience removed the WORD's

3 FOOTNOTE on Antiquities 13:19:1: "This, in the opinion of Josephus, made them proselytes of justice, or entire Jews. ... Ammonius, a grammarian, says: - "The Jews are such by nature, and from the beginning, whilst the Idumeans were not Jews from the beginning, but Phoenicians and Syrians; but being afterwards subdued by the Jews and compelled to be circumcised and to unite into one nation, and be subject to the same laws, they were called Jews." Dio also says: - "That country is also called Judea, and the people Jews; and this name is given also to as many as embrace their religion, though of other nations."

protection and triggered God's curse⁴ that was fulfilled in 87 A.D. when Jerusalem was crushed by the Roman army, and the various peoples trapped inside were led away as slaves.

Rome

Rome was an empire. It had conquered many nations and their gods and had built temples for each of them in Rome. Since each god has its own laws, their laws often clashed one with another. The one who refereed the gods' disputes was the Roman emperor. Since the one who judges is greater than those he judges, it was only a question of time before the Roman emperor was logically declared to be a god himself and his statue was placed in every temple along with the gods he judged.

Since, as a practical matter, it was the edicts and statutes of the Roman Emperor that must be obeyed rather than the WORD, the priests in Judea entrusted with proclaiming the WORD dwelled instead on inconsequential matters. The people, left with no leadership and ignorant of what God required, ran wild. In time, the WORD was all but forgotten.

Jesus Christ - Revolutionary

Into this quagmire came Jesus the Christ. He was a teacher. He brought back the WORD. Not just the 1/3 dealing with personal salvation, but the 2/3rds dealing with government.

The WORD in its entirety caused consternation among the people, their religious rulers, their temporal rulers, and their Roman rulers. What the WORD demanded was diametrically opposed to almost everything that was going on. It was sure to bring down the wrath of the Roman authorities. If this were to happen the religious leaders would lose their positions.

Their solution to the problem was to kill Jesus, which they did, but that did not really solve their problem.

The WORD Spreads

Jerusalem was destroyed, but the WORD rippled out to the children of Israel living in Greece, Rome, and the rest of the known world.⁵ There it found root and flourished.⁶ Christians, in spite of horrible persecutions, obeyed the WORD. This impacted trade with strangers in Rome and outside,⁷ condemned slavery on which the Roman Empire rested,⁸ and taxes which paid the armies and the legions of government employees.⁹ The effect on the Roman economy was serious.

The Roman solution was the same solution that Hyrcanus used. Rome's emperor was Constantine - the one who murdered his wife and oldest son. He pre-empted the thriving Christian movement by taking it over. He made it the official religion of the Roman Empire - with himself its de-facto head.

5 "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Mark 16:15-16. To keep from creating an oxymoron, this command must be qualified by, "And go, get thee to them of the captivity, unto the children of thy people, and speak unto them, tell them, Thus saith the Lord God." Ez 3:11; "Oh children of Israel ... You only have I known of all families of the earth." Amos 3:1; "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying ... go ... to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5-6; "I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 15:24;

6 The wild olive grafted in is the House of Israel that went into captivity in 721 B.C.

7 "If thou has stricken thy hand with a stranger (2114), thou art snared with the words of thy mouth." Pr. 6:1; "They shall not dwell in thy land; and thou shall drive them out before thee." Ex 23:31

8 "If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him; then that thief shall die." Deut 24:7

9 "Of whom do the kings of the earth take custom or tribute? of their own children, or of strangers? Peter saith unto him, Of strangers. Jesus saith unto him, Then are the children free." Matt 17:25-17

He proceeded to confirm old leaders and to appoint new ones to the various Christian churches. His appointees were then instructed to use only the scriptures selected by the Roman Church, and which were acceptable to the Roman Empire. This was the Roman "canon".

The Bible

The Canon was not finally approved until 367 A.D. The tentative final product included a number of "old Testament" scrolls to which was attached the 4 gospels - one each from the four major Christian centers of the day. Paul was added to please the Marcians, as were a smattering of other books which were the most popular in that day.

Christianity had never had a canon of books judged "acceptable" by a state before. In earlier days, the WORD was in the great mass of Israelite religious writings.¹⁰ The parts of this new Roman "canon" quickly understood and accepted¹¹ by the Greeks, Romans, French, Spaniards and North Africans descended from the refugees of the 721 B.C. Diaspora were parts such as:

"Oh children of Israel ... You only have I known of all families of the earth." Amos 3:1

""It is not meet to take the children's bread, and to cast it to dogs." Math 15:24,26

"I was sent to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 15:24 N.E.B.

¹⁰ "Now will I point out a mystery: Many sinners shall ... speak evil things; they shall utter falsehood ... and compose books in their own words. But when they shall write all my words correctly in their own languages, They shall neither change nor diminish them; but shall write them all correctly." I Enoch 104:7-9

¹¹ "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me." John 10:27

"For thou art not sent ... but to the house of Israel." EZ 3:5

"He showed his word unto Jacob, his statutes and his judgments unto Israel. He hath not dealt so with any nation: and as for his judgments, they have not known them." Ps 147:19- 20

Separatist quotes such as these were sure to cause no end of controversy. Skillful state priests, then as now, were able to hide many of them behind lies and deception, but, what do you do with even more forceful quotes from some other books used by Jesus?

"If there is any man in Israel who desires to give his daughter or his sister to ... the Gentiles, he shall surely die ... for Israel is holy to the lord ... And to this law there is no limit of days and no ceasing and no forgiveness ... And thou, Moses, command the children of israel ... that they shall not give any of their daughters to the Gentiles and that they shall not take any of the daughters of the Gentiles; for ... it is disgraceful to Israel ... for it is unclean and accursed to Israel; ... for there will be plagues upon plagues, curse upon curse, and all punishment and plagues and curses will come .. and if they blind their eyes to those that commit uncleanness ... then shalt the whole people together be punished." Jubilees 30:6-13

Quotes such as the above can't be easily explained to a group of Roman Hindu-Christians who are expected to accept Jesus as one of their gods. The best thing to do was to somehow get rid of the book. It contained hate material considered seditious by the Roman state. After all, Rome was an empire. Empires integrate divergent peoples - not drive them away. That's what they do. Nations separate their people from other peoples - that's why they are a nation. Rome, the integrationist trade empire was attempting to do something very difficult - they were adapting a separationist religion to an integrationist state as its sole official state religion. Jubilees, the book containing the above quote, obviously could not be included in a state canon, even though Jesus had quoted from it time after time. There were other quotes from other books almost as bad. Those, too, were passed over.

This left out Jasher, Jubilees, Enoch I & II and Adam & Eve I & II. Many "overlooked" books which also contained the WORD faded from the memory of man when the Roman authorities found that the WORD was continuing to cause more problems than they could handle. Their solution? Ban people from reading ANY of the Scriptures - canon or not. You can do that when you have an episcopacy. For this reason a great mass of literature was pushed into the outer darkness and, in time, was forgotten. Following is a partial list of books mentioned in the Bible and by early Christian writers which were once widely studied, but now have become extant largely because of the Roman ban.

Ritual Substitutes For The WORD

Where the WORD is taught it is sufficient to sit in open fields or deep forest even in the rain and snow. The spiritual food is filling enough to keep listeners warm and glued to their seats.

This is not so with episcopal religions. Episcopal religions are made episcopal to enable those at the top to censor the parts of the WORD that would set those at the bottom free. Episcopal priests are allowed to teach only the things which bless their superiors. Their listeners can only act on what they know. They only know what they hear. The parts of the WORD dangerous to tyrant's rule are censored at the top so that the people never hear them. This is why episcopacies were created in the first place. This also reduces the WORD to milk. People tire of milk. Episcopacies must substitute great stone or glass cathedrals replete with extravagant ritual and music to try to compete with the simple message of the WORD. The episcopacies' need for ritual is the same the world over whether Christian or Hindu. Always, the need is the same:

Albigenses And Waldenses

In the 12th century in southern Europe lived the Waldenses and Albigenses. They heard and eagerly accepted the WORD. They formed communities off to themselves protected by nobles and knights who had been converted.

When their taxes and tithes ceased to arrive in Rome, the pope sent priests to bring this new theology back to orthodoxy. When this effort failed, the pope sent an army to exterminate them before their beliefs could spread elsewhere. The Albegensions and Waldenses died by the tens of thousands. Their epitaph was pronounced by the conquering general when asked whom he wished to have killed; "Kill them all and let God sort them out."

When the WORD rules, the people are free. To regain control, tyrants hire false priests to try to pre-empt and neutralize God's rule. If this fails - the seeker of the WORD is hunted down and exterminated to avoid contaminating the whole.

Wycliffe's Bible

Every time the WORD reaches the Saxon, there is a reaction.

In the 14th century the King of England was engaged in a dispute with the Vatican over money. A Roman Catholic priest named Wycliffe supported the claims of the English king. In return for this theological support the English king protected Wycliffe from the Catholic Church while Wycliffe put the Scriptures into the hands of "poor preachers" who took the WORD all over England.

Without fanfare, Saxons learned the WORD - including the law forbidding taxation. One day Archbishop Sudbury added a tax of three goats to the already heavy tax load of the people. Instantly, all England rebelled. Forty thousand armed men, in their manorial militias, marched on London. On their way they hanged tyrannical judges, lawyers, and priests. This took place in an age when the king's army seldom numbered much over 10,000. The rebel's leader's name was Tyler; his theological advisor was a former Catholic priest named Ball. They met with the king and his representatives and demanded relief from taxes. They also demanded that the land be divided. If the land was divided making every man a king and a priest, what need was there for either a King to rule England or for a Pope to rule the king?

Faced with the prospect of losing his job, the king of England struck back in a dastardly manner. Under a flag of truce he had Tyler murdered. Tyler's army forgot that they themselves had been appointed kings and priests, it was their job to take over and rule. Instead, they dissolved into a rabble. As a result the soldiers of the king had no trouble hunting them down singly and in small groups and hanging them by the thousands.

Huss (1372-1415)

On the continent, a priest named Huss learned from the teachings of Wycliffe what the Bible said and demanded freedom for himself and his people. Huss attended a peace conference. While there he was seized and burned at the stake. His followers reacted with a series of revolts that devastated central Europe before they were finally hunted down and exterminated.

When the people are ruled by the WORD - they are free. If they will not accept a new god from the establishment - the establishment exterminates them.

Luther's Bible

Martin Luther was a Catholic priest who wished to reform the Catholic Church. The Catholic Church was organized as an episcopacy to support the policy of its leader. It was not designed to be reformed. Luther's reforms challenged its rule. The Vatican came down hard on Luther. Luther received protection from local kings who had long coveted Catholic Church lands.

Under their protection he translated the Bible into German. The people read the WORD and promptly proceeded to put it into effect.

The Peasants Revolt of 1525-26

The peasants seized church lands and divided them, and took many other privileges allowed by the WORD but forbidden by the Catholic Church. Many disillusioned nobles, knights, and even church clerics joined the movement.

The local kings were stunned. They had offered their help and protection to Luther on condition that THEY were to get church's lands. And now, the people had taken it instead. The kings had nothing to gain, so they backed off. In effect, they were throwing Luther to the tender mercies of an enraged Catholic Church.

Luther now had no one to protect him. To regain the protection of the local "protestant" rulers, Luther abandoned the peasants and wrote a treatise "Against the Lying Thieving Peasants" in which he lambasted them for their seizure of Church lands for themselves and for other excesses that had occurred. The Protestant kings and nobles, waving Luther's treatise in their hands as if it were a hunting license, slaughtered the peasants by the thousands. This ended the German reformation. The Protestant and Catholic nobles fought long and hard over who was to get the land and taxing rights, and left Germany a vast smoking cemetery. When it was over things were as they had been before. The system remained, but in places just under different management.

Huguenots

One quarter of France had turned Protestant. Trade within the Catholic party declined by approximately the percent that was Protestant. The friction between the two groups was calmed by the approaching marriage of the Catholic king's sister and the leader of the Protestants. All efforts were made to soften and gloss over past disagreements. On August 24, 1574, St. Bartholomew's Day, the order was issued for Catholics to kill the Protestants. The Protestants were caught completely unprepared. Fifty thousand men, women and children were killed in Paris alone. The totals reached into the hundreds of thousands. Protestant France ceased to exist and the old trade monopolies were restored. The Catholic Church struck a metal commemorating the event.¹³

Calvin's & Knox's Bible

John Calvin lived in Geneva, Switzerland. He wasn't dependent on a king nor a church for protection. The people of Geneva had asked him to live in their midst and they protected him. Geneva attracted other persecuted Christians from all over Europe. Together they produced the Geneva Bible that took the WORD to Britain.

Calvin was one of the most prolific writers of his day and probably the most influential reformer. He was hated by the world's episcopacies because of comments such as the following:

"Obedience to man must not become disobedience to God"

¹³ Of the Huguenots who survived, many refugeeed to Germany, South Africa, England and America.

"How absurd would it be that in satisfying men you should incur the displeasure of him for whose sake you obey men themselves! The Lord, therefore, is the King of Kings, who, when he has opened his sacred mouth, must alone be heard, before all and above all men; next to him we are subject to those men who are in authority over us, but only in him. If they command anything against him, let it go un-esteemed. ... I know with what great and present peril this constancy is menaced, because kings bear defiance with the greatest displeasure, whose "wrath is a messenger of death" (Prov 16:14), says Solomon. but since this edict has been proclaimed by the heavenly herald, Peter - "We must obey God rather than men" (Acts 5:29) - let us comfort ourselves with the thought that we are rendering that obedience which the Lord requires when we suffer anything rather than turn aside from piety. And that our courage may not grow faint, Paul pricks at us with another goad: That we have been redeemed by Christ at so great a price as our redemption cost him, so that we should not enslave ourselves to the wicked desires of men - much less be subject to their impiety (I Cor. 7:23). GOD BE PRAISED.¹⁴

Britain

The WORD reached Britain and re-ignited the Wycliffe movement. John Knox with his Covenanters, backed by the Scottish nobles, challenged the King. The Puritans of England, backed by many of their own nobles, did the same. The king was defeated and plans were being made to implement radical changes along Biblical lines.

¹⁴ "Institutes of the Christian Religion", The Westminster Press, Philadelphia. 1960
(Dedicated to Francis I (reigned 1515-1547) Valois king of France. Book 4: Chapter 20: Paragraph 32:

Oliver Cromwell, general of the puritan armies, was ordered to disband his army. He refused and, backed by his army, disbanded Parliament instead. He put his followers on lands formerly held by the king's followers. After he died, a new king confirmed this new land arrangement in exchange for their support. Then began the reign of terror where every Covenanter and Puritan was brought before magistrates and either executed, imprisoned, banished to the colonies, fined, or suffered some sort of indignity. The throne, trade, and the episcopal protestant religion were safe. "Long live the king!"

Ireland 1641

Ireland was given by the Papacy to the king of England. England changed from episcopal Catholic to episcopal Protestant. The people of Ireland remained Catholic and the people of Scotland remained Presbyterian. Absentee Anglican-episcopal English landowners owned both Scotland and Ireland. The English landowners found that sheep's wool was more profitable than Scottish tenants so they drove the Scots from their farms to the cities and replaced them with sheep. The Irish Catholics revolted against Protestant-episcopal England and the English drove the Irish Catholics from their English owned farms in the north and replaced them with the landless Scottish farmers living in hovels in the Scottish cities.

Presbyterian Scots and episcopal Catholics in northern Ireland lived near each other on more or less friendly terms. These Scotch-Irish paid their land rents to England and their tithe to their own. The episcopal-Catholics also paid their land rents to England - their tithes went to the Catholic Church. One morning in 1641 the Catholics were ordered to kill their protestant neighbors - and they did. In a very short time half a million were dead - men, women and children. England sent troops to both northern and southern Ireland to protect her investment. When persuasion and mission work does not secure their objectives - episcopacies, ALL episcopacies - use force - over and over and over.

Removing The Apocrypha

The WORD which is God, created man in the beginning. It is by the WORD that man is saved. The Holy Scriptures contain the WORD that teaches man. To oppress man, man must first be removed from those parts of the WORD that reveal to him his rights and instructs him to fight for them if necessary.

Since the advent of Christ, "the word made flesh", the war against his teachings has followed this course: * The WORD was first censored when existing Christian congregations were pre-empted by a state church which had the empire ruler as its head; * Certain of the Holy Scriptures were pronounced "inspired". The rest were banished; * The reading of even the "inspired" scriptures was banned; * Sanitized prayer books were issued to replace the Scriptures; and * Government subsidized Bibles were issued to replace Bibles containing the reformers margin notes. * To prepare the way for today's "universal free trade", the most nationalistic section of the Bible, the Apocrypha, was removed. In this manner, access to the WORD that is to set us free, has been restricted by its enemies.

Suppressing The Geneva Brood Lands

Each independent untaxed farm is a free universe in its self - a place where likeminded Christians can meet and study, a place looked on as a breeding ground of sedition against the episcopacies' establishment. Following is Karl Marx's observation:

"Next, Karl Marx. The Protocols say, 'The aristocracy of the peoples, as a political force, is dead ... but as landed proprietors they can still be harmful to us from the fact that they are self-sufficing in the resources upon which they live. It is essential therefore for us at whatever cost to deprive them of their land ... At the same time we must intensively patronize trade and industry ... what we want is that industry should drain off from the land both labor and capital and by means of speculation transfer into our hands all the money of the world ...'

"Karl Marx in his Communist Manifesto exactly followed this formula. True he declared that Communism might be summed up in one sentence, 'abolition of private property', but subsequently he qualified this dictum by restricting actual confiscation to land and implying that other types of private property were to remain intact. (In the later Marxist event, of course, all private property was confiscated, but I speak here of the strict parallel between the strategy laid down before the event alike by the Protocols and Marx)." ¹⁵

Not only did the independent farm come under threat, but every place that could act as a refuge - like the city-state of Geneva - the place where men like John Calvin could seek refuge and where a thousand more like him were trained.

¹⁵ The Controversy of Zion by Douglas Read, Noontide Press, Newport Beach, CA, 1985. p. 219

Places like this must be methodically and savagely destroyed. This is a main reason that the American South, the Boer lands of S. Africa, and NS Germany were destroyed. It is why the Apocrypha was removed from the Bible with little more comment by the clerics than is given to today's football game.

Replacing The Sheep

Humans are blind to the fact that without man to provide food for them - they don't eat. The curse placed on them in the beginning remains.¹⁶ All that the world's episcopacies can see is that man is, and has always been, the obstacle to their ever-building Tower of Bable - their new world order. Wearing blinders of hate - they stupidly pursue their plan. Their Balak Plan is ancient and it is simple - remove man through intermarriage and you remove man who is the obstacle.¹⁷

To accomplish this they have opened the floodgates to strangers from all over the world to pour into Saxon lands. The ancient objective is the extinction of Saxon-man through racial intermarriage.

Seminaries

Saxons have been taught that they should have "educated" preachers, preferably ones with degrees from theological seminaries.

Theological seminaries have received a great deal of attention from the establishment in recent years. Establishment businesses and corporations grant them substantial sums to help them build and endow their work. All that is asked is for them to be permitted to appoint the occupants of one or more chairs that they endow. Those that occupy these chairs often do not teach Biblical law. Thus, in Christian seminaries, we have strangers, who follow a different god, teaching the WORD to Saxon-man. What is actually taught is Biblical-Law plus Dharma.¹⁸ The result is that most seminary graduates march from their alma-maters in lock-step with glazed eyes to do the work of their teacher's god. A great lethargy has settled over Saxon-dom as the WORD is smothered in the stranger's Dharma-love.

Judeo-Christian

To replace the void left as mainstream Christianity goes Christian-Hindu, a new religion has been created. Certain preachers are permitted to collect the riches of the media in exchange for suppressing God's Laws, statutes and judgments which is man's God. Replacing them are rituals, parables, music, and tradition. But Law and the punishment for violating God's Law are excluded. The result has been fantastically successful. Judeo- Christianity was non-existent in 1930 and has now grown to take its place along with the other existing Christian- Hindu religions.

¹⁸ Hindu: "Dharma" - non-violence, obedience, tolerance of other peoples and their gods without regard to "race, creed, or nationality." Buddhist technique of pacifying divergent populations to expedite trade. "Dharmitized" - to be subdued by Dharma. "Dharmamatra" - government enforcer of Dharma.

Government Regulation Of Churches

When the International Trade Cartel (ITC) was first making inroads into the West - money was freely lavished on cooperating priests. Now that there are so many priests willing to abandon the WORD of the King of Kings, in exchange for the tax-exemption of the king, they can afford to be more demanding. Dharma is now defined by decree. To keep from paying taxes churches must now comply with a lengthy check list:

Churches must:

- 1) be incorporated.
- 2) Admit existence granted by IRS instead of God
- 3) Have a recognized creed and IRS approved form of worship.
- 4) Have a definite and distinct ecclesiastical government - an hierachical government.
- 5) Have IRS approved " formal code of doctrine and discipline".
- 6) Be a denomination with a distinct religious history.
- 7) Must be an "organization".
- 8) Have ordained ministers.
- 9) Have "prescribed courses of study".
- 10) "Have established places of worship".
- 11) Pay a tax to the IRS for tax-exempt status.
- 12) Be engaged in activities furthering "exclusively public purposes".
- 13) The church must answer to the IRS as to its "daily activities".
- 14) The IRS must be privy to all financial transactions including sources, donors of $100 or more and expenditures.
- 15) The church may not use cash or it will be suspected of money laundering. Books and records available to the IRS at all times.
- 16) The church must inform the IRS of the names of all employees.
- 17) Names of charity recipients.
- 18) Fill in form 1099 for gifts over $600 to evangelists & missionaries.
- 19) May use only IRS approved methods of fundraising.
- 20) May not preach against tax system or against practices of IRS.
- 21) Pastor must give unlimited submission to all

- laws including "Public Policy".
- 22) Must advocate, promote, and actively encourage race mixing if church has an educational ministry.
 - 23) Pastor cannot influence legislation concerning licensing of church ministries.
 - 24) May not engage in political activities opposing pornography.
 - 25) May not support legislation saying that children belong to parents not the state.
 - 26) May not actively oppose lotteries or gambling laws.
 - 27) Can not advocate support of the US or state constitutions as the supreme law of the land. (Public policy takes precedence.)
 - 28) May not actively participate in opposing the public school system.
 - 29) May not publicly declare that the church is to obey God rather than the government.
 - 30) The pastor cannot oppose laws legalizing sodomy.¹⁹

Tax-Exemption Result On Organized Religion

The state makes tax-exempt only those things of which they approve. In Lynchburg, Virginia, all churches preached and practiced racial separation. They always had. Within a week of the Supreme Court announcing that they had outlawed God's Law requiring racial separation - every church in town received a new revelation from god, and except for a few, one by one they announced the end of the 350 year old Christian policy of racial separation. It took them just one week! By their actions these ministers revealed that whoever can make and enforce the rules is their god.

When one speaks to tax-exempt preachers regarding Scriptural topics, one can't help but note their evasiveness. Their conversation will follow almost exactly the government guidelines listed above. They will not chance saying anything that might cost them their precious tax-exemption. These priests do what they are told to do to keep their retainers. The IRS tells them to support the policy of the king and teach "Dharma-tolerance" to their congregations - and they do. They are required to do this to the exclusion of everything the WORD has taught to the contrary for 5,000 years, and which their ancestors have believed and taught with all their hearts and minds in this country since the early 1600s.

Subjects Censored

Revolts by those who acknowledge the WORD as God are either defused by false priests or they are hunted down and exterminated. In this generation there has been little reason to hunt down Christian zealots and exterminate them - they offer the establishment no problem. They have succumbed to the words of false priests.

The so-called "Identity Movement" is held up as the next source of reformed Christianity. Doubtless there are teachers within the movement who hold true to the WORD as proclaimed by Jesus Christ, but it has been my experience that four out of five of them are nothing more than propagandized Dharmatized mainline automatons who also claim descent from the patriarchs just as every European royal family does.

Following is a check list. We know that 33% of the Bible deals with personal improvement. Teaching personal improvement is entirely acceptable to the establishment. We also know that 67% of the Bible deals with government - and this is the part that the establishment intends to suppress.

As a test; when is the last time your minister gave a sermon on the following subjects?:

- | | |
|---------------------------|----------------------------|
| * personal salvation 32% | the altar |
| vs Godly | * strangers in the land |
| government 68% | * stranger's and their |
| * historical Biblical | lawlessness |
| censorship | * interracial marriage |
| * Sabbath blue laws | * eating w/strangers |
| * jury trial by strangers | * division of land |

| of kings | * 10s, 100s |
| * strangers approaching | * self-sufficient farm |
| the tabernacle | system |
| * strangers approaching | * reparations abolition |

If you have a preacher who will not preach on these subjects - you have a state priest who is operating under another flag.

*"In the last days ... men shall be ... Traitors ... more than lovers of God; Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof."
2 Tim 3:1-5*

Conclusion

The establishment has given us false priests to mislead us. If they fail, history says that they will then try to give us the sword.

Their false priests have hidden the WORD from us while the establishment has aborted a generation of our children, and corrupted a large part of another generation. They have kidnaped hundreds of thousands and hold prisoners in jails to be hired out to any who will pay the king slave wages for their labor. They allow strangers to pour into our land and plot to use them to destroy us through intermarriage according to their ancient Balak Plan.

To keep us quiet they have given us the best preachers that money can buy. Their IRS has instructed these priests what to preach and what not to preach. These priests are expected to pre-empt the Christian WORD with the IRS approved state religion - a religion that teaches that we must love everyone without regard to race, creed or national origin. What is the result? Christians are leaving the mainstream churches in droves.

What is the difference between what they teach and the WORD brought by Jesus?

"The people were astonished at his doctrine: For he taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes." Matt 7:28-29

God's people miss the WORD - the WHOLE WORD. Not only the part that deals with the individual, but the part that teaches the kind of government we are to have. We must know this so that, "Thy will be done on EARTH as it is in heaven." How else can this come about?

*"I will send My Word and save thee and thy seed." Adam & Eve

Who will take God's WORD to his people so they might be saved? The dropout priests approved by the IRS? No, indeed. Our Lord Jesus Christ prepared a priesthood for this day millennia ago;

"Jesus Christ... hath made us kings & priests unto God and his Father." Rev. 1:5-6

There you have it, reader. It's YOU. Their attempt to "pre-empt" God's WORD has failed. Soon it will be time for them to try their rough stuff. But, it's too late. We've read the instruction manual and we can handle that, too.

So, with no king other than our King Jesus to protect us, we do what our God put us here on this earth to do. It is time for us to get off our duffs and be about the Lord's work.²⁰ We have a world to win, a people to save, and the WORD to give to all who will receive it.

²⁰ The next time your preacher violates God's Law, don't just sit quietly - call him on it - even if you have to do it before the entire assembly. A man cannot serve God and mammon. You have been appointed a king and a priest by Jesus Christ and you have your commission.

THE NAPHIDEM STRANGER Part I

Sons Of God

Without supporting information, the following verse makes little sense to most:

*"And it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, That the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they chose ... and they bare children to them."
Gen 6:1-4*

There are books available which make clear the meaning of this and other verses like it. It isn't until one actually studies some of these books well known at the time of Jesus, and some which were actually used by him, that the answer becomes clear - and the answer is very important. It colors every thing that follows, and is certainly the reason that the Roman empire censored what men read.

Let's fill the missing gaps with information from books from Jesus' time such as I & II Enoch, Jubilees, I & II Adam and Eve, Jasher, and Josephus.

Adam Disobeyed

Adam and Eve were spirits made in the image of God the Word. They listened to the Serpent and were banished from the Garden of Eden. Most people speculating on the location of the Garden of Eden look in the wrong place. The Garden of Eden is a heavenly place, a spiritual garden, made for a spiritual Man, a spiritual condition to which he will return in three score and ten years. Man's first and natural condition is spirit. On earth, God clothed their spirits with earthy bodies which had earthly needs such as food and water. Earthly bodies wear out - Adam and Eve also needed children to replace themselves if Adam-Man was to remain on earth and not die out.¹³

1 "The garden was not far above them, but only some 15 spiritual cubits." II Adam & Eve 11:8

2 "Then Adam rose up in prayer ... 'O god, thou knowest that we transgressed against Thee, and from the moment we transgressed, we were bereft of our bright nature; and our body became brutish, requiring food and drink; and with animal desires.'" I A&E 72:21

3 "Go, say to the Watchers of heaven ... Wherefore have you ... have taken to yourselves wives ... and have begotten giants? You ... living a life which is eternal ... have done as those of flesh and blood do. These however die and perish. Therefore have I given to them wives, that ... sons might be born of them ... But you ... were made spiritual, living a life which is eternal, and not subject to death ... Therefore I made not wives for you, because being spiritual, your dwelling is in heaven." I Enoch 15:1-7

The Scriptures say that Adam and Eve they had children. II A&E 2:8 says, "As for Adam ... offspring born of them; ... Cain, Luluwa, Abel, Aklia, and Seth alone"; while the footnote in Antiquities 2:3 says that Adam had 33 sons and 23 daughters. Regardless, the earth was soon well populated with Adamite-Man.⁴

It appears that the name "Adam" is a generic name for all Adam- men, and "Eve" the generic name for all Adam- women. There were many individuals of each sex. It was after they had left the Garden of Eden that the "sons of God" descended to earth, assumed the form of men and took wives from all those that they chose.

The Devils Among Us

The Scriptures say "Thou believest there is one God ... the devils also believe, and tremble." Jas 2:19. The one God known by the devils is the same God the WORD in whose image Adam-Man is made. Unlike most of us, the devils actually read and know the Scriptures. They sometimes assume that Man knows the same things they do - which is why they accuse us of saying that they are "descendants of devils." They know that, but most men, not knowing the Scriptures, deny the accusation.

In some of the Scriptures that the establishment church did not "inspire" and which their state priests discourage us from reading, we learn the following:

"Now the giants ... born of spirit and of flesh, shall be called upon earth evil spirits, and on earth shall be their habitation. Evil spirits

shall proceed from their flesh, because they were created from above, from the holy Watchers was their beginning ... Evil spirits shall they be upon earth, and the spirits of the wicked shall they be called. The habitation of the spirits of heaven shall be in heaven; but upon earth shall be the habitation of terrestrial spirits, who are born in earth. The spirits of the giants shall be like clouds, which shall oppress, corrupt, fall, contend, and bruise upon earth. They shall cause lamentation. No food shall they eat; and they shall be thirsty; they shall be concealed, and those spirits shall rise up against the sons of men, and against women; for they come forth from them during the days of slaughter and destruction." I Enoch 15:8- 10⁵

Further, the place of concealment of the Giant's evil spirits, mentioned above, is found below:

"The flood came over the earth, namely on account of fornication, in which the Watchmen indulged against the commandments of their law, with the daughters of men, and took to themselves wives from all whom they chose and made the beginning of uncleanness. And they begat sons, the Naphidem, and they were all unlike and they devoured one another: the giant slew the Naphil, and the Naphil slew Eljo, and Eljo the children of men, and all publicly practiced every unrighteousness and shed much blood." Jubilees 7:17-18

First the "sons of God" take the daughters of men, and now "Watchmen" take the daughters of men to wife. Evidently the two are the same. They are also called "fallen angels", "Angels of the Lord", "Serpents", as well as Watchmen, Devils, Grigori, hater of all good, and the red Dragon.

To make it even more complicated, their offspring are called GIANTS or NAPHIDEM. They are also given other names; devils, Cainnites, Naphidem, Naphil and Eljo. etc. These names correspond today to the countless names of the yellow, black, and brown races that endlessly fight each other - and us.

Quick Recap

- * First - the Serpent in the Garden.
- * Next - the Watchers come to Earth.
- * Third - the Giants, offspring of the Watchers and daughters of man, also called Naphidem - subdivided into the races which we know today.

Reason For The Strangers' Lawlessness

The evil acts of the Naphidem (strangers) are the result of the evil spirits of the Giants in-dwelling them. The Watchers were Lawless, so are their offspring, the "Giants-Naphidem." Like breeds like. This is the reason for the command;

"A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." Deut 23:2.

Scripture says that an Adamite is made in the image of God. A combination of Adamite (the good) with Naphidem (the evil) makes the combination evil. The offspring of a mixed marriage is always a Naphidem-Stranger.

This is why the adulterous offspring of Man and Stranger is never accepted by the Adamic society and is ALWAYS assigned to the group of the Stranger.

Noah's Descendants

There are those who believe that Noah's Flood destroyed the Watchers descendants, and as a result, all races are descended from Noah. This is impossible since God made "each after his own kind"; a Black African cannot sire a Yellow

Chinese. But, where did the races come from AFTER the flood? This question is answered by the following Scripture:

"Noah brought into the ark from all living creatures that were upon earth, so that there was none left but which Noah brought into the ark." Jasher 6:8.

There you have it. Noah took ALL into the ark. This would include the Giants-Naphidem who went by the name of devils, Cainnites, Naphidem, Naphil, and Eljo. etc. and which today correspond to the yellow, black, and brown races.

The Contestants

Mankind is divided into two personalities:

- Those who follow their own lust, and;
- Those who follow the WORD and their inspired reason. Inspired reason is reason derived from the Law.

Two creatures compete for possession of the Earth:

- The descendants of the Watchers, the Naphidem, and;
- The descendants of Adam-Man.

The opposing spirits within these two creatures are:

- The spirit of the disobedient Naphidem descended from the Serpent-Watchers who were cast from heaven; and
- The spirit of obedience which is in Adam-Man who was made in the image of God the WORD.⁶

⁶ I used to marvel that when black Naphidem, white Naphidem, and Adamites would meet - the black and white Naphidem would combine forces against the Adamite. Black and white Naphidem ally themselves against the Adamite in S. Africa, America, Europe, and Australia. How could it be otherwise?

The Strategy

The Serpent's strategy was to make Adam eat the apple, thereby breaking God's command and causing God to ban Adam from Eden which the Serpent coveted. It worked.

Adam was banished to Earth and was given an earthy body. The Serpent landed in India.⁷

Then, the Serpent tried to gain the earth for himself by throwing Adam and Eve from a mountain.

"They came to .. a very high mountain, ... the Devil drew near to Adam and Eve, and made them go up to the top in reality, and not in a vision; wishing, as he did, to throw them down and kill them, and to wipe off their name from the earth; so that this earth should remain to him and his hosts alone. ... Then came the Word from God to Adam, and said unto him, 'Know thou and understand concerning this Satan, that he seeks to deceive thee and thy seed after thee.'" I A&E 28:10;29:4⁸

This attempt failed, also.

Following this, the sons of God called Watchers were sent from heaven to help Man. Instead of helping Man they disobeyed God and married daughters of Man and raised Giants-Naphidem of different races. These Naphidem contained the disobedient spirit of the Serpent-Watchers and they warred against Man. Following is the continuation of the story.

⁷ "When the accursed serpent saw Adam and Eve it ... made straight for Eve, and ran after her ... Then the Word of God came to the serpent, and ... a wind came to blow from heaven by command of God that carried away the serpent from Adam and Eve, threw it on the seashore, and it landed in India." I A&E 18:1-9

Intermarriage With Beasts

A stratagem of the fallen angels was to tempt Man with racial intermarriage with Naphidem who are also called beasts.

"Adam and Eve returned from the mountain ... and went down ... to the place where their corn was, but when there a multitude of beasts came all round them. It was Satan's doing ... in order to wage war against Adam through marriage." I A&E 69:9-11.

Beast is another name descriptive of the Naphidem that we can add to Devil and Cain.⁹ A four legged beast has the nature of a beast. It will eat and breed anything. If it has a universal language it would consist of two words, "I want". A two legged beast has the nature of a four legged beast. It too, will eat and breed anything. A beast is slave to his own lusts.

Non-Adamic races have the beast nature. God's Law dealing with racial intermarriage with these types is spelled out in the passage following; it could as easily have applied to the earlier Watchmen marriages to the daughters of Adam-Man:

"If a Man (Heb:adam - "man" - blush red) lie with a beast, he shall surely be put to death: and ye shall slay the beast. And if a woman ... lie down thereto, thou shalt kill the woman and the beast." Leviticus 20:15-16¹⁰

9 "The meaning of Cain is 'hater'... Therefore did Adam name him Cain." I Adam & Eve 74:7; "Among the children of Cain, there was much robbery, murder, and sin." II Adam & Eve 13:2; "Then command again thy people not to hold intercourse with the children of Cain, and not to learn their ways; for I am God who loves not hatred and the works of iniquity." Adam & Eve 19:4

10 "Beast" wears clothing in Johah 3:8; "Beast", "cries mightily unto God". Johah 3:8; "Beast" has hands. Exodus 19:13; "Beast" capable of mixing with Man. Jer. 31:27; "Beast" keeps the vineyard. Song of Solomon, Chap 1.; Jesus called the Syro-Phoenician woman a "dog". Dogs, swine, beasts, having a beast's nature, descriptive words for lawless non-Man.

Reason For Political Systems

In Man's eyes, strangers act like beasts. They eat anything, they breed anything, and they do anything that they want to do that they can get away with. Like dogs, Strangers can be highly trained, but, like dogs, deprived of Man-imposed restraint they soon relapse into their natural state of lawlessness. Chasing after their lusts; they scatter in a thousand directions and gather in an instant to fight over trifles. Such a nature must be ruled with a firm hand. This is why the beast nature requires an episcopal organization to ensure order. It needs corporation-type organization patterned after the wolf-pack to produce any sort of united effort.

When those with the beast nature enter the adamic Man's sheepfold, they find his presbytery system, rule from the bottom up with every Man voluntarily obedient to the Law of an invisible King, absolutely ludicrous. It is a license for the beast to commit mayhem. The beast only respects his own wolf-pack episcopacy. The Naphidem-beast disobeys his alpha-ruler at the risk of his life.

Man is warned against associating with strangers who have the beast nature. *"Lest ye learn their ways."*¹¹

Continuing Warfare

The Serpent's plot caused Adam and Eve to be evicted from the Garden of Eden so that the Serpent could have the Garden for his own. He then tried to destroy them by hurling them from a mountain so that he could have the Earth for himself and his followers. This, too, failed. Then he tried intermarriage with "Beasts", and this failed. His next try was a repeat of what had gone before.

The Balak Plan

This is the story of Balak and his plan which so nearly destroyed Israel: interracial marriage; Balak Plan

"Balak, the king of the Moabites, who had ... a friendship ... with the Midianites, saw how great the Israelites were grown, he was much affrighted ... he ... did not judge it prudent to fight against them ... so he resolved to send ambassadors to the Midianites about them.

"Now the Midianites, knowing there was one Balaam ... who lived by the Euphrates, and who was the greatest of the prophets at that time ... sent ... to entreat the prophet to come to them, that he might imprecate curses to the destruction of the Israelites.

"So Balaam received the ambassadors, ... and told them ... that God ... had raised him to great reputation on account of the truth of his predictions; ... and not to persist in their enmity against the Israelites ... Balaam ... went along with the ambassadors ... (to Balak)." Antiquities 4:6:3

The Plot

The prophet Balaam advised Balak, the ruler of the Moabites, that he must do the following in order to destroy the Israelites:

"If you ... gain a victory over them (the Israelites, then do thusly)

"Set out the handsomest ... of your daughters ... then ... send them to be near the Israelites ... and when they are enamored of them ... persuade them to leave off their obedience to their own laws and the word of that God who established them ... for by this means God will be angry at them. ... when Balaam had suggested this counsel to them, he went his way.

"... this Balaam ... did ... suggest that advice to them, by making use of which, our enemies had well-nigh corrupted the whole multitude of the Hebrews with their wives ..." Antiquities 4:6:6-13

One must clearly understand the point being made. Strangers, unable to destroy the nation of Israel openly, tried to make them violate God's Law against intermarriage. If they could be made to violate this law, then God the WORD would destroy his own people, since he had promised that he would. A remarkable plan, one diabolical in its simplicity. The plot was activated by merely bringing Israel in contact with strangers and letting nature do the rest. This would put Adam-Man in conflict with his God the WORD who promised that he would destroy all who broke His Commandments. We all know the end of the story:

"Zimri, the head of the tribe of Simeon, accompanied with Cosbi, a Midianitish woman ... and being desired by her to disregard the laws of Moses, and to follow those she was used to, he complied with her; and this both by sacrificing after a manner different from his own, and by taking a stranger to wife. When things were thus, Moses was afraid that matters should grow worse, and called the people to a congregation ... (and spoke saying that some of them) did not do what was either worthy of themselves, or of their fathers, by preferring pleasure to God, ... And besides that, he said it was not a reasonable thing, when they had lived soberly in the wilderness, to act madly now when they were in prosperity..."

"Zimi arose up after him, and said, 'Yes, indeed, Moses, thou art at liberty to make use of such laws as thou art so fond of ... but thou shalt not have me one of thy followers in thy tyrannical commands, for thou dost nothing else hitherto, but, under pretense of laws, and of God, wickedly impose on us slavery, and gain domination to thyself, while thou deprivest us of the sweetness of life, which consists in acting according to our own wills ...

"I have married, as thou sayest rightly, a strange woman, and thou hearest what I do from myself as from one that is free; for truly I did not intend to conceal myself. I also own that I sacrificed to those gods to whom you did not think it fit to sacrifice; and I think it right to come at truth by inquiring of many people, and not like one that lives under tyranny ...

"Upon this the assembly was dissolved. However, the mischievous attempt had proceeded further, if Zimri had not been first slain, which came to pass on the following occasion: - Phineas, a man in other respects better than the rest of the young men ... resolved in earnest to inflict punishment on him, before his unworthy behavior should grow stronger by impunity ... So he came into Zimri's tent and slew him with his javelin, and with it he slew Cozbi also. Upon which, all those young men that had a regard to virtue, and aimed to do a glorious action, imitated Phineas's boldness, and slew those that were found to be guilty of the same crime with Zimri. Accordingly, many of those that had transgressed, perished by the maganimous valour of these young men, and the rest all perished by a plague ... All those ... who, instead of hindering them from such wicked actions, as they ought to have done, had persuaded them to go on, were esteemed by God as partners in their wickedness and died. ...

"This was the cause why Moses was provoked to send an army to destroy the Midianites ... and appointed Phineas for their commander ... as he that had guarded the laws of the Hebrews, and had inflicted punishment on Zimri when he had transgressed them." Antiquities 4:6:10 - 4:7:1¹²

Provocations

The Balak plan failed, but the attempts by Strangers to make Man violate God's Law continue. If Man can be made to violate God's Commandments, God's wrath will fall on Man and he will be destroyed. This is the reason the Naphidem and their agents insisting on the following:

* Prisons - The Law's two primary punishments for crime are: Execution or restitution. There is no provision for kidnapping an Adam-Man accused of a crime and keeping him as a slave. To do so violates God's Law.¹³

they are even beginning to look like what they have become.¹⁴

* Immigration of Naphidem-Strangers into our land - This is a variation of the Balak Plan.¹⁵

* Strangers ruling over us - It is not permitted to have Naphidem-Strangers ruling over us, either as kings, governors, soldiers, or police. Neither are we to permit media-owners to select their agents for us to choose for our kings.¹⁶

* Abortion -LAW;abortionI A Serpent-Watcher by the name of Kasyade taught Mankind how to abort their young. "Kasyade (one of the Watchers): he discovered to the children of men every wicked stroke of spirits and of demons: The stroke of the embyro in the womb, to diminish it." I Enoch

* Integration of Strangers-Naphidem into Man's churches

- The integration of Adamic and Naphidem is encouraged by the Naphidem media to act as a direct affront to God. Some Adamic churches even have Naphidem-Strangers teach from their pulpits.¹⁸

* Sunday Blue Laws - From the very beginning the organized church wished to show God the Word who was the greater, so they changed the Sabbath from Saturday to Sunday: "The venerable day of the sun" is to be the day for rest for the Empire - Constantine I, Emperor AD 307-337. (Richard Ames, The Plain Truth, p. 22, July 1989.)

"Then, about AD 365, the Synod of Laodicea, in its 29th canon, declared 'Anathema [or accursed] from Christ' those who persisted in resting on the seventh day. Those Christian Sabbath-keepers who refused to compromise suffered frequent persecution at the hands of the religiously intolerant. During the reign of Queen Elizabeth I in the 16th century, a 'great disputation' arose in England over the Sabbath question. Many advocated the observance of the 7th day.

"Several Sabbath-keeping congregations formed in various parts of England during the 17th and early 18th centuries. Since it was illegal to conduct religious services outside the established church, Sabbath meetings for worship and preaching were held in secret because of fears of persecution and death." Sabbath, Ency Brit 14th Ed.¹⁹

There are countless abominations the Naphidem, aided by their Judas hirelings, have forced Adam-Man to do. All of them directed to the same objective; that of making God the WORD angry with those made in his image so that he will destroy his creation. This will accomplish the ancient plan of the Serpent- Watchers - to have God destroy Adam-Man - thereby leaving the Earth to the Serpent- Watcher's offspring, the Naphidem- Strangers, those with the nature of the beast and in whom resides the spirit of the Serpent-Watchers called the "Devil".

Y2K

We are told that on Jan 1, 2000, the world as we know it will come to an end. The old computer programs were designed to cope with the abbreviated last two numbers such as '98 instead of 1998. When the year 2000 arrives the old programs are supposed to revert to 1900 - creating havoc with the IRS, Social Security, banking, utilities, billing, etc.

I was a stockbroker for 32 years. During that time I have heard schemes to manufacture engines that run on water at least 15 times. In fact, I've heard just about every sort of con imaginable. Y2K appears to be a media scare. It's reasonable to assume that computer programmers have already written programs to fix any upcoming disaster.

I wouldn't worry.

Letter From S. Africa by H.K.

Dear Mr. Hoskins: To keep afloat, the blacks sell more and more government property to foreigners, and for the rest, cut essential services. The black government has never fulfilled their promises to their black voters concerning jobs. To alleviate the shortage of jobs, the best they can do is to remove whites from the civil service (the few left) and from any other position they can think of.

There is a coup story in circulation that will not go away and it sounds near to the truth. Some of Mandela's party are believed to have tried to unseat him. He discovered the plot and dealt with it and the matter has been hushed up.

During Clinton's recent visit, Viljoen was the only opposition leader he spoke to. The explanation was that Clinton was apparently informed about Viljoen's involvement in the major conspiracy against the Afrikanervolk to prevent them from revolting against the DeKlerk- Slovo-Mandela plan for White surrender. Or, as a way to continue waging the Boer War by other means.

I am afraid news from here is not that optimistic. There is still a lot of fighting to be done before we are in the clear again, but we will keep on until we win. With best wishes, K.J.

Chapter 287

THE NAPHIDEM STRANGER Part II - And Christian Patriots

Devil

White devil! Red devil! Black devil! Yellow devil! Who has not heard these terms? Where did these names come from? Our fathers gave them these names.

Our fathers believed that Naphidem-Strangers were part lawless devils and were descended from devils. The Scripture relates;

"The Watchmen indulged against the commandments of their law, with the daughters of men, and took to themselves wives from all whom they chose and ... they begat sons, the Naphidem." Jubilees 7:17- 18.

"Evil demons began to lead astray the sons of Noah ... slaying the sons of their sons. And (Noah) prayed before the Lord ... 'may the evil spirit not rule over them to destroy them off the earth ... And thou knowest ... the Watchmen, the fathers of these spirits." Jubilees 10:1-4

These Naphidem had had the spirit of devils in them, and would destroy Man given the chance. Our fathers believed that they were not to have contact with Strangers,¹ do business with them, adulterate their seed with them, or have them in their land. They believed that contact with Strangers would cause them to learn their ways - the ways of sorcery, voodoo, usury, abortion, seduction, lasciviousness lasciviousness, lying, drunkenness, immorality, racial interbreeding and war.

Our fathers believed that their God would destroy them if they tolerated Strangers - because God said He would.

"If ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed." I Sam 12:25; "If I deceive him to do this thing ... without God's commandment, God will kill him ... Therefore did Satan work ... before Adam and Eve; because he sought to kill him, and to make him disappear from off the face of the earth." I Adam & Eve 72:11-12

Strangers Conceal Our Scriptures

To protect themselves from a knowledgeable and militant Mankind,!2

Strangers concealed the WORD from Man while studying it themselves and using its instructions to destroy the very Man it was supposed to save.!3

To prevent Man from learning what they know, their state religion outlawed Man's study of his Scriptures for a thousand years. When confronted with armed force and forced to reveal the Scriptures, they revealed them in part. The part they revealed they blessed as "inspired", and the part dealing with the Stranger and government that they did not want Man to study they cursed as being "uninspired", thereby condemning part of God's Word to obscurity. Without studying the entire WORD of God - Man could not learn God's teachings concerning those who would destroy him.

Results Of Studying The Forbidden Scriptures

Study of the forbidden Scriptures reveals that the Stranger, the sons of the Naphidem-Watcher, is not only our enemy, but he is our mortal enemy - it is his intent to destroy Man from off the land so that they can have the Earth themselves.

2 Man: Heb. Adam (120) To blush red. Strong's Concordance

3 (1) The Scriptures instruct us to choose Phineas types to lead us. "Phineas ... made reconciliation for Israel. Therefore was there a covenant of peace made with him, that he should be the chief ... of his people." Enoch 46:23-24; But, Stranger's corporations subsidize Christian theological seminaries and influence teaching appointments. Foolish preachers learn from them and are blind. Strangers are free to use our Scriptures to direct their selection of Phineas-type leaders for their own countries (Note the leaders of the Israeli country, Russia and China). (2) The Scriptures instruct us to cause discord between groups of Strangers so they will not become strong; "The Lord said ... destroy ... the offspring of the Watchers, from among men ... send them one against another. Let them perish by mutual slaughter." 1 Enoch 10:18. Knowing our Scriptures they incite civil wars between our nations so that WE are few in number instead of them.

This must be repeated so that it is clearly understood. According to Scripture - *they mean to kill every last Man, woman and child of Mankind so that they can inherit the earth.*⁴

Master Plan

From the Garden of Eden to today the Stranger's master plan has been to use the simple technique of persuading or forcing Man to disobey his God. If Man can be made to disobey God's Commands - God will destroy him.⁵

Specifics

If Strangers can make Man go to war against his own kind, or persuade him to use the forbidden art of usury, or cause him to make a burnt offering of his aborted children to "Kasyade",⁶ the Watcher-god, they have succeeded. If they can keep a murderer or rapist alive instead of putting him to death, or quietly allow a Man to be kidnaped, made a slave and caged in a prison - they score. If they can lace Man's food with poisonous additives, root him from his self-sufficient farms and make him a wage slave for the Stranger's corporations; or cause him to be ruled by teachers, police, judges, and government officials who are Strangers - they triumph. If they can inflame Man with provocative printed and visual displays of debauchery which cause him to become a whoremonger

4 "The Devil drew near to Adam and Eve ... to throw them down and kill them, and to wipe off their name from the earth; so that this earth should remain to him and his hosts alone." I Adam & Eve 28:10:29:4

5 "If thou wilt not ... do all the words of the law ... the Lord will make ... (you) few in number ... because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the Lord thy God ... ye shall be plucked from off the land ... and thou shall fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life." Deut 58:66

6 "Kasyade (the angel): he discovered to the children of men ... the stroke of the embryo in the womb, to diminish it." I Enoch 68:17-18 and his women whores - they win. The more ways the Naphidem-Stranger can cause Man to disobey his God - the surer it is that Man's God will destroy Man.

Realization

If the ancients were right - the Stranger is what he is because of who he is - the offspring of the Watcher. The Watcher was called a devil. The Stranger's spirit is the Watcher's spirit because his bloodline is that of the Watchers. It is a devil-spirit. Its wants and desires are diametrically opposed to the wants and desires of Man who is made in the image of his God.

There is a world-wide attack by these Naphidem-Strangers against Man. In every Adamic country one sees Strangers. Individuals, scores, hundreds, thousands: Entire cities have been overrun with them. They are on welfare, they monopolize our peoples jobs, they take our Adamic women, they steal, they kill. Their hired kings and priests, their media, constantly attack, accuse, defame. Nothing is sacred. No place and no one is safe. They are everywhere!

It makes no difference if one concedes to the Stranger's demands. It makes no difference how far one retreats. The Stranger has read the Scriptures and knows what to do. To him there is a world to gain and nothing to lose. The only thing that will satisfy him is the extermination of Mankind.

Man's Tolerance Level

Adamic peoples have a tolerance level beyond which they will not retreat. With each individual it is different. One Man will not tolerate so much as an insult. Another will take a stand only after an intruder has broken into his land and killed his wife and children. Others can easily be moved by writings and stories of "freedom and liberty", while still others become upset when made to pay tribute. Then, there are those who judge everything by the Commands of their God; to them, any act that breaks God's Commandments is more than just a sin or an evil act, it is blasphemy against God. They are acutely aware that acts against God brings down God's wrath on the whole people.

What must be done? There is the line beyond which one cannot retreat. Day by day the Stranger's steamroller of abominations rolls closer and closer to that line. In time, the line will be overrun and the flame of protest will burst out everywhere.

More and more people see the danger and speak to their fellows to arouse them from their lethargy. The faithful try to obey the Commandments governing their conduct with Strangers. Their passive attitude becomes more difficult as the Stranger enacts government statutes outlawing the observance of Christian Law.

Some become disillusioned and begin to believe that talk, protest, and argument with cartel figureheads is useless. In their minds, to appeal to Stranger-appointed priests, kings, police, or judges; or, to appeal to owners of the banks and the great corporations is futile. To appeal to the oppressor to stop his oppression has never worked in the past. But, something must be done before the whole nation is destroyed - by its own GOD.

The Choice

It should be clear to every thinking Man that there is a problem. On the one hand we have government statutes that require that God's Law be violated. Many of these statutes carry the death penalty for violators. On the other hand God has handed down Laws that must be obeyed, Laws often diametrically opposed to those of the government. God has said that he will kill the Man and destroy the nation which disobeys them.

There you have it. If Man disobeys the government - government agents may kill him. If Man disobeys God, God will kill him. What is one to do? Most see the immediate threat to their well being and will heed the government. It is powerful and is very visible. However, there are those who will obey what they say is the Law of their God.

Following are the stories of a few men who chose the latter course, and in the process brought down on their heads the establishment's curse. These make an interesting study. Especially so since the Stranger is known to be unmerciful. The individuals involved do not reason the same as the collective flock. Subconsciously they hope that their sacrifice will encourage others to follow just as the nation of Israel copied the acts of Phineas and Gideon. Thus, they oppose the acts of the Stranger in spite of knowing that the Stranger will try to bring down on them ruin, imprisonment, and death. They do this because they believe that the wrath of their own God is greater than the wrath of the Stranger.

NOTE: The editor does not necessarily approve or condemn the actions of those whose stories follow; he merely reports them.

The Death Of Robert J. Mathews

Robert J. Mathews led an organization called The Order. The Order robbed establishment banks and armored cars.

With the money they paid themselves modest salaries using the rest to subsidize church ministries whom they felt were preaching the true WORD vs. the propaganda of the state church. Some of the money went to try to counter the poison of the Stranger's media, and some went to bail out desperate farmers being forced into bankruptcy by the establishment's policy of holding commodity prices low and bank interest rates high.

Mathews broke God's Law when he tried to enlist a Stranger into his organization. The Stranger, being Lawless, betrayed him and led him into an ambush at a motel. Surviving the ambush, though badly wounded, he managed to write the following letter explaining his actions:

"I wish to address the multitude of lies that the federals have been telling about Gary Lee Yarbrough and myself. ...

"When I stepped out of my motel room that morning, a gang of armed men came running at me. None of the men had uniforms on and the only thing they said was 'stop you bastard.' ... a woman agent shot at my back and the bullet missed and hit the motel manager. ... After running for two blocks I decided to quit being the hunted and become the hunter. I drew my gun and waited behind a concrete wall for the agents to draw near. When I aimed my gun at the head of the closest agent I saw the handsome face of a young White man and lowered my aim to his knee and his foot. Had I not done so I could have killed both agents and still had left the use of my hand which is now mangled beyond repair and which I might very well lose altogether. This is the last time I will ever give quarter.

"As for the traitor in room 14, we will eventually find him. If it takes ten years and we have to travel to the far ends of the earth we will find him. ...

"I am proud that I had the courage and the determination to stand and fight for our race and our heritage at a time in our history when such a deed is called a crime and not an act of valor.

"I am not going into hiding, rather I will press the FBI and let them know what it is like to become the hunted. Doing so it is only logical to assume that my days on this planet are rapidly drawing to a close. Even so, I have no fear. For the reality of life is death, and the worst the enemy can do to me is shorten my tour of duty in this world. I will leave knowing that my family and friends love me and support me. I will leave knowing I have made the ultimate sacrifice to secure the future of my children."

Robert Jay Mathews

Mathews was later surrounded by FBI agents in a house on Widby Island. The FBI said he refused to surrender. Others say the FBI did not allow him to surrender. They burned him to death, as he ran from window to window returning their fire. According to an unofficial count, he wounded more than 15 of his attackers.

Gordon Kahl

Gordon Kahl was a Christian Man. He knew the Biblical prohibition against taxes and he knew that taxes provide abortions. He was also working with others to plan a township for Christians only. Separatist efforts are considered taboo by the establishment. It cannot allow separatist movements and still maintain absolute rule.

Gordon Kahl and his party had openly attended a meeting in town and were returning home when they were suddenly ambushed by Federal Marshals who blocked the road with an automobile barricade and blocked their retreat with another. The marshals opened a murderous fire badly wounding his young son. Kahl shot his way out of the ambush killing a couple of his attackers in the process, and sparing the lives of others that he wounded and could have killed. He afterwards fled for his life, but before he left he wrote a letter, part of which follows:

"I would have liked nothing other than to be left alone, so I could enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which our forefathers willed to us.

"This was not to be after I discovered that our nation had fallen into the hands of an alien people, who are referred to as a nation with the other nations ...

"They have two objectives in their goal of ruling the world. Destroy Christianity and the White race. Neither can be accomplished by itself. They stand or fall together.

"We are engaged in a struggle to the death between the people of the Kingdom of God and the kingdom of Satan. It started long ago and is now best described as a struggle between Jacob and Esau.

" ... Should the hand of Elijah's God continue to be over me and protect me, I shall someday see this once-

⁷ Kahl's letter in its entirety is contained in Vigilantes Of Christendom, VPC, PO Box 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $18/copy great nation swept clean of Christ's enemies and restored to its former greatness ... Take heart, my fellow Christian Americans, God has said that there will be a great shaking in the land of Israel. That started this evening. Let each of you who says that the Lord Jesus Christ is your personal Savior sell his garment and buy a sword⁸

"I must now depart - I have no idea where I'm going, but after some more prayer, I will go where the Lord leads me and either live to carry on the fight or die, if that be the case, and for the present at least, I bid you all good-bye."

"Gordon Kahl"

Gordon Kahl fled to Arkansas where he was betrayed by a woman for the reward the feds offered for him. The feds shot him in the back of the head and burned his body.

Paul Hill

Paul Hill shot and killed an abortionist and his bodyguard. The judge refused to let him make a defense of "justifiable homicide", so he stood without a defense, mute, and was condemned to death.

Hill sent the editor of the HR a paper from which he stated that he had intended to reply to his accusers. Following are a few of the paper's basic arguments - most of which speak for themselves:

⁸ ED: "He said unto them ... he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one ... And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords, And he said unto them, It is enough." Luke 22:36-38; "Whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it." Matt 16: 24-25; "Cursed be he that doeth the work of the Lord deceitfully, and cursed be he that keepeth back his sword from blood." Jer 48:10.

* "When the State or any other authority requires one to do what is contrary to God's Law, the child of God 'must obey God rather than men.' Acts 5:29."

* "Who will defend the defenseless if we don't?"
"Therefore whatever you want others to do for you, do so for them; for this is the Law and the Prophets."
Matthew 7:12.

* "So you shall not pollute the land in which you are; for blood pollutes the land and no expiation can be made for the land for the blood that is shed on it, except by the blood of him who shed it." Numbers 35:33"

* "And he who does not take his cross and follow after Me is not worthy of Me. He who has found his life shall lose it, and he who has lost his life for My sake shall find it." Matt 10:38

Paul Hill posed the question that perhaps Jesus' use of force against the money changers delayed the destruction of Jerusalem.

(From Paul Hill's Defense, HR #245)

Bruce Pierce

Interview. From THULE, Vol II, Issue II, PO Box 33574, Portland, OR 97292

"The Magazine For Prisoners About Prisoners."

Q: What exactly were you charged with, and when, what was your sentence?

A: I received 5 - 20 year sentences equaling 100 years in 1986 for Rico, Rico conspiracy, armored car robberies and conspiracy to rob an armored car. I received another 150 years with a 50 year minimum in Denver, Colorado for violating the rights of Alan Berg. In 1988 I was tried for seditious conspiracy in Fort Smith, Arkansas. I was found innocent along with everyone else, but I was quite proud to have been charged with sedition.

Q: How do you feel the movement can best help you and other POW's?

A: Most of those who write us assume someone else is assisting us with funds and reading material. That is seldom the case. In actuality, we receive very little assistance. We can use help with both.

Q: Who do you consider POWs?

A: A true POW is one who was motivated by his beliefs to wage war on the system and was subsequently captured and incarcerated. The POW status is an exclusive term. And those prisoners who've not rightfully earned it should not appropriate it.

Q: What was your personal relationship with BOB MATHEWS, and can you give us some insights to him?

A: Bob was the founder and inspiration behind the Bruder Schweigen, Bob set the standard that we must all strive to achieve in dedication, commitment and bravery. Few are willing to stand up for their convictions, save buying a CD, attending a meeting, etc. or mouthing the well worn rhetorical phrases so common in the movement. Bob died for his convictions. We all must make a greater commitment to the cause.

Q: Who do you feel has the most unifying leadership potential in the movement today?

A: I've been incarcerated since 1985. I'm unaware of what potential there is on the street in the free world. I question the wisdom of unifying the movement. If we were unified we could more easily be infiltrated and controlled.

Q: What is your spiritual-political-ideology and why?

A: I'm Identity Christian. I believe the true WORD of Yahweh offers solutions to all of our problems. This truth and those solutions cannot be found in the Judeo-Christian churches today. Yahweh's law principles cover every aspect of life from A to Z while not restricting freedom as all man-made governments do.

Yahweh's law-principles incorporate those laws which protect the race that every racist desires. The wisdom of his law- principles protects us from evil men and greedy governments. We don't need another type of government. Even a government exclusively of white men. In time, greedy and evil men will assume positions in government and abuse us.

We need communities based exclusively upon the law principles of Yahweh which protect us from government and provide maximum freedom.

Q: Do you have any closing comments for our readers "behind the wire and on the streets"?

A: Let's be noble in all we do. An Aryan prisoner does not participate in the loathsome acts of degenerates.

A free Aryan must also exemplify character, integrity and nobleness in thought and deed. We must strive to live up to the most honorable examples of our ancestors and thereby bring honor to our holy cause. Honor is compulsion enough.

Joseph Franklin

I recently interviewed Joseph Franklin. Franklin is best known for shooting pornographer Larry Flynt. He has been convicted of shooting many interracial couples and has been condemned to death.

Q: What was the time frame of your activity?

A: I was active as a Phineas Priest from August 1977 to August 1980. My ministry lasted three years.

Q: What was the circumstances of your arrest?

A: It was because of my own violation of the Law. I had been without a woman for a long time and had engaged a prostitute. She was a pretty thing. She found out who I was and informed the FBI. I left by a window and since I assumed the bus station and airport were being watched, I rode a bicycle over the backroads to a nearby city. However, they were on to me and it was only a question of time.

I feel that I have done nothing un-Lawful except for this crime of fornication. My violation of God's Law also was the cause of my capture.

Q: How did you happen to go after Larry Flynt?

A: One day I picked up a copy of Hustler. I was appalled that such a magazine was available to fall into the hands of the youth of this country. I instantly determined to stop that man and punish him.⁹

I went to Columbus, Ohio twice but missed him. I went to North Carolina where Flynt had gone to see Jimmy Carter's sister, Ruth Stapleton Carter - but missed him again. I finally caught up with him in Georgia and shot him.

I often planned for weeks before undertaking a mission. There was one where I waited for weeks to take him out, but I never got the opportunity. I would rather not say who it was and alert him.

Q: How did you feel when you were going about shooting people?

A: I was just going about my business - I was doing a job. To properly do such work a person shouldn't hate, he should criticize the sin - not the sinner.

Q: What is your opinion of government agents?

A: I'm sure they have some good men among the FBI, ATF and Federal Marshals but from the ones I saw you would have to say that more than anything they resembled cockroaches or rodents. They work for a satanic system. They have sold themselves to the monsters who are oppressing our people. They assassinate, murder, frame innocent people and corrupt the people of the land. When they learned that I was taking out people who were obeying their law but violating God's Law, the opposite of what they were doing, they freaked. They really freaked. They hate God's Law. They never could bring themselves to believe that there were people besides themselves who would do what they do.

⁹ ED: "If a false witness rise up ... Then shall ye to unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother." Deu 19:16-19

Homosexuals - the prison system is loaded with them. They are among the staff. You can tell. When they search you they let their hands stay a few seconds too long in the vicinity of your genitals.

Q: By what authority did you shoot these people?

A: God sent me to do what I did. I was following in the steps of Gideon. I'm convinced that God led me. I felt that I would violate God's will if I did not follow his guidance.

Q: Would you do it again?

A: Not the way I did it when I was younger. Not at this period in my life. I'm older now and would explore other avenues. Violence is not always the way in many cases. I talk more now. I've gotten to know a lot of Blacks in prison and a tiny few feel the same way about their people that I feel about mine, although I read a recent survey which said that 80% of Black men prefer a White woman to a Black one. Still, I think that we can work with that few who don't want White women to achieve separation. The only one who can be counted on to consistently want integration is our government which is controlled by communists and homosexuals.

Q: Any regrets?

A: Yes, several. I regret being taken alive. A warrior should never be taken alive. Today I could not shoot a woman. There is something sacred about women. I regret that I did not do more, but my time was well spent. I consider the three years of my ministry as the most productive of my life.

Q: Any final words?

A: Yes. Avoid laziness. God gave each of us a different talent. Use your talent in his service to the utmost, whatever it is. Last, I had a dream not long ago that soon the government will start to come after all who resist their dictates. They will start with the organizations but will end with the individual - everyone.¹⁰

Conclusion

Each of the men involved in these stories believed that there was no remedy provided for the violation of God's Commands, either by today's media-selected king, or by the judges the king appointed to pronounce his acts legal. Consequently, each felt that to avoid condemnation by his God that he had to do all he could do to rectify an intolerable situation.

The alien has provided no safety valve which Man can use to vent his frustration and disapproval. With his economic, political, and armed strength he feels that he does not have to make concessions. The obvious conclusion is that the present collision of cultures, the Lawful culture of Man vs. the Lawless culture of Stranger, will generate more and more friction and in time a full-blown backlash. The more God's Laws are overrun and violated by the alien steamroller, the greater will be the backlash.

¹⁰ ED: It is interesting to speculate that if Joseph Franklin had been born a Jew instead of a Christian, and had done the things he did to the enemies of the Israeli people, he would possibly now be premier of the Israeli state instead of condemned to death in America.

Anti-terrorism

The Stranger knows full well that Mankind is seething - that there is a tidal wave of revolt building. They know that man has realized that today's happenings aren't abnormal - they are perfectly normal when seen through the eyes of the Stranger, and they are planned. They are POLICY. It is not planned for things to get better. They are going to get worse. There will be more media trashing of Whites; more murders, abortions, muggings, homosexuality, rape and media promoted interracial marriage - until the dam breaks.

Knowing the pressures building, the Stranger is busily confiscating guns and breaking up newly-formed militia groups. His media is trying to demonize Christian-patriots - a thing inconceivable only two years ago. Brain-dead and soul-dead janissaries are receiving "anti-terrorist" training - they are being conditioned to turn on and kill their own kind. Men in the Stranger's service are being radicalized for "the day". Immigration gates have been thrown wide to provide more recruits for the Stranger's armies.

Non-violence

In the face of the above it would be wonderful if we could establish dialogue with groups of strangers who wish separation for their people as we do for ours, and together we could work for separation. But, history has shown that such relationships must be carefully entered into, since they have often led to treachery with our people ending up in a condition worse than when they started.

It would be wonderful if a reform political party would come into being that holds the motto "God's commands are non-negotiable" as their standard. But, the half dozen or so protest political parties already in existence do not appear to be able to advance their cause, and there are none that hold God's Commandments to be supreme.

So, we are confronted with the demands of the Stranger on the one hand and the opposing demands of God on the other. Those who follow the Stranger can be counted on not to see their evil. Those who follow God will be bound by the commandment:

"We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29

Unless the Stranger relents and permits Man to worship God the WORD and follow His commands - it is with certainty that the day that is drawing closer is the day our Viking ancestors called Ragnaraak and our Israelite ancestors called Armageddon.

Letter From S. Africa by K.A.

"Dear Mr. Hoskins: The story of South Africa's downward trend has become a recurring phrase and we can only vaguely see the ultimate collapse. We are shocked every time these barbarians destroy another institution, or something dear to us. There is no limit to their destruction and it carries the approval of those who hate us, people like Robin Renwick, former British ambassador to SA and the British Queen, etc. All this is taking place at the same time. It is more than the average person can grasp.

The same holds good for the privatization of institutions and corporations. This may be taking place to gain control, but it seems more likely that it is to get the money they will get from selling these institutions. A case in point is Eskom electricity suppliers. The greed of these Blacks and Indians is something to behold.

Murderous attacks have likewise increased, but the Whites are more concerned about retaining their jobs - a valid reason. Also, they are concerned about whether to vote in 1999 or not, which is not a valid reason. It doesn't help to be in the system. By remaining outside, our people will regain their self respect and strength to resist. Unfortunately, people want instant solutions to problems they helped to create. They want an instantly-created leader to guide them out of the mess. They did not learn from yesterday's mistakes.

F.W. DeKlerk is divorcing his wife and is now staying with his new love, the Greek Elita Georgiadis. His brother Willem deKlerk is doing his bit of destruction by attacking the Bible and religion in his book "The Strange God and His People". According to him, "Those prudes must be rejected with determination because of their offense to the human body. Their conspiracy against pleasure and enjoyment and especially their suspicion towards the erotism of the human being." So much for this humanist atheist, and no wonder he and FW got rid of their first wives.

The worst is that he misleads others by discussing a book by a Professor Spannenberg of Unisa, "Perspectives On The Bible" who states, "The thesis is readily that all religions are busy with the same God. The footprints of God lie in all religions."

With thoughts like these they can only be a bunch of New Agers. Although Willem deKlerk was a former preacher, he now pretends that he is a psychology counselor and political analyst. From the time of their father Jan deKlerk, they have caused our people a lot of problems.

With Best Wishes,

NINE MILLION GERMANS

How the Allies sought to exterminate the German people after WWII. A review of Crimes and Mercies: The Fate of German Civilians Under Allied Occupation, 1944-1950. By James Bacque. [London, England: Little Brown & Co, 1997] Reviewed by Michael A. Hoffman II and printed with permission.¹

ED NOTE: This book has already been taken out of print. The Establishment's media will not discuss the subject. Remember, these are our brothers and sisters who were exterminated without reason while held defenseless. The WORD does not allow this.

Allied holocaust which resulted in millions of German deaths after the conclusion of the Second World War.

6 Million Jews? What About 9 Million Germans?

This was worse than any 'holocaust' allegedly caused by the National Socialists in wartime, for this was post-war genocide after total surrender, against a completely prostrate people.

Bacque's comprehensive marshaling of irrefutable demographic, epidemiological and statistical facts document that;

"At least 9.3 million Germans died needlessly soon after the war ... This is many more than died in battle, air raids and concentration camps during the war ... they (the Allies) did not end the killing at the end of the war but increased it ... far more civilian Germans died in 5 years of 'peace' than soldiers in six years of war."

That the attempted annihilation of the German people was deliberate cannot be contested. President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, "I am not willing at this time to say that we do not intend to destroy the German nation." The allied policy of annihilation was nothing new. After WW I the Allies starved nearly a million Germans (cf. C. Paul Vincent, The Politics of Hunger: The Allied Blockade of Germany, 1915-1919).

In addition to FDR, the other chief architects of the genocide were the Jewish-American Henry Morgenthau and Gen. Dwight Eisenhower. According to Morgenthau's aide, Fred Smith, Eisenhower announced in 1944 that when the war ended, he personally would like to "see things made good and hard for them (the German people)."

Morgenthau's plan for the systematic starvation of the German people through the destruction of their industrial capacity (and hence their ability to purchase grain for import), was officially dropped by the Americans. But in late November of 1944, Roosevelt told John Maynard Keynes in secret 'that the plan would be implemented.'

"U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull acknowledged that the Morgenthau Plan 'would mean the deaths of some 20 million Germans by starvation.'"

What finally assured the prolonged starvation of Germans was the enforced reduction of industry. In 1945, industrial production was deliberately reduced to around 25-30% of pre-war levels, thus preventing the chance of buying food imports... The Allies slowed oil production to a trickle, closed down factories, kept the labor force imprisoned, confiscated or destroyed factories and machinery ...

By false accounting the Allies also refused to credit the value of some German exports to the German account, making it impossible for Germans to earn foreign currency to buy food.

In Berlin in September 1945, an official estimated that half the children aged three and under would not survive the next year. The infant mortality rate in Berlin at that time was nearly 100%.

In Hamburg in 1946, in the British zone of occupation, while thousands of tons of surplus military food stockpiles were left to rot, 100,000 Germans were in the last stages of starvation.

In January of 1946, U.S Senator Kenneth Wherry stated,

"The American people should know once and for all that as a result of this government's official policy they are being made ... accomplices in the crime of mass starvation ... Germany is the only nation subjected to a deliberate starvation policy ..."

At the top level of the U.S. Army, General J.H. Hilldring responded by declaring that "the Germans were being treated too lavishly."

Foreign relief agencies were prevented from sending food from abroad;

"Red Cross food trains were sent back to Switzerland; all foreign governments were denied permission to send food to German civilians; fertilizer production was sharply reduced ... The fishing fleet was kept in port while people starved. British soldiers actually blew up one fishing boat in front of the eyes of astonished Germans."

When the Mennonite Central Committee in Canada and the US attempted to send food to the German people, the Allied military governments "refused the necessary permits."

In great Britain,

"Even the concept of voluntary aid via food parcels from Britain's civilians was anathema to Whitehall in October 1945. Such aid to Germans was forbidden."

The Nazi commander Arthur Seyss-Inquart was hanged at Nuremberg for withholding food from the Dutch, even though he ordered an airlift of food supplies to Holland when the Germans themselves were hard-pressed for food.

American naval officer Captain Albert Behnke compared the German civilians under the Allies with the conditions in Holland under the Germans, for which Seyss-Inquart has been executed as a war criminal:

"Germany was subjected to physical and psychic trauma unparalleled in history. The Germans under the Allies fared much worse than the Dutch under the Germans and for far longer."

The French occupiers took a terrible toll on German women, children and elderly, by "forced seizure of food." They also instituted a campaign of "mass rape" of German women in Stuttgart.

German churches in the French zone of occupation flew black flags to mark the interminable deaths from starvation that went on under the heel of the French. "The official ration in the French zone in January 1947 was 450 calories per day ..."

Canadian Army Officer Robert Greer witnessed the Germans in Berlin in the late autumn of 1945:

"Greer saw no men, only women and children. One of the boys was so thin 'you could see the cords of his legs quite clearly. The rest of the skin was tight about his bones. His face was expressionless, his mouth hung open ... Alf took the boy out to the car and gave him bread and cocoa and some stuff we had, and he took it with still no expression. He was so hungry that even the sight of food didn't arouse him."

The boy Green described was a survivor of the great ethnic cleansing of Germans in Eastern Europe, perpetuated by Poles and Czechs. The "Expulsion," as it has tepidly come to be called, was authorized under the Potsdam agreement signed by Stalin, Churchill and Truman. More than 16 million

The atrocities visited upon these Germans included gruesome mutilations: "In one Sudetenland village, all the German women were seized and their Achilles tendons were cut. As they lay on the ground screaming, the Czech men raped them. Some of them were raped many times in a day, day after day."

The Czechs shot German women at random and sought to kill German children by thirst: "The older children, red in their faces with fever and heat, lay in the grass, asking for something to drink ... the Czechs had made no arrangements whatever to look after these transports. It seemed that they had deliberately omitted to supply food or drink so that people should perish."

On the march back to central Germany, the hungry German civilians often "were so exhausted that they literally lay down and died ..." Hermine Muckusch, a grandmother from Jagerndorf in the Sudetenland was force-marched out of her homeland in the company of 27 children. Within fourteen days, all but one were dead. The sole survivor was Wolfi, her oldest grandson. The bodies of the German children were put in adult coffins, five to seven in each and buried together. They all died with their eyes and mouths open" from starvation.

Anyone who attempted to bring German children "food, shelter or medicine was shouted at as a Nazi by his fellow Czechs" and then the Army of Red rapists arrived.

At Neisse in Upper Silesia, the village priest wrote, "During the first night of the Russian occupation, many of the nuns were raped as many as fifty times." German nuns who resisted were knocked down, kicked, beaten, struck in the face with the butt-ends of revolvers and rifles until they collapsed into unconsciousness and were raped in that state.

Many of the German priests in the East "were murdered by Poles and Russians in the spring and summer of 1945. In Upper Silesia some 45 priests were murdered because they remained with their flocks to the bitter end."

Other German Christians also suffered horribly. Thousands of German Mennonites were beaten and shot at by British troops who tried to force them onto trains bound for the Soviet Gulag, "for example at Liezein in Austria in June 1945."

German mothers "were raped in the presence of their children, girls were raped in front of their brothers ..."

Hundreds of thousands of German civilians were forced into former Nazi concentrations camps now operated by Poles. Not many Germans survived these camps.

Today when a German survivor attempts to relate what happened he is "hampered ... by incredulity, by cover-ups ... For instance, bones discovered in 1976 and 1981 in mass graves at Kaltwasser/Bromberg were returned to the ground without any marker when it was decided by a Polish commission investigating Nazi war crimes that the dead had been German."

Bacque says that "Analogous incidents have occurred at Lambach in Austria and at Rheinberg, Erfurt and Bretzenheim in Germany."

Of the more than 16 million Germans forcibly expelled, Bacque says that 2.1 million are officially acknowledged as having died during their expulsion to central Germany, but that another 2.5 million are unaccounted for and that most of these also died, putting the total deaths among the German civilians of Eastern Europe as well over four million.

When one of the survivors, Dr. Martha Schulz Kent, was a student at an American university and attempted to relate what happened to her people on the trail of tears from the East, her professor interrupted her and said, "Here's our little Nazi. Seig Heil."

The author devotes a portion of Crimes and Mercies to elaborating the history of the Allied holocaust against German POWs, a study which he first advanced in 1989.

Bacque states:

"As soon as Germany surrendered on 8 May 1945, the American Military Governor, General Eisenhower, sent out an 'urgent courier' throughout the huge area that he commanded, making it a crime punishable by death for German civilians to feed prisoners."

Bacque uses the early chapters of Crimes and Mercies to bolster the arguments of his 1989 book, Other Losses, concerning the fate of the German prisoners under Eisenhower's command. Other Losses proved so threatening to the New World Order, that Bacque reports being followed and bugged by the intelligence agencies of several Western nations in aftermath of its publication. He is banned from many international archives and from the pages of major newspapers and magazines

Like David Irving's Goebbels, James Bacques's new book Crimes and Mercies cannot be published in the United States, due to the interdict of the Jewish lobby. It is published only in Canada and Britain

Bacques's sections on the fate of German prisoners is magnificent and proves that with the passage of time, Other Losses has been vindicated. In his chapter, "Holiday in Hell," Bacque makes a startling case for the Soviet gulags as having provided better treatment to German POWs in comparison with the horrors of the British, French and American POW camps.

Bacque also describes how the British ruling class recently committed perjury and suppressed documents in order to assist the English war criminal Lord Aldington in his libel suit against Nikolai Tolstoy. Tolstoy and Bacque maintain that in 1945 Aldington turned over tens of thousands of helpless White Russian dissidents, including women and children, to Stalin's butchers, "in scenes of dreadful suffering and protest so grotesque ... "

Aldington is not the only liar Bacque has the courage to name. He also cites the Zionist-controlled German bundesrepublik writer Rudiger Overmans, as a prevaricating Eisenhower apologist. Bacque shows that the current German government is the enemy of its people; that it has given away the nation's just claims to the ancestral German lands of East Prussia. The bundesrepublik has also made it a crime to investigate mass graves of German civilians murdered by the Allies: "No one is allowed to dig for the corpses of the murdered (German) prisoners in Germany" (cf.pp. 141 and 257-258).

To whitewash the nearly one million German prisoners murdered by Eisenhower, Overmans, "writing for the American professor Stephen E. Ambrose, who adores Eisenhower, claimed that the Americans took only 3.8 million German prisoners."

In a devastating retort to Overman, Bacque relates that,

"...in fact the Americans in northwest Europe alone took 5,224,310 prisoners ... according to SHAEF (Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force) documents which have already been published ... The effect of understating the prisoner catch of course is to minimize the deaths for which the army could be held responsible."

Another useful and unique aspect of Crimes and Mercies is the way in which Bacque has anticipated the stonewalling and denial of potential critics. He points out how after the starvation process was assured and set irretrievably in motion (after hundreds of thousands of Germans were still alive but too far gone to be saved from death), the Allies allowed token relief. For example, the author notes,

"By the time such pacifist organizations as the Mennonites of Canada were permitted to send food to their co-religionists in Germany, in June 1946, the overall death rate in Germany had risen to more than double the normal rate."

In this way the Allies covered their bases. Millions of Germans could be exterminated while a few thousand were rescued, thereby providing camouflage for the genocide.

The Marshall Plan is part of this myth, showcasing the "spotless virtue of the American government in its great benevolence to the Germans." But the Marshall Plan came after the mass starvations had been effected. The plan itself was an accounting trick and a public relations scam. Had the Germans been left alone, they could have, through their own famous work ethic, provided for themselves much better than the Marshall Plan did. Bacque points out that "The Americans took from Germany at least twenty times the amount the Germans retained under the Marshall Plan."

Bacque concludes Crimes and Mercies with an exposé of crooked historians and journalists.

"After 50 years all officials in the West are still denying the mass deaths in the French and American prison camps; only in Germany are the deaths of two million expellees remembered and mourned. No one anywhere has remarked on the fact that five to six million more people disappeared entirely from the German population, without note, or explanation. No historian, whether British, French, Russian, American, Canadian or German - not even a German historian - has remarked on this. Millions of people disappear under the Allies' rule and no one notices."

Bacque relates how after exposing N.Y. Times correspondent Drew Middleton as a fraud who helped to cover up the atrocities against the German people, Middleton and the arrogant Times did not even care:

"... the NY Times is so powerful it does not need to threaten people even when it is facing exposure. Middleton's sense of security, his sense of the NY Times' power, took my breath away. But worse than that, Middleton did not care about this atrocity (against Germans) ... one of the worst atrocities in Western history, the NY Times witnessed it, then denied it had happened. And has gone on denying it into the 1990s.

"... For most of the people of the West, the denials rest on delusion, not evidence. The question never even becomes, 'Did the Allies do such things?' because the answer has been planted in everyone's heads already ... The Answer is known before the evidence is consulted. In other worlds, belief is everything, evidence means nothing.

"... Many People who have cast doubt on German crimes have been fired from their jobs, vilified, deported, jailed or censored, while anyone who denies our post-war crimes against the Germans is published and praised by press, academe, army and government..."

Bacque adds this chilling note: "Following the publication of Other Losses in 1989, as I traveled for further research and publicity, I slowly realized that I was being spied on, presumably by Canadian, American, British, French and Russian agencies hostile to the disclosures in the book ...Although my previous book was an international best-seller, Crimes and Mercies was turned down by 15 different publishers."

Pentagon officials contacted American WWII veterans and advised them not to have anything to do with Bacque. Bacque is not the only target. The president of one of the biggest publishing houses in New York returned the manuscript of Alfred de Zayas' Nemesis at Potsdam, with the comment that he "would never publish a book sympathetic to the Germans."

Pondering Crimes and Mercies, I questioned why it is that the German people themselves have done so little with this epoch of starvation and expulsion - the dearth of diaries, histories, radio and video documentaries, interviews, dramatizations, movies.

Being of German descent, I think I know the answer. It rests on what would in, almost all other times be a very positive characteristic, and it is a central trait of the Germans, what most of us were taught as children: Lerne leiden ohne zu klagen.

That is the source of our silence. When we should be recounting the history Mr. Bacque has dug up, at every opportunity and in every forum, we draw instead on the core virtue of our national psyche, "Learn to suffer without complaining."

But perhaps it will be the non-Germans - like the fighting historian James Bacque - who will remind us that to preserve a memory is not complaining, it is a tribute to the dead and a warning to the living. - Michael A. Hoffman II.

FALSE BAPTISM: "Dear Mr. Hoskins: I saw a Judeo-Christian preacher on TV baptizing a single white girl, her two white children, and her two mulatto children. Isn't this unscriptual?" G.A. - Kansas

RKH: I know this preacher. He has come 180 degrees from the time the NAACP attempted to enter his church and the deacons threw them head over teacups down the front steps.²

To be PC and to get a new tither, today's establishment priests will baptize the devil and not blink an eye.

Yes, what you saw was unscriptual. Before this girl is allowed back into her father's house she must comply with the following:

"If the priest's daughter" (God appointed each of us kings and priests) "also be married unto a stranger" (Heb: zûwr - racial alien), "she may not eat of an offering of the holy thing" (blessed food), "But if the priest's daughter be a widow or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her father's house ... she shall eat of her father's meat; but there shall no stranger" (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) "eat thereof". Lev 22:10-13.

Since the mother has not disposed of the strange children, the rebellion that allowed her to get mixed- breed children in the first place is still in her there and there is no repentance:

² "The stranger (Heb: zûwr - racial alien) that cometh nigh (the tabernacle) shall be put to death." No 1:51

"A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." Deut 23:2

The priest who, in spite of draconian prohibitions,³ permits this to happen is a false witness. He has converted his church into a Samaritan Church and by adapting the doctrine of the Samaritan Church he becomes a Samaritan priest.⁴ For those with short memories, the following is a brief story of the Samaritan church.

"And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon (we would call them Arabs today) ... and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel (who had been taken into captivity) ... Then the King of Assyria commanded carry thither one of the (Israelite) priests whom ye brought from thence ... and let him teach them (the Arabs) the manner of the god of the land ... howbeit (after they had been taught, had a Bible translated for them, and had built temples to the God of Israel, they still) ... fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... which the Lord commanded the children of ... Israel ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day." (They remained lawless.) II Ki 17:24-41

Once the WORD goes through the Samaritan filter - the result is still Samaritan. Adam and his descendants are made in the image of God the WORD - in the image of the Laws, Statutes and Judgments. Caanonites and their descendants are lawless. It is the Lawful vs the unlawful. The result is predictable:

⁴ The Christian Identity reform movement is loaded with Samaritan priests.

"I have seen folly in the prophets of Samaria (mix-breeds); they prophesied in Baal, ... and caused my people Israel to err." Jer 23:13

The Scripture says that strangers are not to enter the congregation of Israel. This Lawless woman has - she has violated the Law which is God - and Lawless Jerry has not insisted that she obey the WORD. This sort of conduct was prophesied for Israel in the last days:

"With harlots and adulteresses shall ye be joined and the daughter of the Gentiles shall ye take to wife purifying them with an unlawful purification." Testament of Levi 4:17

The rule and example is clearly laid out in Scripture as to how to deal with strangers who worship the God of Israel and who want to join us to worship him:

"Now when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the Lord God of Israel; Then they came to ... the chief of the fathers, and said unto them. Let us build with you: for we seek your God, as ye do; and we do sacrifice unto him since the days of Esarhaddon king of Asseria, which brought us up thither. But ... the fathers of Israel, said unto them, Ye have nothing to do with us to build a house unto our God; but we ourselves together will build unto the Lord God of Israel ..." Ezra 4:1-3

Nothing could be clearer. There is something else that should be clear also - the strangers won't stop there. You will have to continue to fight to worship as God instructs because the enemy will seek to hinder you and change your worship from Yahweh, the Lord God of Israel, to the gods of the Christian-Hindu and Christian-Samaritan:

"Then the people of the land weakened the hands of the people of Judah, and troubled them in building, And hired counselors against them, to frustrate their purpose." Ezra 4:1- 5

This is what they are doing today. They are stirring up the people so that it is difficult to find a meeting place. But, this is what has been prophesied would happen and what IS happening.

WIRED

Years ago, a fellow dropped by the office to check me out. His name was Walter Thody. After he left I received a postcard from North Carolina quoting word for word one of my last remarks to him. I assumed that Thody was wired, and said so. Someone whose opinion I respect vouched for Thody, so I apologized. However, someone had to be "wired" to take down word for word my remark. Since it wasn't Thody, it had to have been my own office that was wired. It must have been done after I had gone home for the day.

There is a lesson to be learned. When meeting with anyone who speaks for the Christian right - assume that big brother has bugged his office, home, and automobile.

OPUS DEI: "FBI Director Louis Freeh's background lies in Opus Dei, perhaps the most sinister order of the Roman Catholic church, considered to be fiercer than the Jesuits. They are performing the work in the 20th century that the Jesuits did in the 16th and 17th centuries. Ambrose Evans-Prichard notes Freeh's Opus Dei background in describing why Clinton appointed him FBI director, noting that 'it (Opus Dei) was another power network that Clinton could put to good use.' The Secret Life Of Bill Clinton, Wash. DC: Regnery, 1997 p192) Opus runs hundreds of newspapers, magazines, and very many broadcasting stations globally. The most sinister, top secret order of the papacy is running the FBI (Trumpet Messenger, 6/98, PO Box 565, Sandy Hook, CT 06482)

FEDERAL ASSASSIN ACQUITTED: A federal judge dismissed the manslaughter charge against the oriental FBI agent who murdered Randy Weaver's wife during the Ruby Ridge massacre by shooting her in the face as she was standing unarmed holding her baby in her arms. U.S. District Judge Edward Lodge ruled that Lon Horiuchi was acting within the scope of his federal authority, that he "did no more than what was necessary and proper" for him to carry out his duties. The US Justice Department decided in 1994 against prosecuting Horiuchi or any of his FBI superiors and reaffirmed the decision last year. Judge Lodge cited the supremacy clause of the US Constitution which immunizes federal authorities from liability when acting within the scope of their jobs. (Story on Web Page: <http://members.aol.com/AxCurtis/natob.html>) 5/15/98.

RKH: The WORD says "(Strangers) shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21,24. We violated The WORD when we allowed Strangers into our land. Each nation of Strangers brought his own god and his god's laws. Our own God The WORD commands "Whoso sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed." Gen 9:6; The Ruby Ridge and Waco slaughters violate Christian Law. However, the slaughter did NOT violate the law of the Stranger's god: "Furthermore, there is a commandment pertaining to the killing of Strangers, who are like beasts. This killing has to be done in the lawful method. Those who do not ascribe themselves to the Jewish religious law must be offered up as sacrifices to the High God." Thikunne Zohar (Edition Berdiwetsch, 88 B). Under which law do you think the Ruby Ridge and Waco murderers were punished? Do you think that Judge Edward Lodge in effect declared that The WORD is no longer Law? Did he replace God the WORD with the law of another god?

One final question. Do you REALLY think that the Christian God is serious and has the power to make the following come to pass? "Because thou hast let go out of thy hand a man whom I appointed to utter destruction, therefore thy life shall go for his life, and thy people for his people." I Ki 20:42. If our God lives, the clock is ticking - on us.

GERMAN STATE PRIESTS SPEAK: "* Only 78% of the Protestant ministers regard God as being "holy". * Only 74% believe in resurrection after death. * Only 43 % are of the opinion that God is almighty, and * Only 65% agree with the statement: Jesus Christ is God. * Only 36% believe in the Last Judgment. * 44% of Protestant parsons are of the opinion that homosexual pairs should be joined in marriage." Insider, Vol 8, 20/97, PO Box 17200, Groenkloof, Pretoria 0027, RSA

AMERICAN CARTEL PREACHERS SPEAK: The following statistics were taken from Plymouth Rock Foundation, Marlborough, NH 03455. Some 10,000 clergymen of various denominations were asked two questions regarding their faith, with these results.

Q - "Do you believe Christ's physical resurrection was a fact?"

A - 51% of the United Methodists, 49% of the Presbyterians, 44% of the American Baptists, and 13% of the American Lutheran pastors said "NO"

Q - "Do you believe that the Scriptures are the inspired and inerrant Word of God?"

A - 95% of the Episcopalians, 87% of the United Methodists, 82% of the American Baptists, and 77% of the American Lutherans said "NO"

Also, the divorce rate among Christian pastors is higher than that of the general public. Could these be the "wolves in sheep's clothing" spoken of in Scripture? Covenant Vision

Chapter 289

GEORGE WALLACE

"Menelaus, that traitor to the laws, and to his own country." II Maccabees 5:15

Icon

The dictionary says that an icon is an image, symbol, model or example.

The George Wallace Icon

The George Corley Wallace we know was an icon, created by the Naphidem media to give the people a leader. The people of Alabama once again needed a leader to lead them in the fight against the approaching tyrannical federal government determined to destroy them, their children, and their very race.

George Wallace appeared. Raised by the media he filled the horizon. He was obviously the savior. The natural leaders of the people were completely overshadowed by this giant that covered the sky - a John Wayne and Superman combined. Alabama now had a leader needed to lead the Southern Saxon to war against the forces of evil surrounding their land.

But, this George Wallace of heroic proportions was an imaginary hero. He did not exist. He was an actor. Someone coached to say the right thing, strike the right pose, appear as an iron-willed leader that was needed to win through to victory, and then lead them into defeat and despair - again. The people of Alabama were convinced that he was the real thing, but what they got was smoke and mirrors.

State Funeral

George Corley Wallace is dead. The media is giving him a state funeral that is the due of those in service to the system. It was only unfortunate fate that he must share front page with Waco Bill, another media created icon fallen on hard days. Still, the newspapers are giving him black bordered write-ups that they give state heros. The headline reads, "Wallace, Bygone Era Laid To Rest."

The article comments on the former Alabama governor who vowed, "segregation now, segregation tomorrow, segregation forever". He was given an honor guard of state troopers divided between Black and White. A lone piper played "Going Home" and "Amazing Grace", and the Alabama National Guard flew F-16s over the procession in the "lone man" formation. The Rev. Franklin Graham stood in for his father, Billy Graham, another Naphidem media-creation.

Soon Wallace will enter the history books that will be read by the youth of America. He will be described as being at first a little man driven by hate and bigotry, representing people just like himself. After a political career that did much damage to race relations, he was shot by an assassin also driven by hate, and after much pain and suffering, confined to a wheel chair paralyzed - he found peace through acceptance, tolerance, and asking and receiving forgiveness from the Strangers he had wronged. Poignant. Touching. A good lesson for the youth of America. At least that is what the establishment wants them to believe.

The Real George Wallace

George Wallace was born in 1919. He was appointed Assistant Attorney General of Alabama when only 27; elected to the state legislature at 28; elected judge when 34; and elected governor when he was 44. Almost none of this would have been possible without the approval of the media-owner.

All this time the press described him, usually in hateful terms, as the sort of man that the people of Alabama needed and wanted. Once before when the state sovereignty of Alabama was challenged, Alabama called out her militias and went to war to defend her borders. The establishment is well aware of this. This time, George Wallace was the leader. When Alabama's right to regulate her own state schools was challenged, Governor Wallace talked tough; rattled the saber; talked about calling out the national guard, and stood in the school door "defying the United States Government." Then, after the cameras finished, he meekly stepped aside and let the feds take over Alabama's school system. Wallace explained that he did all that he could do.

The media agreed that he was still mean and bigoted, but he had in truth done all he could do, and that the people of Alabama should support him in his bitter hour. Alabamans, too, were bitter, as they would pay the price, but the media consensus was that all was done that could be done and that it was time to forget and forgive and go on to other things.

America was tired of the trend to socialism and communism and was ready for a change. She knew that relief would not be forthcoming from the establishment parties, so she mounted one more third party effort. Wallace, the "die-hard judge", was selected as their candidate for president of the United States on the ticket of the American Independent Party. He was only 49.

Most 3rd party efforts in America are under-financed and under- publicized and quickly fizzle. This time things were different. The time was right. Instead of fizzling, America rallied around Wallace. Political committees of volunteer workers formed all over the country. His poll ratings went up and up. Then the horrible truth dawned - Wallace was going to be elected!

There was establishment panic. Wallace was still an establishment asset, but the organization that was forming behind him was not. It was not establishment controlled or even controlled by Wallace. If it completed its organization it could develop the power to overthrow the cartel given a different leader. The decision was quickly made. Wallace had become a liability. He was shot.¹

Instead of being killed, Wallace was paralyzed and confined to a wheel chair. The media then found that they could still use him for an example. Heretofore the media had described him as a wild-eyed segregationist, just a shade shy of being a klansman - while actually he was a flaming liberal just acting the part. Now that he was in a wheel chair he was an object of pity and no danger to anyone. So, the establishment ran him for office on the "pity ticket" and elected him governor in 1971-1978 and 1982-1986. By then the media described him as a moderate, which is libereese for flaming liberal. He entertained civil rights leaders and publicly supported their causes. He became the media's darling - an example of the properly reconstructed Southerner.

George Wallace, the great fighter for racial separation, was a media creation who never existed in fact. The people who loved the media image of George Wallace the strong leader, later learned to despise the sniveling turncoat that he was, and had been from the very beginning.

J. Lindsay Almond

The Southland was under attack at the end of WWII by the same forces which had just finished devouring Germany. According to the media, the clergy, and the establishment - everything we did, had done or would do was "evil". Southerners developed a siege mentality. In "Fortress Southland" a "liberal integrationist" became as scarce as a hens' teeth.

In Virginia, liberals were in disrepute. In Norfolk, there were about 30 of them who wanted the integration of White with Black students in public schools. The Norfolk school superintendent agreed. He set in motion plans to set up a third school system to make it possible for these liberals' children to be integrated with Blacks. Not a single White liberal stepped forward to integrate his children. Not one. Liberals were laughed off their soapbox as being hypocrites and frauds. No one would listen to them.

The first overt grab by the U.S. Government to take over a state's school system was made against Virginia during the '50s. The attack focused on little Prince Edward County. Prince Edward was a poor county. The Blacks had a brand new school while the school for Whites was old and shabby. It made no difference. The civil rights lawyers argued that the Blacks couldn't learn unless they were seated next to Whites. The "separate but equal" doctrine was under attack.

Little Prince Edward fought back. The local paper was run by Barry Wall. It was his paper and his editorials fought for the rights of White people. It was just a county paper, but people in other parts of the state started to read it. Most Blacks supported their own Black schools. They did it quietly, because carloads of Black toughs from Philadelphia and elsewhere came down every weekend to beat up vocal Black segregationists. None of this was printed in the national media. All the national media printed was the usual anti-South "segregation and soubelley", "crossburning and night riders". No one up North knew that half the segregationists were Black and that the violence came from northern night riders who came down on weekends. People can only know what they read.

Prince Edward started an organization to drum up support. It was called The Defenders Of State Sovereignty And Individual Liberties. How's that for a name! Its president was Bob Crawford. I went to work for them as an organizer. We organized almost all the eastern counties in the state and most of the rest. We had more than 10,000 dues paying members. Senators, congressmen, judges - everybody who was anybody belonged.

As time went on we got better and better organized. We had the anti-Whites identified and knew where their meetings were held. Most were federal employees - among whom were sympathizers who kept us informed of their plans. When they came out of meetings their cars would be covered with our literature. We took a lesson from the feds and made a show of taking down their license plate numbers and taking pictures. After a while most stopped coming to "civil rights" meetings. White sympathizers among them told us everything they were doing, and everything they did they were told to do by the national civil rights organizations.

We investigated every Virginian running for public office. If he had a history of being anti-White - thumbs down - and he was dead in the water, media or no media. In politics, people don't change. If they were anti-White when they were 16, chances are they will be anti-White when 36 or 66. There are always Judas- goat/ anti- White deviates whom the establishment is able to recruit. A few questions to a candidate's childhood chums will usually separate the goats from the sheep and save the flock a lot of grief.

I was an officer in the Richmond Light Infantry Blues. The Blues was a national guard outfit whose origins go back into the 17th century. Patrick Henry was one of its early commanders. We had more battle streamers than any military organization in the entire country. If the president wanted to send in federal troops - fine. Virginia had been invaded four other times. No invader ever found it easy. This would make the fifth. "Cross our borders and get a bloody nose." The officers and men of the Blues and the other Virginia national guard outfits all felt the same. This was also true of guard members in our sister states of North Carolina and Tennessee. They were willing to help us if we were invaded.

Election time for governor rolled around. The Democratic Party put up J. Lindsay Almond. The Republicans put up their usual anti-White candidate. "J. Lindsay's" fire and brimstone oratory against anyone who would "destroy our schools" and "advance miscegenation with school integration", won the primary by a landslide. He was unopposed for governor. As soon as he took office he became silent as the deadline for forced school integration deadline approached. I then began to hear disturbing stories about the man in the days before he ran for governor. Evidently, people who knew the real man didn't talk when it counted. The "J. Lindsay" that Virginia took to heart didn't exist. He was something other than the person painted by the media.

The day came when federal marshals come in to take over our schools. The Blues oiled their weapons and waited for the call- up. We had been told that we would be called up.

Instead, the federal marshals walked in and took over the schools. They weren't arrested, run off, or anything - nothing happened! Members of the Blues waited all night outside the armory for someone to come and open the doors. There were tears rolling down men's cheeks. "J. Lindsay" said that he had done all that he could do. Correction; he had done all that he had been put in office to do. He was a traitor. Virginia was betrayed. From then on he cowered in the Governors mansion, afraid to go out, telling everyone that he was afraid of being assassinated.

At the end of his term of governor J. Lindsay Almond quietly stepped into a federal judgeship. Such a cheap price to betray his people. When statues to traitors are erected - J. Lindsay Almond will stand beside Benedict Arnold and George Wallace.

Orval Faubus

Back in December 1994, Orval Faubus died. He was the governor of Arkansas who opposed integrating the races in the schools. He was the third of the trio - Almond, Wallace, and Faubus. The people of the South were ready to fight over the issue. They knew that the establishment wished to destroy the White race through racial intermarriage. How did they know this? Liberal spokesmen said so.

Faubus had held jobs as a rural school teacher, country court clerk, country postmaster and publisher of a small weekly newspaper. Note that most of the jobs were on the public payroll, and the last was that of manager of an establishment paper.

Faubus was reared a radical - his father was a member of the socialist party. He had once attended Commonwealth College at Mena, a labor school started by Socialists and taken over by the Communists in the 1930s. He stated in defense of his half-hearted efforts to block integration - "I would not change a thing because I was trying to stop property damage, injury or death, and, in that we succeeded."

He was an ideal choice to betray his people. The media painted him a staunch conservative, and as a staunch conservative he was elected. But Orval Faubus was the secret radical socialist - not the man the media portrayed.

All three, Almond, Wallace, and Faubus were portrayed by the media as dyed-in-the-wool pro-White. But, each had roots in wild eyed liberalism. Each made a well-publicized stand against integration and miscegenation before laying down before what the media later called - "the inevitable." Almond was rewarded with a Federal Judgeship, George Wallace was almost elected president on a third party ticket and three times governor, and Faubus had the longest run ever for an Arkansas governor for "doing all he could," and then he was a behind the scenes Arkansas "king maker" that produced creations like "Waco Bill" Clinton. It figures.

Orval Faubus was a lesson - a lesson in how the establishment goes about destroying a targeted people. His father was socialist, he was a socialist - or what we would today call a communist - a strong believer in the feudal system. He was carefully schooled and educated in government jobs and media training for his time on stage. The media endorsed him and elected him. He stepped on stage and betrayed his people, always saying the right thing and beaming a smile. His act of betrayal was what the establishment had spent a lifetime training him to do. He played his part well.

The Way It Is

Saxon song sagas will relegate the above three traitors to the nether regions along with Simon Girty and Benedict Arnold. At first, all three appeared to serve the people - while serving another master. They were convinced that their rewards would come from masters concealed from the people. To receive their rewards they played the Judas Iscariot and received their 30 pieces of silver.

Our implanted genetic memories tell us that once we were kings and priests - each of us. Our genetic memories tell us that we should carefully select one of our neighbors to speak for us.

The fact is that man does not live alone. There is also the human. The human's genetic memory is that of the Naphidem- Stranger. He follows his own lusts. Because of that, force must be used to make him behave in an orderly manner. He knows this and expects it. The strongest of the Naphidem rule - they always have. Authority stair-steps down, the individual must strive for his place on the ladder. All rewards and punishments come from above. It is the wolf-pack mentality. It's his system. The Naphidem-Stranger knows the system and feels safe in his wolf- pack. Those who are made in the image of the WORD and follow the Commandments of its God are a threat to the wolf system. Both man and his God are a danger to the Stranger, his system, and as a consequence, are fair game. Men who desert their own and attach themselves to the wolf pack system are rewarded by the ruler of the pack.

The Feudal System

The feudal system of the history books is the wolf-pack system. The only time the Saxon has lived outside this feudal system is when he lived apart from Strangers and had no kings.²

EPISCOPAL - Episcopal religious systems are a sign that the religious thinking of the people is controlled. The leading episcopal dignitary is appointed by the master, who appoints and instructs all in his charge. It is the job of the episcopal priest to keep the sheep still to be sheared.

FEUDAL SYSTEM - The formal feudal system consists of 1) Priests; 2) King and Soldiers; 3) Merchants; 4) Workers; 5) Outcasts. In the formal system of India, job castes are truly

2 A King (commissar, leader, premier, president, etc.) is the sign that a feudal system is in place. The King's job is to collect tribute for his master and maintain the peace. The master makes policy. The policy maker is the priest. Most times he is the merchant- money changer.

castes whose membership are inherited from generation to generation. Practically, the establishment will work with anyone who can collect the tribute and control the sheep.

In medieval Europe, the priests, kings & knights and merchants cooperated to keep the workers in the fields and producing tribute.

In today world, priests, presidents-governors-police, and the merchants - cooperate to keep the workers in the factories, shops and services, producing tribute.

The Emperor Caste

The movie Brave Heart makes men hearts soar with pride as they witness Scotland's fight for freedom. They see a battlefield filled with warriors eager to meet the enemy.

The thing not touched on by the movie is the real reason they were there. Their respective kings, both Scottish and English, had called their followers to the field of battle. These followers held 'en fief to their respective kings and lords. If they had not come they would have lost their lands, their privileges, and would have become homeless - roaming the countryside begging their daily bread.

Today is the same as yesteryear. All that has changed are the stage props and vocabulary. The main difference is that the operators of the ancient silk route, the unseen world-managing "emperor caste", has become bold as their control of the world's trade and the world's corporations has become total.

EMPEROR CASTE - It is this emperor caste who are the king-makers and priest-makers. They create dynasties and religions and tear them down.

AGENTS - To handle details, they appoint agents to manage hundreds of media outlets at a time. Their agents manage scores of major banks. They appoint raiders and give them unlimited financing to break down the weak monetary systems of the world. They rule countries through their media-selected kings and priests. Their agents exploit vast land areas and direct the lives of millions of people to do "this", and millions more to do "that". It is they who determine how men must act, what they must think, where they should work, whom they should marry and the gods that they must worship.

Bona Fide³

Conquered subjects are usually relegated into the Worker-service caste and - "outcast" categories. Some few reach the lower rungs of the 1) priestly caste. But, to move up the ladder to this lofty estate one must prove himself "worthy". He must do something that will burn the bridges for all time between himself and his own people, and his God.

The ultimate test given the Saxon who lusts for something the Stranger can give is - "interracial marriage" - the integration test. If he passes that - he enters the doors through which there is no return. This proves his loyalty. The establishment then allows him to move up the ladder to greater responsibilities and rewards. With his bridges burned he becomes a traitor to his God and his nation.

rebut their arguments a tremendous amount of scientific material - tests, health records, crime records, historical research, etc. was gathered to refute the pro-interracial marriage campaign. The political or religious leader who favored such unions was shunned.

Learning from this experience, the media devised a way to deny scientific proof from being used. They ignored it. "Racial intermarriage" is no longer a question up for debate. The subject is not even discussed by the media. How can the mountain of research material be used if discussion of the subject is banned? Scientists latest discoveries about race aren't covered. College professors opinions on the subject aren't newsworthy - unless they support integration. Today's political candidate doesn't have to give an opinion on racial intermarriage. The media and their cronies attack protect him by attacking anyone who asks a candidate if he supports "interracial marriage. The questioner is viciously attacked as being a "racist".

The result is that the political candidate who promotes racial intermarriage by promoting integration in other fields is rewarded with favorable media publicity, thus ensuring his election. It's a win-win situation for those who choose to take this route.

Senator Phil Graham is married to a Stranger. Those who commented on his violation of God's Commandment were shrilly attacked by the media. Gore's daughter is married to a Stranger. Clinton appoints Strangers to practically every major post in his government and his daughter is dating a Stranger. Elizabeth II's daughter is married to a Stranger. The list goes on and on.

Integration is the "Bona Fide that is becoming the only Bona Fide that the establishment will now accept.

Revolt

There have been many revolts against the feudal system, but three stand out. The first was the "Peasants Revolt" in England in 1381. At one moment the land appeared to be at peace and in the next moment 30,000 armed men were on the way to London to demand freedom. The leaders of the movement trusted young Philip II who had them assassinated.

The Next was the "Peasants Revolt" of 1525 in Martin Luther's Germany which seized Catholic Church lands coveted by the Protestant princes. Martin Luther, caught in a power struggle between the Protestant Kings, the Catholic Church, and the people who occupied the lands, betrayed the people who were then massacred. Germany's Protestant revolt was betrayed by its founder. !4

The third was the "Covenanter Revolt" that swept Scotland and England and almost succeeded in bringing in "God's Kingdom on earth." In the moment of victory, its own leader, Oliver Cromwell, followed his own lust for power and seized the reins of government for himself and proclaimed himself "protector" - which is Cromwelleze for "king".

Summary

Today, we celebrate the death of George Wallace - the last of the three great American traitors of the 20th century who will be remembered for their betrayal of both the Commands of their God and in the betrayal of their kin.

We also remember back in history to those three who betrayed us before. We, the outcasts, have learned. We have learned that on no account are we to trust any leader who comes out of today's feudal system - president, senator, congressman, judge, soldier, priest, teacher, or industrial leader. They all have been fed, weaned, and rewarded and twisted by the system. The system and its rewards is what they know. If allowed to choose between rewards from the wolf they know and from a God they have never seen - they are likely to choose the wolf.⁵

Tomorrow will be different. God will bring his kingdom here on earth because he promised that he would. One day, the WORD will sweep over the West like a great prairie fire burning off the dross of the nation. Then, trusting the words of no man, only trusting their acts, we will once again have leaders who will cleanse the land and replace today's evils with God's WORD.

Letter From S. Africa

Dear Mr. Hoskins: It is interesting to observe that the people who are being murdered are people best known for doing good - like the doctor and the nun, or farmers who had good relations with their workers. They are being targeted by blacks for annihilation.

We hope that Mr. Jaap Marais will take to task erroneous church ministers who blatantly lie about apartheid and stigmatize it as just another ideology like communism. It shows the thoughts of these church ministers. This propaganda line indirectly ushers in the fanciful speculation of equality of all people, anti-racism and anti-nationalism.

⁵ Even Herman The Great, the savior of our our Saxon people, after defeating the Roman invasion, was put to death by his own kinsmen because he would be king, and the Germans would have no king. See Our Nordic Race, Hoskins, VPC, POB 997, Lynchburg, VA 24505, $8.

At a meeting recently held at Unisa University in Pretoria, the discussion was about the Anglo-Boer War commemoration. A certain Ron Vinney of Rand Afrikaans University supposedly did research on sex in concentration camps and came to the conclusion that the women starving to death in those camps could be persuaded to turn to prostitution in return for food.

When the blacks could not find the remains of the 30,000 blacks they claimed died in the war, they have had to find something else with which to vilify the Boers and minimize the veneration we have for those who died in that war for freedom. In this weeks "Rapport" it is said that a monument will be built at Blood River in honor of those Zulus who died. The other side will definitely celebrate the war from a very different viewpoint.

With best wishes, K.J.

FAST-START WORDS FOR NEWCOMERS

Many Saxons have become disenchanted with the New World Order and wish to join their fellows in opposing the evils in the land. To prevent this, the establishment's media has expunged many of their words and expressions so that it is difficult for Saxon nationalists to communicate with each other. Without words to exchange ideas people remain mute.

The following is a list of some of the words and definitions needed for a quick "catch-up".

Nation - "Originally denotes a family or race of men descended from a common progenitor." Webster 1828. Our Saxon nation is descended from Adam through Isaac. Our God is the Word of God.

Country - The word "country" denotes a taxable entity. It is an artificial division of the world into tribute-paying geographic areas by the world's rulers. Our "nation" is wherever our people are. Our "country" is where we are taxed.

Saxon - "Sons of Isaac"; "Isaac-sons", - "Saxons". "In Isaac shall thy name be called." Romans 9:7.

Anti-Saxonite - An "anti-Saxon" or "anti-Saxonite" is one who hates the Saxon; who works for or advocates a course of action harmful to the Saxon nation.

Integrationist - An integrationist is the apposite of a separatist. He defies God, supports interracial marriage and is the arch enemy of the Saxon nation.

Man - Heb: adam - those that blush rosy, Strong's Concordance.

Human - "Hued-man", "man of hue", man of color - "colored man", "stranger".

Adam-man - is made in the image of God the WORD:¹

God - "His name is called The Word of God." Re 19:13
God's Commandments and God cannot be separated.

Stranger - Anyone who is not a Saxon.

Constitution - A system of fundamental rules, principles and ordinances for the government of a state or nation. There is no charter, constitution, federal statute, state statute, city ordinance, court ruling, or opinion of any kind that is above the Law - which is the Word of God. If ever the two conflict - man's statutes are null and void. "We must obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29. Christians believe that God's WORD is not negotiable.

¹ "God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness ... So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." Gen 1:26-27

Israel - Heb: Yisrâ'êl - "He will rule as God ... also his posterity." Strong's Concordance. Today, genuine Israelites cannot be called "Israel." - "The Lord God shall call his servants by another name." Isa 42:16-19; True Israel today is called by God's name - "CHRISTIAN"; Isaacs name - "SAXON", Ro 9:7; and is a "Son-of-MAN." No other nation has these proofs.

Kingdom - There are two kingdoms - spiritual and physical. Daily we pray "Thy kingdom come ... on earth." Where on earth? "The kingdom of God is within you." "Ye are the temple of God." When God's Kingdom is activated within man, he will see to it that God's Kingdom is activated around him.

God - The authority that man obeys. The word "God" by itself is a very inexact word.

Yah'weh - Many Christians use this ancient Hebrew word for their God - "Yah'weh" - to keep him separate from the mainline pseudo- god who stands for compromise, lies, and distortion. Some invoke "Yah'weh" as a curse, such as, "Yah'weh" will punish that. Used in this manner the word becomes an "idol". Christians of the first century used the expression, "God the Word" as the name of their God.² The answer to ALL of man's problems is to be found in the Word - which is man's God.

Idol - Anything that man worships in place of "God the Word."

Enemy - Our enemy is whoever violates God's Commandments, or causes others to do so. He is the enemy.

² "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14.

Brother - "Whosoever shall do the will of my Father which is in heaven, the same is my brother." Mt. 12:50

Bastard - Bastard: The centuries old definition of bastard is "a child born out of wedlock." This is the re-definition of the original meaning. The King James Version translators used the English word "bastard" only twice in Deut 23:2 and Zec 9:6, according to Strong's Concordance. In both cases it is the Hebrew word #4464 and is defined: "Mamzer, a mongrel.... - bastard. The true meaning of a bastard is "a child born from sexual intercourse between a father and a mother of different races!" "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel." De 23:2. Strangers claiming to be "Christian" do not want to integrate with the Saxon because it violates this command. If the Stranger violates this command - he is not a Christian.

Interracial Marriage - The Lynchburg News & Advance of Oct 24, 1998, p2. said this about Bob Jones University. "The schools ban on interracial dating or marriage prompted the Internal Revenue Service to revoke its tax-exempt status in 1970, a decision upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court."

Without a vote, referendum, or public discussion - interracial marriage, the most talked about subject of America's first three hundred years has been made official government policy by court decision, and is backed with economic sanctions. This tyranny is what started Joseph Franklin on his career.

Adultery - "Webster's 1828 Dictionary" defines adultery in scripture as "idolatry, or apostasy from the true God." A violation of God's Commandments is adultery. The mixing of the races is adultery. "Let them marry ... only to the family of the tribe of their father." Numbers 36:6; "When they had heard the law ... they separated from Israel all the mixed (mongrel) multitude." Neh 13:3.

Wigger - The product of sensitivity training brain-washing classes is often called a "wigger". A wigger is a tragic figure - a White who is establishment trained to act like a Negro.

The Word - The WORD is contained in ALL the Scriptures. The Word is divided into "God's Law", and to illustrate the law - a "parable". Without the Law a parable means whatever the speaker wishes it to mean. "In the beginning was the WORD, and the word was with God, and the WORD was God." John 1:1, and "The WORD was made flesh, and dwelt among us." John 1:14 Christians believe that The WORD is GOD.

Episcopacies - political - An episcopacy is rule from the top down. A king (governor, dictator, president, etc. by whatever name he is called), is usually backed financially by some group which expects monopoly concessions in return. Once in office the king appoints his followers to offices under him to keep order and extort revenue from his subjects. They become his appointed aristocracy.

Episcopacies - religious - A religious episcopacy is rule from the top down. Episcopacies teach the policy of the one who rules at the top. The policy pursued at any particular time often requires them to declare certain scriptures "inspired" by God and other Scriptures "uninspired". This, in spite of the Scripture, "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God." 2 Ti

3:16. In general, "episcopacies" attempt exposure to those Scriptures that are politically correct.

Presbytery - political - A presbytery is organized from the bottom up. In olden times groups of tens and hundreds would select one of their own as spokesman for a period. If the selected one pleased the others, he would be retained longer. If he displeased them, another would be chosen.

Presbytery - religious - Groups of like-minded people organized from the bottom up. Such groups tend to believe that every man can obtain knowledge of God by his own study from the Word contained in the Bible. Teachers and ministers either volunteer their services or are conditionally hired.

The major problem in recent years has been that ministers hired from theological colleges have more often than not been trained in the episcopal manner. Their episcopacy type teaching to presbytery congregation memberships has led to conflict, confusion, and a falling away.

Dharma - Dharma means "love". Hindu priests interpret "love" to mean that one must love everyone without regard to race, creed, or national origin. Christian interpretation of love is; "If ye love me obey my commandments." John 14:15.

Dharmamatra - Dharmatized - Hindu government officials appoint Dharma police to ensure that Dharma is being enforced. They are Dharmamatras. A population which has been taught to accept Dharma is Dharmatized.

White - The term White has been used to refer to the Saxon nation. It has also been used as a cover by whites who are Strangers. One may be white and also a stranger. One may NOT be a Saxon and also a Stranger - "A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." De 23:2

Gothica - According to Sharon Turner, the words "Saxon", "Goth" and "Sythian" are interchangeable. The term Gothica is used by some to refer to the Saxon nation.

Aristocracy - political There are two types of aristocracies. One type was appointed by the king. A political aristocrat can be honorary. Usually it is not. A share of the assets formerly belonging to the people are turned over to the political aristocrat to manage for the king. Today these political/economic aristocrats are called different names, but the principle is the same.

Aristocracy - natural - A Scandinavian village of 100 might cooperate to build two dragon ships. Eligible warriors selected the most capable for captains from among those with whom they had soldiered. These were natural aristocrats. Over the generations the families of natural aristocrats tended to marry with other families of the same kind. This tended to produce an unusually large number of "natural aristocrats" in certain families. However, a natural aristocrat had always to win the vote of his fellows.

To keep Saxons from following a leader of their own "natural aristocracy", the establishment media elevates Strangers while suppressing mention of present day Saxon heroes. Also suppressed is mention of ancient Saxon heroes. This is done to destroy the Saxon ideal of "Nation".

Phineas Priest - Anyone who enforces God's Laws is a Phineas Priest. See Numbers 25 in the Bible. See also "Levitical Priesthood".³

hood, was chosen because he punished the Strangers who raped his sister.

"I was young, about 20 years of age, when with Simeon, I wrought vengeance on Hamor, for our sister Dinah. ... And I was grieving for the race of the sons of men. ... And behold the heavens were opened, and an angel of God said to me ... Thou shalt stand near the Lord and shalt be His minister." Testament of Levi 1:5-12.

"Levi, I have given thee the blessings of the priesthood ... And the angel brought me down to the earth, and gave me a shield and a sword, and said to me: Execute vengeance on Shechem because of Dinah, thy sister." Testament of Levi 1:11.

"I saw that the sentence of God was for evil upon Shechem; for they sought to do to Sarah and Rebecca as they had done to Dinah our sister ... they had wrought folly in Israel by defiling my sister." Testament of Levi 3:6-12. In The Lost Books of The Bible and The Forgotten Books of Eden.⁴

Levi was an early Phineas Priest. Few of today's preachers who claim descent from Levi walk in his steps.

Tens & Hundreds - Ancient German and Saxon tribes were organized in tens and hundreds. Ten families would select a spokesman of ten. Ten spokesmen of ten would select a spokesman of a hundred. Early Virginia had many hundreds on the James. Bermuda Hundred, Beverly Hundred, etc. The hundred sent its spokesman to Williamsburg as a burgess where he met with the Governor, who was appointed by the King.

King & Priest - God appointed each man king and priest. "Jesus Christ ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6. This is as it should be in a presbytery with each man a king and a priest ruling his own land under God the WORD.

In the past, tyrannical men have become king to extort tribute from the rest of the people. Many have made themselves both king and high priest and appointed ministers of his own choosing to teach no more than what he wanted the people to know about God.

Others have established a religious episcopacy to control religious teachings and made it a department of state.

Self-Sufficient Farm System - God ordered the land divided: "The land shall be divided for an inheritance." Lev 22:24: "Joshua divided the whole land by lots to Israel for an inheritance, as the Lord had commanded him." Jasher 90:19. Man wishes to divide the land into kingdoms to be ruled by man and kings and priests. The ruling king wishes the land for himself so he uses subterfuges to obtain the land for his corporations. He hides his corporate ownership by using stock companies and trust departments.

Merchant - A merchant buys and sells products that the local population does not have.

Great Merchant - Most "great merchants" are hired cartel managers. The wealth under his control is limited only by the amount of money cartel banks place in his care. Great merchants are usually manufacturing, retailing, transportation, or media moguls. These great merchants receive the publicity while the bank owners keep a low visibility.

Janissary - Christian children kidnapped and raised as Muslims. Islam's 16th century rise to a world power was due largely to their Janissary warriors. Janissaries were obtained by kidnapping Christian children, raising them in the tenets of Islam, and training them as either warriors or government administrators. These Janissaries were extraordinarily dedicated to their jobs. In time the group grew so large and so powerful that the Turks had to exterminate them to regain rule over their own people.⁵

Race Traitor - One who betrays his own race: i.e.. Janissary - kidnapped Christians serving the Turks during the wars with Islam; Scalawag - Southern turncoat collaborating with occupation troops and black government officials during "Reconstruction"; Renegade - Saxons working with Indians to betray their own people; Saxon Journalist - a Saxon media writer who daily lies, prevaricates, distorts, and denigrates his own race for pay. A self-hating lick spittle. A traitor is a traitor.

Affirmative Action - The replacement of Saxons with Strangers in business, residence, schools, army and jobs. Affirmative Action is usually enforced with informers and police state punishments and fines.

Turk - A generic name for the many Arab-like merchant-marauders of the central/far-east deserts. In varying numbers, Turks settled as conquerors in every country which is Islamic, Jewish, Hindu or Buddhist in religion. Recently they have extensively invaded Western Christian lands where the populations have been quickly made docile by using Janissaries in government and by Janissizing the conquered population.

A Turk is genetically programmed to be a merchant. He converts to any religion if he feels it necessary to advance his business. One may find Christian, Jewish, Islamic, Hindu and Buddhist Turks. One may find them posing as Saxons, Jews, Indians, and even Coloreds. They can be fanatically loyal to their alpha leader, and also willing to follow a rebel. Constantly at war with each other they make alliances for the sake of new conquest, after which they relapse into their perpetual bickering.

Usury - Usury is when one puts up collateral to borrow $10 under condition that he repay $11, when only $10 is in existence.⁶ It is a crooked contract from its conception and is forbidden to Christians. "Thou shalt not lend upon usury (with interest upon a loan) to thy brother; usury of money, usury of victuals, usury of anything that is lent upon usury: Unto a stranger (Heb:zwer - racial alien) thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury." Deut 23:19,20. Usury banking is a virtual monopoly divided between the Catholic Church, the Church of England, the international Turkish-Jews, and Hindu banking interest in India.

Block busting - Block busting came into usage in the 1950s. Unscrupulous real estate operators placed Black women with large noisy families in houses located in middle-class White neighborhoods in Washington D.C.. Paper and cans were thrown in the yard and a broken down car on cinder blocks was placed in front of the house. Then White neighbors moved⁷ and their houses were bought for a fraction of their true price and resold to other Blacks. Block busting was largely responsible for the building boom of the 1950s. Block busting is still used and its operators are protected by the government.

White Trash - A term used to describe Whites who keep company with Strangers.

⁶ See War Cycles / Peace Cycles, Hoskins

⁷ "Thou shalt make no covenant with them ... they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." 1 Ki 4:21-24

Media - The major media in America by 1835 was largely in the hands of the International Trade Cartel. Since then, even the small county papers, as well as TV, radio, and magazines, have fallen into their hands.

Politics - Theoretically America is a Republic - a presbytery. It is called a "democracy" - meaning that everyone can vote. In practice the media owner only advertises his agents for election. Voters vote for the best man they know, but the only ones they know are the ones advertised by the media. Thus, America is ruled by agents of the media owner.

Civil Service - The "civil service" is appointed by the political agents of the media owner. If the elected government were dismissed tomorrow, government would continue without a pause. America is run by a permanent civil service put in place by the media-owner's political agents.

Courts - Federal judges are appointed by political agents of the media owner to declare that whatever the government does is legal.

Judeo-Christian - A new "Christian" Sect formed by media-owners in recent years. The media-owner selects a congenial minister from a host of eager hopefuls and grants him media exposure, which allows him to reap the riches of that exposure. Common beliefs of Judeo-Christians are; * Jews and Christians worship the same God; * The J/C minister must support the media owner's interests; * People are expected to live "moral" lives; * "God hates the sin but loves the sinner"; * God's Laws, or God's Commandments, are done away; and that * People are saved by "grace" and that one can do as he pleases and receive forgiveness, endlessly. Unmentioned is that there is a hell and that it is hot.

With choirs in the background, singers and musicians, crosses and regalia, Judeo-Christian ministers read Biblical parables to their listeners; They stand 4-square against murder, rape and kidnapping; they even criticize the President: But, one will never catch them quoting God's Commandment condemning the crime and stating the punishment. Reading God's Commandment and the punishment attached is "calling on the WORD", or the Christian God the WORD, and this is offensive to the media owners, so, it is not done.

A half dozen such ministers, all speaking on the same subject at the same time, can sway the majority of the country to their belief. From a propaganda standpoint - the media-created "Judeo- Christian Religion" is an invaluable "political - economic" establishment tool. However, without the media to continuously puff the sect - Judeo-Christianity will doubtlessly vanish as quickly as it appeared.

Identity - 20th Century "Reform Christianity". Using the genealogies of Saxon kings filed in the Roman Catholic and Anglican Catholic Church archives that trace the ancestry of Saxon kings to the Patriarchs of the Bible, the followers of Identity reform Christianity trace their own ancestry to the same patriarchs. The Bible traces the ancestry of the patriarchs to Adam.

Since all Saxons are kinsmen, all Saxons are descended from the patriarchs and from Adam. The Bible says that the enfeoffments made by God to Adam and the patriarchs are to descend to their descendants forever. Identity believers believe that their own Saxon nation has inherited these enfeoffments, and that disobedience to God and his Commandments is the reason that they are prevented from enjoying them.

Letter From South Africa

Dear Mr. Hoskins: Your "Nine Million Germans" was nearer to South African reality than you can possibly know. To refresh my mind I read again David Irving's "Nuremberg The Last Battle", and Bacque's "Crimes and Mercies". The duplicity is almost beyond comprehension and we cannot but take a close look at who is really in power in those countries who called for revenge.

The annual Kruger festival is held today at Manie Maritz farm, Silkaatsnek and the speaker is Jaap Marais. Apparently they found "Lady Roberts", a British cannon, captured by Boer forces. This will be on display at Oom Manie's farm.

Blacks are burning down farms and killing wild and domestic animals not able to flee the flames. It is a dreadful death for an animal.

There are lions ill from TB in the Kruger National Game Park. Some believe that they have become infected from attacking blacks crossing from Mozambique.

With best wishes, K.J.

Chapter 291

UNIVERSALISM Empire Religion

Universalism is the Law system of the stranger. It is a sanitized name for integration.

The Law System of The WORD requires separation. Integration and separation are polar opposite concepts. Whoever practices integration, to the degree that he practices it, fights God and worships the god of the stranger.

Since people will obey God, who delivers eternal punishment, rather than the king - whose punishment is temporary, the king uses priests to support his edicts. These priests are hired with tax exemption to teach the emperor's edicts in place of God's Commandments. Man's problem is to discover which priest truly teaches The WORD and which is the agent of the king.

The Emperor's Problem

The emperor's problem is keep his empire together. History teaches that "universalism/integration" has always been the answer to the emperor's question;

"How can I subdue the breakaway separatist races in my empire who threaten to pull my empire apart?"

The answer to this question is always the same. In the physical realm the emperor uses his army to suppress separatists and rebels. In the spiritual realm the emperor uses priests to spread the theory that the emperor's different subjects are basically the same; if not here on earth - then in the hereafter. If they are the same in the hereafter, why not integrate and become the same here on earth in preparation for the hereafter?

This solution is not new, it was invented by King Asoka of India, c. 325 B.C. King Asoka is the father of Buddhism - originally the missionary arm of the Hindu religion. The missionary technique is called Dharma.¹ With minor modifications it has proved just as successful when used today as it was over two thousand years ago. The key is not to upset the separatists by tampering with their gods, merely add a little something to what already exists.

The Hindu is an integrationist - the exact opposite of the separatist. He always seeks to join the separatists, not pull away. If allowed to join them, he changes nothing, but inserts Dharma, thereby changing separatists into integrationists. Mission accomplished!

Missionaries

The Scriptures say to send out missionaries, but, send them out for the right reason. The Scriptures say:

"Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you." Matt:28:19-20

This is one of the Scriptures used by universalists to beat the drum for universal integration. However, Scripture must be interpreted in light of other Scripture so as not to have a paradox or an oxymoron. If Scripture says one thing in one place and another thing in another place - God fights himself - and that cannot be.

Other Scriptures tell missionaries to whom they are sent:

"And go, get thee to them of the captivity, unto the children of thy people, and speak unto them, tell them, Thus saith the Lord God." Ez 3:11; "Oh children of Israel ... You only have I known of all families of the earth." Amos 3:1; "These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded the, saying ... go ... to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 10:5-6; "I was not sent but to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Matt 15:24; "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me, for they are thine." John 17:9.

This being the case, the "universalists" mis-use, "Go into all the world and preach the gospel to every nation". They use it to mean EVERYONE when the real meaning is supposed to be "to every nation" - of Israel! Anything else results in confusion with The WORD fighting itself.

This will not stop the universalists since they have been trained to do what they do. They are the Stranger's Janissar- ies.² To stand against their fanatical training one must remember that our people can be trained to the Stranger's beliefs while Stranger's basic instincts cannot be changed.

Bible Says Strangers Can't Be Changed

The WORD which is God teaches that even if strangers are taught The WORD they will not change. They are genetically programmed to be what they are. The example given to be our guide is found in Ezra.

"In the 9th year of Hoshea, the king of Assyria took Samaria (the Northern Kingdom of Israel) and carried Israel away into Assyria, and placed them in Halah and in Habor by the River Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes." 2Ki 17:6.

"And the king of Assyria brought men from Babylon..Cu'-thah ... Ha'-math ... Sepharvaim, and placed them in the cities of Samaria instead of the children of Israel ... They ... know not the manner of the God of the land. Then the King of Assyria commanded carry thither one of the priest whom ye brought from thence ... and let him teach them the manner of the god of the land ... howbeit every nation made Gods of their own ... unto this day ... they fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... which the Lord commanded the children of ... Israel ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day. II Ki 17:24-41

These people who replaced the Israelites in Samaria we would call "Arabs" today - a generic name for the mixed populations of the Near East.

Note that these "Arabs", these new "Samaritans", claimed to worship the God of Israel, but in fact they actually followed their own nature and "...they fear not the Lord, neither do they after their statutes ... As did their fathers so do they unto this day."

Scripture gives this example of the folly of sending missionaries to Strangers. Strangers may study, learn, and accept man's religion; they may build temples to the God of Israel and study his holy books - but strangers are made in the image of their fathers. One cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. Just as a man is pre-destined to be a man - so a Stranger is predestined to be a Stranger.³ "As did their fathers so do they unto this day." There is nothing anyone can do to undo the Laws of God.

Israelites Refuse Converted Strangers

It was these very same Samaritans who at a later date saw that Israelites of the tribe of Judah and Benjamin had returned from captivity in Babylon and were rebuilding their ancient temple. They came and offered to join with them to worship the God of Israel:

"Now when the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin heard that the children of the captivity builded the temple unto the Lord God of Israel; Then they came to ... the chief of the fathers, and said unto them. Let us build with you: for we seek your God, as ye do; and we do sacrifice unto him since the days of Esarhaddon king of Assur, which brought us up thither. But ... the fathers of Israel, said unto them, Ye have nothing to do with us to build a house unto our God; but we ourselves together will build unto the Lord God of Israel ..."

When man obeys The WORD and turns away Strangers who wish to integrate man into his wolf-pack empire system, it infuriates them. When man obeys The WORD's instructions not to integrate Strangers even when they accept man's God - the door is closed to the wolf. There is almost no way the wolf can enter the sheepfold and slaughter sheep unless man himself opens the gate.

³ (MAN - Heb: adam - those that blush rosy, Strong's Concordance)

The Good Samaritan

Integrationists usually point to the parable of the "Good Samaritan" when trying to persuade their listeners. The story is simple, to the point, and easily twisted.

A man was left beaten and wounded by robbers. Several of his own countrymen passed by without helping him. Then, a Stranger, a Samaritan came by, bound his wounds and took care of him. What is the rule?

The good Samaritan helped the wounded Israelite while the wounded man's own kinsmen did not. This is an admonishment to kinsmen to act at least as well as good Strangers. It is also an example of how Saxons should deal with strangers - Lawfully.

In Jesu's parable the Stranger in no way attempted to enter the congregation of Israel because God's Law forbids it:

"A bastard (Heb: mamzêr - mixed breed, mongrel) shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord (Israel)." De 23:2; "Thou shall make no covenant with them ... they shall not dwell in thy land, lest they make thee sin against me." I Ki 4:21-24.

If the "Good" Samaritan had used his "helping an Israelite" as a passport to enter into the congregation of Israel it would have been a clear Law violation. He did not do this. The lesson is clear; Stranger's who obey God's Law are to be treated Lawfully; those who violate God's law are to be treated as Law breakers.

Jesus Blesses The Rule

To reinforce the matter, we again repeat the basic rule that Jesus used:

"Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not. But go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Math 10:5.

One is to be as helpful to all as long as they do not step over the line and violate God's Commandments.

Two Kind's Of Missionaries

The Lawful Saxon is his own missionary to teach wayward Saxons to separate from all others and obey The WORD so that they might survive ("be saved"). Only when the Saxon is under the protective wings of The WORD will he be safe. Saxons who venture outside of The WORD's protection will die.⁴

The Empire sends missionaries for an entirely different reason. They are sent to teach the world the emperor's benign religious episcopacy, and learn to accept the emperor's wishes as if they were handed down by God.

Empire Religions

There are many empire religions today who are engaged in a never ending fight for supremacy.

Hindu - All empire religions, with modifications, use the Hindu religion as its model. It is the most ancient, the most sophisticated, the best organized, the most experienced, and it is believed to be the wealthiest. Its original home is in India and it is a union of over 5000 religions and over 400,000,000

⁴ "Jesus Christ... hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Rev 1:5-6

Buddhism - Buddhism is the Hindu missionary sect organized by King Asoka that took Dharma all over the world.

Tibetan Buddhist - Tibet has many monasteries and many missionaries. On several occasions Tibetan missionaries have gone to China and subverted the allegiance of the Chinese people from their rulers. To protect themselves China's rulers have been forced to kill many tens of millions of Chinese who chose to obey Tibetan monks rather than their own leaders. Recently, they occupied Tibet, destroyed many of its monasteries and temples. The Chinese have set up their own Chinese Tibetan Buddhist episcopacy and have appointed their own in-house Dali Lama.

Roman Catholic East - Both China and Japan permitted Jesuit missionaries to enter their lands and teach their empire religion. In both lands the result was the same. The converts preferred to obey the god of the missionaries rather than their own rulers. Two law systems were in operation at one time. The problem was solved by the extermination of millions of Catholic converts. To this day the Chinese government appoints their own Catholic bishops.

Roman Catholic West - The Roman Empire had many gods. The Roman emperor refereed their squabbles. This made the Roman emperor greater than the gods he judged. The Law handed down by the Roman Emperor was THE law. The system worked until the Christian sect grew in importance. They had their own Law system called The WORD. On-going conflict between Roman law and Christian Law almost brought Roman trade to a standstill. The matter was solved when Emperor Constantine incorporated Christianity as an empire religion with himself as its head. He appointed the popes and bishops and from then on god spoke the words of the emperor. The reading of the Christian Bible containing God's Commandments was banned. Rome then had one law, again.

Anglicanism - Rome claimed the lands of Europe and appointed kings to rule taxable entities called "countries". Roman Catholicism supported the king and the king sent tithes and taxes to Rome.

In England the king grew powerful and broke away from Rome. He appointed his own bishops, made himself pope, kept the taxes, destroyed the Catholic monasteries, suppressed the Catholic "gunpowder plot" to blow up the entire Anglican parliament, and made his own Law the only law of the land. The Catholic Church went underground for 200 years.

Presbyterianism - The Catholic Church owned Scotland. John Knox brought the Reformation to Scotland and the Scots signed the Covenant. They set up presbytery churches (rule from the bottom up) and called themselves Presbyterians. Their Law came straight from the Bible. Even the Scottish king bent his knee to The WORD.

Episcopal England took over presbytery Scotland. Two sets of Laws vied for supremacy. Anglican priests preached to great empty churches. Presbyterian ministers met in small overflowing churches, homes, and barns, and taught The WORD. The Scots listened, believed, and as a result they revolted against the episcopal law of the king - time after time. The episcopal English banned presbyterian meetings and churches were burned or boarded up. Meetings were then held in fields and forests. Revolts still continued. Presbyterian preachers were locked up en mass.⁵ Renegade preachers still held "woods-coventicles", "field-coventicles", and "homecoventicles". Those caught attending these services were imprisoned, killed on the spot, or brought in chains to Edinburgh Castle. Large rewards were posted for renegade Presbyterian preachers who had escaped the general dragnet - dead or alive. Some escaped to America where they taught Patrick Henry and Tom Jefferson. Britain's inability to reconcile two law systems in one country caused the revolt that devastated Scotland and caused her loss of America.

English episcopalianism finally prevailed over Scottish presbyterianism. Scotland's Presbyterian Church in time gradually mutated into an obedient branch of Britain's empire religion which tolerated all religions and gods.

England - In England almost the identical thing happened as in Scotland. There was a rising of puritans demanding the right to live under God's Commandments. This was a direct challenge to the king. After initial success they were betrayed by the commander of their army, Oliver Cromwell, and were confiscated, imprisoned, and banished to America. An empire will not tolerate God's Law System because God's Law System excludes empire. The empire will do whatever is necessary to exist.

Lutheranism - The Roman Church was corrupt. It owned the land of Europe and was a tyrannical landlord both to the kings it had appointed and to the people. Reform minded Catholic priests, protected by local kings, began a Reformation. Teachers taught the people God's Commandments. Learning their rights, the people rose and demanded that Church land which once belonged to their ancestors be divided among them. The local kings wanted the church land for themselves, and threatened to abandon the reformers. The German religious reformer was forced to choose between the kings and the people. He chose the kings - and the kings promptly exterminated the revolting peasants. Reform Catholicism, now called Lutheranism, became a state religion whose leaders were appointed by the local kings and spoke with the voice of the kings.

The Protestant kings and the Catholic kings then waged a 30 year war over who was to rule the church lands and whose laws were to prevail. This war of "state-religion" vs "empire-religion" killed 90% of Germany's population and left the land destitute. It ended when there were not enough peasants left to fight the war. The terms were that Catholics living under Protestant rulers could leave and go to Catholic countries, or they could convert. Protestants living under Catholic Kings could leave to go to Protestant countries or they too could convert.

The alternative was to leave mixed populations of Protestants and Catholics each with their own set of Laws. Two sets of Laws would result in conflict. This is the reason that most German states are either almost entirely Catholic or Protestant today.

Methodism - The Anglican church grew corrupt. Anglican reformers organized and called themselves Methodists. It was another episcopal group - rule from the top down. Methodist missionaries were accepted where Anglican missionaries weren't. This group's missionaries made converts among many important Chinese government officials.

Scandinavia - Learning from history, the government of Sweden banned missionaries. The state religion is Lutheranism. Few attend the state church and the people are open to any belief - especially exotic beliefs of the Orient. They are

Judeo-Christianity - The international merchant owned the media. He wished to expand and consolidate his markets without hindrance from local religious zealots.

To help do this he extended the use of his media to selected preachers on condition that follow their policies. One was that they teach Dharma - "without regard to race, creed, or national origin" - to the general population.

Another policy to be taught was that Jesus Christ was a Jew. Not a Judean, Israelite, or Hebrew, but a Jew! A people who once knew the difference between Edomites and Israelites, forgot.

The "rapture" was also agreeable. This 19th century heresy teaches that before the prophesied evil times come the "church" will be raptured. Thus, instead of staying to fight evil, Judeo- Christian converts can look to being raptured away from the world's problems.⁶

A third policy is that - never, never, NEVER will God's Commandment's be taught on the media. Parables - yes. Commandments - NO! The punishment for homosexuality, murder, kidnaping, or child molestation is never heard because when one repeats God's Commandments he is calling upon The WORD, and that is a strange God to the media owner. The stranger's god does not permit the calling on other strange gods.

The last policy is that the media owner, his people, or his policies and programs are never to be criticized - and they aren't. A cheap price to pay for the riches gained. The largest "christian" sect follows a god who did not exist in the last century.

Conclusion

An empire will not tolerate God's Law System because God's Law System excludes an empire. To exist, the empire will do whatever is necessary to suppress God's Kingdom.

The Hindu system of integrating opposing gods and converting them into friendly gods is the easiest way to suppress hostile religions. To do this the merchant makes available substantial endowments for colleges and seminaries that include Dharma in their curriculums. The result is that these colleges and seminaries churn out an army of fanatical Janisaries, who call themselves Christians, who war against God's Kingdom. These are the officers. Their followers are media converts. A less expensive or more fanatical army was never organized in such a short period of time.

One must distinguish between a teacher of The WORD and the counterfeit Empire priest. There are several ways;

* Fighting God - If a speaker argues against capital punishment when God's Law orders capitol punishment - he is an empire agent. A traitor to God. If he argues for God's Law, especially those Commandments disapproved by the king, he speaks for God. It must be either the one or the other. One cannot support God's Law System and the king's law system at the same time. The one excludes the other.

The Scottish presbyterian preachers of yesteryear knew their fate; follows of The WORD know theirs; an empire will not tolerate God's Law System because God's Law System excludes the empire. To exist, the empire will do whatever is necessary to suppress God's Law.

Until God's Kingdom is finally in place, two systems will exist on earth, each with its own priests; one will prevail. One must distinguish between the two, distinguish friend from foe.

"The enemy is eager to destroy all that call upon the Lord. For he knoweth that upon the day that Israel shall repent, the kingdom of the enemy shall be brought to an end." Testament of Dan 2:16-17.

Empires self-destruct. Our present empire will self-destruct. When that happens we must stand ready to rebuild - and not rebuild another empire, but rebuild a Kingdom in the image of the The WORD - which is the God of the Saxon.

Letter From South Africa

The release of the names of whites being murdered daily is very demoralizing. I think that the real reason for releasing the names is to demoralize the Whites.

The black S. African army invaded Lesotho, a small sovereign mountain country. Lesotho's small army waited for them and shot them to pieces. The Lesothoans did not want them there. The communists in Lesotho had asked for help from our communist regime.

The grandiose ideas this regime has are really something. Mandela and Mbeki are forever flying somewhere to mediate other countries' problems. In the old days, we used to say a black will spend his bit of money to ride on a train. Now-a-days it seems they spend our last money to fly somewhere.

The Truth commission released a four volume report. Old Tutu in his bishop's apparel along with Mandela, did a "Mandela shuffle" on stage at the presentation. Tutu lifted his dress revealing spindly legs while doing the African rhythm. It caused a lot of hilarity.

The Dutch Reformed Church had their annual general synod. There is no difference here between these religious leaders and many corrupt politicians. Prof Pieter Potgieter with Johan Heynes were at the World Council of Churches in Canberra as observers. Heynes said that they longed to be back in the fold.

F.W. deKlerk married the Greek woman, Elita Georgiades, last Saturday. There are few standards left.

There was a meeting between Mandela and the SA Agriculture Union, supposedly about the violence against the farmers. Mandela spoke and said that all the problems are the farmer's own fault.

The ordinary schools are getting worse and private schools are thriving. We always had the old English private schools, then Afrikaans schools were established. Of late, we have many new white English colleges where former English schools are being swamped by blacks. There seems to be a limit to how much liberalism the English can endure.

With best wishes, K.J.

WHY? "Dear Richard Hoskins: In my heart I accept The WORD. My dilemma is that I know that it was Charlemagne bringing Christianity to Europe, as well as the Jews, that made us an on- your-knees soft people more concerned with the Stranger rather than our own people. Comments? G.M. - Florida

RKH: You are right. The religion of the conquered Germans was far closer to The WORD than the "empire religion" Emperor Charlemagne brought to help him rule. Empire religion is a one law system designed to rule different peoples and has little to do with Christianity. All kings try to install a state religion so that god will speak with the king's voice. Empires install "universalism" or an integrationist religion that includes everyone. Dissent is discouraged by eliminating competing religions and peoples as Charlemagne did. Hinduism plus Dharma allows different religions to co-exist as long as they agree to obey the king and respect other religions. It avoids the rough stuff that went with Charlemagne's rule. The WORD has its own people made in its own image. Both The WORD and the "man" made in its image are the enemies of all other gods and all other religions. This is the problem today.

YUGOSLAVIA: "Dear Mr. Hoskins; please explain to me why American politicians seem so intent on sticking their noses into the affairs of Yugoslavia?" H.J. - Indiana

RKH: Yugoslavia, China, and Europe are potential foes for the next war. Capitalism must always have an enemy waiting. After a country goes through its inflationary stage, and people have no more un-mortgaged property to pledge to borrow money into existence, prices drop and commerce stagnates. The people must be made to borrow money into existence even when they don't want to. What better way than a war? A tank costs a million and a plane ten million. It's quick cash. It's the only way capitalism knows to get out of a depression. See WAR CYCLES/PEACE CYCLES, Hoskins.

RELIGIOUS PC TRAINING: "67% of Lutherans agree or probably agree with the statement 'Although there are many religions in the world, most of them lead to the same God.' Also, 56% of respondents agree or probably agree with the statement 'God is satisfied if a person lives the best one can'" says the recently released "Lutheran Brotherhood's Survey of Lutheran Beliefs and Practices." (Christian News)

JEWISH ROOTS: "This is the third part of of a trilogy, having been preceded by biographies of Stalin and Trotsky. The author, a former orthodox Communist and three- star general in the Soviet Army ... became a Russian MP of liberal views. ... The Lenin biography is by far the sharpest in its criticism. ...

There is also an investigation into Lenin's ethnic origin. Here Volkogonov was able to come up with the fact that the founder of the Soviet state was the great-grandson of Moishe Itkovich Blank and the grandson of Srul Moishevick Blank. At his baptism Blank changed his name and patronymic to Aleksandr Dmitrievich. ... In a letter to Stalin, Anna, Lenin's elder sister, wrote: 'It is probably no secret for you that the research on our grandfather shows that he came from a poor Jewish family, that he was, as his baptismal certificate says, the son of a 'Zhitmir burgher, Moishe Blank'. ... Lenin's Jewish origins were 'further confirmation of the exceptional abilities of the Semitic tribe ... " Lenin: Life and Legacy, Dmitri Volkogonov (Edited and translated by Harold Shukman), Harper Collins, £25. (From the Jewish Chronicle, April 21, 1995)

GUN CONTROL: From July 1, 1996 to June 30, 1997, armed robbery in Queensland increased by 23%. The disarmed home owners are not safer under the new uniform gun laws. The proponent of the gun legislation (Howard) attends public meetings in a flak jacket and goes jogging with gun toting bodyguards. (National Interest, Tony Pitt, ed. 79 Ferry
